'Backyard Zoo' Raided By State

WESTLAND, Mich. (AP) — State and federal conservation officers seized 12 animals Friday during a raid on the backyard zoo of a Westland man whose pet lion bit a four-year-old deaf girl earlier this week.

The officials said they would return next week to confiscate more animals, including the lion, Caesar.

Charles Beagle, the Wayne County area supervisor of the state Department of Natural Resources, said he would seek a warrant against the zoo owner, William Mayer, for exhibiting wild animals without a state permit.

Beagle obtained a search warrant Thursday from the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office to make the raid. He said there had been adverse public reaction to the lion's attack on the girl and that "there is no doubt public opinion had a bearing on this."

The 225-pound African lion had clamped his jaws around the girl, Lee Kowalksy, for about 20 seconds Tuesday while Mayer was exhibiting him to children at the Lutheran School for the deaf.

The girl suffered three puncture wounds and several minor scratches and was released from the hospital the next day.

Beagle said he had received about 30 telephone calls from persons upset by the attack on the child and wanting to know why Mayer was allowed to have a lion.

Michigan law prohibits anyone from keeping a wild animal or exhibiting one without a permit, Beagle said.

Mayer, 35, has a sign and ticket booth in front of his house advertising a 50-cent admission. Beagle said, however, that Mayer never had a permit to exhibit or possess wild animals.

Mayer said Friday he has not charged anyone admission to his zoo since last October. He complained that Beagle first brought up the permit matter last September but failed to move against him until this week.

Beagle said the DNR has worked with him (Mayer) for six years to get him to comply with the law. I've been out to his place two or three times since I took over here last summer trying to get him to comply with the law.

That place (the zoo) is a mess. All wild animals are dangerous, and the laws are for the protection of the animals as well as for the protection of people.

Mayer's wife, Sylvia, said "It's hard to understand why for six years they let us go on and then they say 'Now we confiscate.' My husband loves animals, and he may not be much about paperwork but he takes care of these animals."

In addition to the animals confiscated at Mayer's zoo, five animals and birds leased to the Wonderland Mall shopping center in Livonia were also taken.

Two skunks, two possums, four pheasants, two civet cats, a fox squirrel, two coati mundi, two raccoons and two mule swans were picked up in the raid. The confiscated animals and birds were taken to the DNR's animal holding shelter in Westland, where they will be kept until the DNR finds homes at public zoos for them or determines if they can be released in the wild.

A robbery of the Community Finance Co. in Benton Heights was thwarted yesterday when the manager of the office struggled with the would-be bandit, according to police. Benton township police said Thomas L. Pratt was treated at Memorial hospital in St. Joseph and released, police said.

Ford Starts 'Talking Tough'

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — President Ford has started talking tough in the campaign trail. Without naming names, he is implying that his opponents are extreme right-wingers, nitpickers or irresponsible foot-draggers. Ford said only a moderate can win a national election, and he predicted that he'll beat Ronald Reagan in Florida's March 3 GOP presidential primary — the race which brought both candidates to Florida today.

Locker Room Equality

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — The brand-new $4.4 million Stockbridge High School may have to be remodeled because the girls' locker room is 32 per cent smaller than the facility for the boys. Under federal rules, the facilities must be comparable or the school could lose federal aid. Kathy Smith, a senior athlete, noticed the discrepancy when she toured the facilities and noted the difference in size. The girls' locker room is 23 feet by 25 feet, but the boys is 29 by 33. She complained to the Stockbridge newspaper, saying she thought the difference was unfair. "As a female athlete, I feel my parents have spent the same amount of tax money as they did on my brothers ... so why can't I have access to the same facilities as the boys do?" she asked.

JOHNNY DORTCH Convicted Of Son's Murder

Conviction Means 'Life' For Dortch

Johnny Dortch was convicted Friday of first degree murder and conspiracy to commit murder in the insurance-scheme slaying of his illegitimate son. But jurors acquitted him of a charge of first degree murder in the death of the boy's mother after deliberating nine hours Thursday and Friday.

Dortch heard the verdict with no sign of emotion and was remanded to the county jail in await a mandatory sentence of life imprisonment on the murder conviction. The maximum sentence on the conspiracy conviction is also life.

The jury returned its verdicts late Friday afternoon after 11 days of trial in Berrien Circuit court after Judge Julian E. Hughes had warned spectators he didn't "even want to hear any heavy breathing."

Dortch, 27, of Benton township, was accused in the shotgun-slayings of Brenda Freeman, 26, and her son, Johnny, 7, whose decomposed bodies were found in a ditch off Black Lake road in Pipestone township on Sept. 27, 1974.

The prosecution, headed by Chief Asst. Prosecutor Robert U. McDowell, alleged during the trial that Dortch, a former insurance salesman, took out a policy on the boy's life and hired another man to murder him to collect the insurance.

Dortch took the stand during the trial and testified he had nothing to do with the murders and didn't even know the two had been killed until he read about the murders in the newspaper.

The convictions wrap up a trio of related cases in Berrien county, according to McDowell, all of which involved murder for insurance. Terry Langford has been convicted of the Freeman murders and sentenced to life imprisonment, and Lorenzo Criss, another former insurance salesman, was convicted of second degree murder and sentenced to life in prison in connection with the murder of (See back page, sec. 1, col. 7)

Dowagiac Firm Gets Exemption

DOWAGIAC — The Jensen corporation has received final approval from the state tax commission for a property tax exemption certificate on a $1,047,500 renovation of present plant facilities now underway here.

According to City Manager Henry Graper Jr., the certificate was approved by the state tax commission and allows the firm to pay no property taxes on the improvements for the next 12 years.

Last November, an officer of the firm told the Dowagiac city council that approval would mean a savings of $119,000 for the 12-year period. The council gave its preliminary approval to the certificate in November.

The firm's officer, David Tennent, vice president for finance, had said the expansion project will result in an additional 30 to 100 new jobs.

The certificate is the first approved for a Dowagiac industry under a 1974 state law passed to encourage industrial expansion, thus creating additional jobs and ultimately additional tax revenue.

The expansion project calls for an additional wood laminating production line to be installed at the firm's plant at 200 Spaulding street. Also planned are renovations and additions to the firm's corporate, engineering and management offices.

State Lists 80 Animals, Plants As Going Or Gone

By SUSAN AGER Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Natural Resources Commission has tentatively approved a list of 80 birds, plants and other creatures facing extinction, or perhaps already lost from Michigan's wildlife.

The list includes 31 endangered species and 49 threatened species, including the Kirtland Warbler, the Eastern timber wolf, the barn owl, the American chestnut, the Northern bald eagle and the peregrine falcon.

Also included are the Indiana bat, last seen in Michigan in the 1940s; the blue pike, a fish believed to have been extinct since the 1800s; and six varieties of ciscoes or chubbs, the victim of small mesh gill nets used by commercial fishermen for years.

Jack Bails, Department of Natural Resources executive assistant, said Friday most of the creatures are those whose natural habitats have been destroyed, or those who fell to pesticides.

"Taking of these species (by hunters) is not a primary problem," he said. "But people are developing land, and agencies are permitting projects that have destroyed the habitat these species are accustomed to."

Eastern box turtles, however, have become scarce simply because children take them as pets, he said. They are on the threatened list.

Endangered species are in "immediate danger of becoming extinct" throughout the United States, he said.

These include the Kirtland Warbler, which nests only in Michigan. Some 600 birds departed for winter in the Bahamas last year, and Bails said he's hoping as many return this spring.

Threatened species, he said, face extinction in Michigan, though not necessarily the rest of the country. That list of 49 plants and animals is an "early warning list," he said.

Compiled by DNR and university specialists over the past year, the list may be revised at public hearings or by the legislative Administrative Rules Committee over the next few months, Bails said.

The DNR hopes to protect the species by first finding them in the state, then maintaining their living conditions through protective DNR programs already underway.

These include the DNR's natural river designation which bans development along some rivers, and methods used to bar development along the Great Lakes or on floodlands.

The DNR hopes to receive federal funding by spring for the program, he said, but still may protect the species, once located, through its own internal programs.

Eventually, the DNR hopes to create artificial habitats for some of the creatures, including some wetland insects, reptiles and amphibians which have disappeared along with the state's wetlands.

Fines for killing any of the species on the final list will be up to $1,000, he said, though many of the Michigan endangered species are also on the federal endangered list.

Taking of those is a misdemeanor punishable by up to $10,000, he said.

with intent to rob Pratt at the Community Finance Co. office was Dennis Roy Everett, 24, of M-51, Dowagiac. Everett demanded an examination when arraigned later Friday in Fifth District court. He was lodged in jail when he failed to post a $25,000 bond.

The warrant said the weapon involved was a star-shaped steel club.

Pratt resides in Coloma where he ran unsuccessfully last fall as a city commission candidate.

Pratt told police he and an office employee, Laura Tarbuton, 27, were alone in the office when a man entered to ask about a $1,300 loan to purchase a used car.

The man suddenly swung at Pratt with a hard object and then jumped over a counter toward a safe. Police were told, Pratt said he grabbed the intruder's arm. During a scuffle, a wig of shoulder-length hair the intruder wore fell to the floor, along with a pair of sunglasses.

Pratt said the intruder broke free and fled on foot, without any loot.

Police said Laura Tarbuton triggered a silent alarm and then phoned the police department during the scuffle. The call was received at 8:40 a.m.

Police said Pratt provided a description and a man was arrested soon afterward about a block from the office. He was on Guard That County Asset, Mr. Muhammad, Please!

Hey, Muhammad Ali, take it easy! You can't spend all those millions and Desides, now that you've become an estate owner in Berrien county, the county's biggest name, and a potential source of local prosperity and tax revenue, don't take any unnecessary risks with that wonderful "bod."

We're not necessarily saying, Sir, that you did push that Rolls Royce of yours up to 105 miles an hour. It's just that State Police Trooper Murphy feels he had to give you a ticket for your own protection. He says the first time he stopped you, you weren't going quite that far over the speed limit. And he let you go with a warning because, like virtually everyone else who's met you personally in Berrien county, he likes you.

Nor are we, Mr. Ali, condemning what is allegedly your penchant for fast driving.

Everyone knows you never drink alcoholic beverages. Everyone also knows you may have the quickest reflexes in the world. So, guaranteed to be quick and sober, you'd probably be a safer driver at 105 than many of us would be coming out of our favorite country club or bowling alley on a Saturday night.

We are not about to cast the first stone from our glass house, Mr. Heavyweight Champion of the World!

But kids do emulate you, Muhammad. And hundreds of millions of us oldsters admire your ability and brains, as well as get a kick out of your unquenchable humor.

So, do take care of yourself.

Today's Primaries Are Smoke Drenched, Too

Wisconsin, the forerunner in much of the country's experiments in political legislation, was the first state to adopt a Presidential primary. In 1905 its residents elected delegates to the national party conventions.

This replaced the long standing caucuses of the party faithful at local conventions held throughout the Badger state.

Pennsylvania went into a modification of the plan a year later and in 1910 Oregon took the process one step further toward what is the prevailing model today in over 30 states. The voters not only elected the delegates but expressed their preference between the announced Presidential and Vice Presidential candidates.

Oregon's departure was hailed widely as rendering party bosses in smoke filled rooms a defunct species. The one innovation in the Oregon model is today's public opinion poll advertised by its researchers as a well nigh infallible indicator of where the Presidential hopefuls stand at any given moment prior to their confrontation under the main tent.

The Bicentennial year and February being the starting time for the Presidential primaries among the two major parties, make this as good a time as any to examine into how effectively the nobility of purpose behind the Wisconsin experiment has become a fact of life.

The first observation clearly shows that winning a primary or making an impressive showing in a series of them does not guarantee success at the national convention.

Teddy Roosevelt captured 278 of the 360 delegates as committed first roll call choices to the 1912 Republican convention which renominated President William Howard Taft. Roosevelt had defeated Taft in his home state of Ohio. Woodrow Wilson subsequently won election over both candidates. Taft as the Republican regular, and Roosevelt as the Bull Moose, due to the split in the G.O.P. ranks.

Sen. William E. Borah of Idaho captured a majority in the 1936 Republican primaries, yet lost to Alf Landon of Kansas at the national convention. Similarly Tom Dewey polled the favored spot in the G.O.P.'s 1940 primaries, only to be steamrolled at the convention by Wendell Willkie.

Dewey did turn the tables four years later. Willkie had not entered a single primary in 1940. In 1944 he engaged in the Wisconsin preliminary and lost to Dewey. This proved to be the icing on the cake of a growing Republican disenchantment with Willkie as FDR's chosen prophet of "one world" once the war had been won.

More recently George C. Wallace performed most creditably in the 1972 Democratic primaries he chose to enter. Nonetheless, through a rigging of the delegate selection process of his making, George McGovern easily pushed Wallace aside at the convention.

Except in a few strongholds such as Chicago, the Presidential primary has contributed its share to relegating the party boss to the history books.

In the process, however, the direct primary for all purposes has reduced party discipline to almost a nullity, and nurtured candidate and officeholder responsibility beyond all acceptable limits. The voter who boasts of choosing the man and disregarding his label, in reality, is opting for a will-o-the-wisp.

An entirely unforeseen, unintended result from the Presidential primary is to create what the clean politics people say is so detrimental to the election process. The primary has vastly increased the cost of campaigning. It is a reasonable guess the Ford and Reagan camps may spend fairly close to as much on their primary tiltings as will the G.O.P. on the election itself. Some of the Democratic hopefuls already are complaining this financial game is not worth the candle.

In this year's tight budget condition for many states and local units the cost to hold a Presidential primary is a burden they would like to shed. A proposal went before the Michigan legislature yesterday to cancel our primary installed in 1972.

The most to be said for the preferential primary is the exposure it gives the lone wolf candidate, the man or woman utterly lacking in what remains of party organization today.

Whether the existence of organization screening is good or bad is debatable in equal strength in each direction, but for the sake of its own existence, an organization is normally minded to put its best foot forward.

Where the determination is left to an outright popularity contest, the outcome at best can only be a 50-50 rating.

Thirty or more primaries held in different states and on varying dates is wearying beyond the effort required to engage in them and not overly instructive to the electorate nationwide.

Either the present method should be scrapped or a single national primary should be put into effect.

No-Skill Jobs Era Is Gone, St. Joseph MESC Man Says

Editor,

There was a time when automotive and other large industries had room for unskilled workers. That era passed when automation and the computers eliminated thousands of jobs.

Forty-five to 50 years ago an eighth grade education was good enough for most people to pursue careers in law, banking, journalism, skilled trades and other occupations including the American Presidency. Times have changed — where college degrees, associate degrees or high school diplomas are required for most jobs.

In this modern age, it is unnecessary to be handicapped by lack of knowledge. Anyone with the desire to learn can be taught skills unheard of at the time of this nation's birth.

Young men and women between the ages of 16 and 21 are urged to investigate the opportunities offered through Job Corps, among them, learning a useful trade and assistance in obtaining a high school diploma.

FANTASTIC PROGRAMS TO MY EASY CHAIR

Editor,

immensity of that presentation and behold it in awe and wonder.

Just think: thanks to the 8-hour time difference, the marvel of the satellite relay and video tape, we can enjoy the highlights of the day in Innsbruck the same night in the comfort of home!

It isn't just a hurried, raw, newsreel picture, but a carefully edited program, complete with instant replays, personal interviews and background stories. And it retains the thrill of the contests, undiminished by the knowledge of the outcome, broadcast earlier on the radio. What a gathering of expert talents, in front of the camera and behind it!

My thanks to the Olympics, ABC-TV and the sponsors for bringing these fantastic programs to my easy chair!

GOVERNOR'S ORDER IS CRITICIZED

Editor,

Governor Milliken's executive order 1975-12 is an outrage upon the whole of society.

Just when mental illness is being brought out of the dark ages, and there was a ray of hope for these human beings, he blinds it out with one stroke of the executive pen.

We need more services for these people. More outpatient care, half-way houses and outreach programs so that there is help available for them and their families on a 24 hour a day basis.

It takes a very short-sighted person not to realize that in the long run it is going to cost the taxpayer millions more to consign these people to a human garbage dump.

Letters of rage should be pouring into Lansing from all branches of the medical field, as well as ordinary concerned citizens.

An intensive effort against ramshackle and abandoned buildings in Benton township is picking up momentum, the township building department's annual report indicates. The St. Joseph township newly formed volunteer fire department may have two new fire trucks on March 1, with no place to put them, it was revealed Monday night at the regular meeting of the township board. Supervisor Harold Morse stated that the two new trucks are scheduled for delivery on March 1, but the new township fire station, which is being erected on the township property at the intersection of Hilltop road and Washington avenue, may not be completed by that time. Extreme cold weather has upset the schedule on the construction of the new 38 by 52-foot concrete block fire station now being constructed.

Art Smith, famous air mail pilot and stunt flyer killed Friday night at Montpelier, Ohio, when his plane crashed into a tree, was not unknown in the twin cities. Many years ago, when the flyer and aviation were both younger, Smith piloted his crude machine around this territory. He and William S. Bastar, manager of the Hotel Vincent, became close friends and "Billy" took such an interest in the flying youngster that the pair traveled thousands of miles here and abroad, with Bastar in charge of the business of "barnstorming," while Smith gave flying exhibitions.

Congress Caught In Cookie Jar

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The Supreme Court caught Congress with its hand in the cookie jar. In attempting to make themselves creators, judges and enforcers of the election commission's requirements, they included in the election campaign act of 1974, Senators and Representatives were attempting a power grab, or so decreed the Supreme Court. They were taking over authority the constitution vested in the President and their "just let my head in the tent" practice, it allowed to continue, would weaken the constitutional system of checks and balances between the president and the courts.

It is clear that Congress' action here would not have materially weakened the power and influence of President Ford or his successors. But in the past year, taking advantage of Watergate and the forced resignation of President Nixon, activists in the Senate and House have been jabbing and slashing in repeated attacks aimed at gaining broad powers for Congress and cutting deeply into the powers of the presidency.

Their touted thesis over the years, and culminating with Mr. Nixon, was that the influence of Congress has gradually eroded and, that the presidency has strengthened to a dangerous degree.

Congressional committees have taken on themselves a new day-to-day authority in foreign and domestic affairs, not only peeking over the shoulders of department and agency officials, as they correctly should, but in some outrageous instances, attempting to direct operations.

Now there is no doubt Congress has, and rightfully, the authority to set policies, to declare war or refuse to declare war, including semi-wars and covert actions, to vote for or against programs and their budgets; and to act as a tight check on everything the president and his agents do or don't do. But of late Congressional committees have stepped into executive rules which could seem to be unconstitutional. Whether a Congress or the president is right or wrong in any particular instance is not the issue.

In an attempt to shift the balance still more, a series of bills have been submitted in the Congress.

— To create an attorney general independent of the president but answerable to Congress.

— To create a consumer protection agency which would be answerable to Congress in considerable measure — with the President having but limited control.

In this struggle, the election commission's creation was but one small battle in a campaign.

The significance of the Supreme Court decision, thus goes far beyond its effect on the campaign law. It suggests the Court will strictly rule that any other attempts by Congress to absorb new powers will be stricken down.

As Justice Byron White expresses it, "The basic approach (of the men who framed the Constitution) was that official power should be divided between the Executive, Legislative and Judicial Departments."

The decision to give the President the exclusive power to initiate appointments was thoughtful and deliberate. The framers were attempting to structure the three departments of government so that each would have affirmative powers strong enough to resist the encroachment of the others. A fundamental tenet was that the same persons should not both legislate and administer the law.

Use Bicentennial As Leftist Weapon

What a wily old Jeremy Rifkin is! And what a lot of hilarious jokes have been perpetrated by his People's Bicentennial Commission (PBC) — things like breaking up other Bicentennial celebrations while waving placards quoting Thomas Jefferson or Sam Adams, staging a Boston Old Party (by tossing empty oil drums into Boston Harbor, as a protest against "energy profiteers"), and presenting the Bill of Rights to a thousand or so citizens and then reporting that most of them failed to recognize it and would not endorse it and that some said it sounded like Communist propaganda — though that last opinion might well have been something to do with the particular individual from the PBC who was thrusting the document under the citizen's nose.

All very funny, however, he has, and the PBC and Rifkin are, as Newsweek put it recently, "mediagenic."

Our friend Jeremy, however, is not just some vaguely leftist prankster enjoying a good laugh while making some vague attacks upon "big corporations" and "this new economic royalty of stockholders, corporate executives, and wealthy families" who in his formulation are the contemporary equivalent of George III.

Jeremy Rifkin is a veteran of the anti-Vietnam war movement, and if you had the endurance to follow the Marxist fringe publications during the later phases of that conflict you would be familiar enough with his name.

In 1971, for example, he wrote a singularly revealing article for New American Movement, a Maoist periodical. This article contains the theoretical genesis of the People's Bicentennial Commission.

Rifkin argued that the heritage of the American Revolution must be used as a "tactical weapon" against those now in power by focusing on their inability to "translate our revolutionary dreams into reality."

The radical left, Rifkin said, should take advantage of the Bicentennial to link the revolutionary ideas of Thomas Paine, Sam Adams, and Benjamin Franklin and the American people with Lenin, Mao, Che Guevara, and the struggle of all oppressed people in the world.

There you have it. The system of self-government for which the American founders fought the Revolution is to be linked to the totalitarian despotisms of the Leninists, Maoists, and Castroites.

The word "People's" in the title "People's Bicentennial Commission" thus carries the meaning of the same word in "People's Republic."

One of his ploys is a so-called Declaration of Economic Independence, which has received much publicity. It employs the form and some of the language of the original Declaration but substitutes "economic systems" where "governments" occurs in the original. Modishly enough, it uses "people" where the original said "men." So far as the upshot of this document can be ascertained, it appears to advocate the formation of workers' soviets.

The People's Bicentennial Commission has received an enormous amount of publicity, perhaps largely because of Rifkin's gift for the colorful stunt. Admittedly, it is refreshing to come upon a Marxist with a sense of humor.

If you read Newsweek, Playboy, or even U.S. News and World Report, you have by now heard of him, and favorably.

Perhaps not surprisingly, PBC groups have begun to make the campaign of Ronald Reagan a special target, picketing his appearances in a replay of the old 1960s protest format. On balance, however, this kind of thing is almost certainly a plus for Reagan — the students at Berkeley, it will be recalled, contributed mightily to his million-vote victory in 1960.

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Guard That County Asset, Mr. Muhammad, Please!

Hey, Muhammad Ali, take it easy! You can't spend all those millions dead.

Besides, now that you've become an estate owner in Berrien county, the county's biggest name, and a potential source of local prosperity and tax revenue, don't take any unnecessary risks with that wonderful "bod."

We're not necessarily saying, Sir, that you did push that Rolls Royce of yours up to 105 miles on I-94. It's just that State Police Trooper Murphy feels he had to give you a ticket for your own protection. He says the first time he stopped you, you weren't going quite that far over the speed limit. And he let you go with a warning because, like virtually everyone else who's met you personally in Berrien county, he likes you.

Nor are we, Mr. Ali, condemning what is allegedly your penchant for fast driving.

Everyone knows you never drink alcoholic beverages. Everyone also knows you may have the quickest reflexes in the world. So, guaranteed to be quick and sober, you'd probably be a safer driver at 105 than many of us would be coming out of our favorite country club or bowling alley on a Saturday night.

We are not about to cast the first stone from our glass house, Mr. Heavyweight Champion of the World!

But kids do emulate you, Muhammad. And hundreds of millions of us oldsters admire your ability and brains, as well as get a kick out of your unquenchable humor.

So, do take care of yourself.

Today's Primaries Are Smoke Drenched, Too

Wisconsin, the forerunner in much of the country's experiments in political legislation, was the first state to adopt a Presidential primary. In 1905 its residents elected delegates to the national party conventions.

This replaced the long standing caucuses of the party faithful at local conventions held throughout the Badger state.

Pennsylvania went into a modification of the plan a year later and in 1910 Oregon took the process one step further toward what is the prevailing model today in over 30 states. The voters not only elected the delegates but expressed their preference between the announced Presidential and Vice Presidential candidates.

Oregon's departure was hailed widely as rendering party bosses in smoke filled rooms a defunct species. The one innovation in the Oregon model is today's public opinion poll advertised by its researchers as a well nigh infallible indicator of where the Presidential hopefuls stand at any given moment prior to their confrontation under the main tent.

The Bicentennial year and February being the starting time for the Presidential primaries among the two major parties, make this as good a time as any to examine into how effectively the nobility of purpose behind the Wisconsin experiment has become a fact of life.

The first observation clearly shows that winning a primary or making an impressive showing in a series of them does not guarantee success at the national convention.

Teddy Roosevelt captured 278 of the 360 delegates as committed first roll call choices to the 1912 Republican convention which renominated President William Howard Taft. Roosevelt had defeated Taft in his home state of Ohio. Woodrow Wilson subsequently won election over both candidates, Taft as the Republican regular, and Roosevelt as the Bull Moose, due to the split in the G.O.P. ranks.

Sen. William E. Borah of Idaho captured a majority in the 1936 Republican primaries, yet lost to Alf Landon of Kansas at the national convention. Similarly Tom Dewey polled the favored spot in the G.O.P.'s 1940 primaries, only to be steamrolled at the convention by Wendell Willkie.

Dewey did turn the tables four years later. Willkie had not entered a single primary in 1940. In 1944 he engaged in the Wisconsin preliminary and lost to Dewey. This proved to be the icing on the cake of a growing Republican disenchantment with Willkie as FDR's chosen prophet of "one world" once the war had been won.

More recently George C. Wallace performed most creditably in the 1972 Democratic primaries he chose to enter. Nonetheless, through a rigging of the delegate selection process of his making, George McGovern easily pushed Wallace aside at the convention.

Except in a few strongholds such as Chicago, the Presidential primary has contributed its share to relegating the party boss to the history books.

In the process, however, the direct primary for all purposes has reduced party discipline to almost a nullity, and nurtured candidate and officeholder responsibility beyond all acceptable limits. The voter who boasts of choosing the man and disregarding his label, in reality, is opting for a wil-o-the-wisp.

An entirely unforeseen, unintended result from the Presidential primary is to create what the clean politics people say is so detrimental to the election process. The primary has vastly increased the cost of campaigning. It is a reasonable guess the Ford and Reagan camps may spend fairly close to as much on their primary tiltings as will the G.O.P. on the election itself. Some of the Democratic hopefuls already are complaining this financial game is not worth the candle.

In this year's tight budget condition for many states and local units the cost to hold a Presidential primary is a burden they would like to shed. A proposal went before the Michigan legislature yesterday to cancel our primary installed in 1972.

JOHN LYSTER
Board president

Appointee Will Lead Bangor School Board

BANGOR — One of three men appointed to the Bangor school board by Gov. William Milliken earlier this week was elected president of the board in a special meeting yesterday morning. John Lyster, 53, a dairy and grain farmer, will serve as president of the temporary school board until five new members can be elected in a special election March 22.

The election was made necessary after five board members were ousted in a recall election Feb. 7. Lyster and two other school district residents, Clark Dowell and Donald Freestone, were appointed by the governor to serve on the board until an election is held. The three have agreed not to run in the special election.

Dowell was elected vice president of the board yesterday.

Kasewurm Denies 'Kickback' Charge

Stevensville Mayor Arthur Kasewurm has denied an allegation of "kickback" on cable television made in a campaign flyer distributed by his primary election opponent, Ruben B. Newman.

Kasewurm said what Newman charges as "kickback" is a franchise fee for cable TV that is required by the Federal Communications Commission.

Under the heading "Kickback - Cable Television!!!" the flyer states:

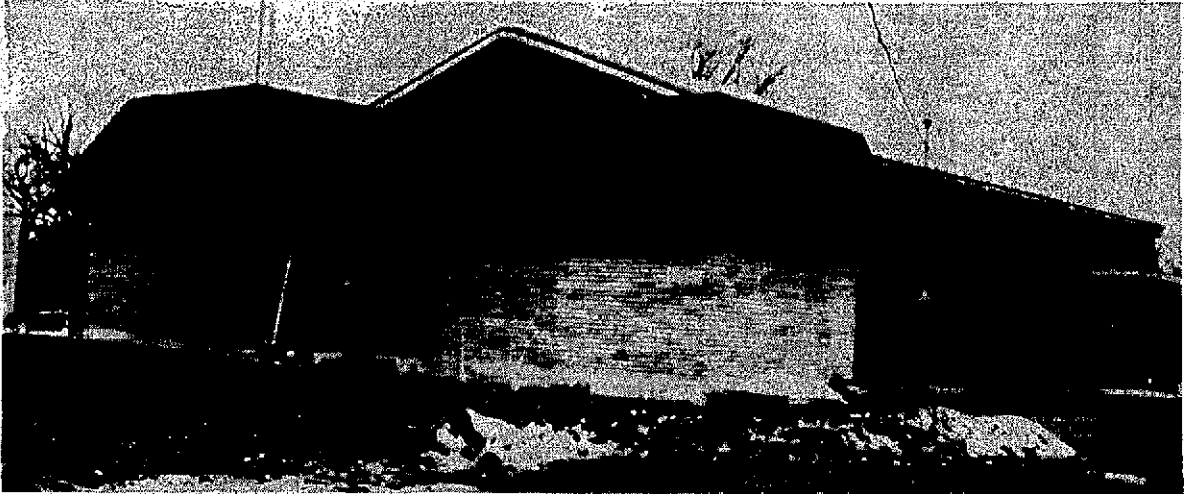

"What type of an ethical business gives a $1,000 kickback to the village council for allowing cable television into our village? The customer pays this extra $1,000. Surely, there are more ethical ways of receiving revenue for the village!!!"

In an answering statement, Kasewurm and Village Clerk Bernice Schoenfelder said the franchise fee required by the FCC would be paid to Village of Stevensville not the village council members.

They said the council is studying a proposed ordinance presented by the company that wants to operate cable TV in Stevensville. That proposal drafted by the cable TV company's attorney suggests a franchise fee of $1 per user per year be paid to the village.

Kasewurm and Mrs. Schoenfelder also said: "Any irrevocable franchise granted to any cable television outfit would require a vote of the citizens of the village."

DAV's Grand Opening Tonight

Twin Cities Chapter 17, Disabled American Veterans, will have a grand opening tonight at the chapter's new home, 1209 Pipestone street, Benton township.

Chapter Commander Virginia Yeske Pastrick said all veterans groups in the Twin Cities are invited to attend the event which begins with a ribbon cutting at 6:15.

Presiding will be State Commander Vivian Hughes Elise of Lansing and Mrs. Pastrick. Chester Clute of Battle Creek will be master of ceremonies. There will be a buffet luncheon and music by Quin Harbin and his band. The grand opening will continue Sunday.

The new home is on a lot next to the site of the old clubhouse which has been demolished. The shell of the new building went up in 1972, but it stood empty for two years because of lack of funds, Mrs. Pastrick noted.

The cornerstone was placed last summer, and today the building represents an investment of $47,000 but is worth $75,000 because most of the work was done by members and some materials were donated, Mrs. Pastrick said.

The 2,500 square-foot clubhouse has a 20-foot bar in the center, dance floor, lounge and kitchen.

DAV Chapter 17 has 472 members and an auxiliary of 50. The chapter received its charter in 1931 and held its meetings in Memorial hall, 415 Lake boulevard, St. Joseph. The late Jules L. Spooner was the founder and served 17 years as chapter commander and service officer.

His wife, Edna, founded the auxiliary in 1943. Mrs. Spooner, 86, still lives in the Benton Harbor area.

The chapter bought the Rouscher property at 1209 Pipestone in 1966.

The DAV was founded nationally in 1921 and has lobbied for laws benefitting veterans.

U-M Prexy Pay Boosted

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state's highest paid public official — University of Michigan President Robben Fleming — got a little better than a 3 per cent pay raise last year. Fleming received an increase to $67,725. Michigan's second highest paid public official is President Raymond L. Benton Funding Adviser Warns Of 'Siphon' Effort

By MIKE WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer

A member of Benton township's Community Development Advisory committee says he is against attempts to channel federal money from township construction projects into social service programs.

But Frank Larson, a member of the advisory committee which is slated to recommend how the township should spend its $1.22 million 1976-1977 Community Development block grant, said a majority of the advisory committee appears in favor of shifting the funds to social service programs.

A public hearing will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the township hall to receive suggestions from citizens on how the federal funds should be spent.

"Efforts are now being made by some elements of Benton township and Benton Harbor to siphon off funds for software programs that have no real impact on the future of Benton township as a community," Larson said.

The federal act creating the Community Development program was signed into law by former President Richard Nixon to replace the Model Cities program. Judd Spray, director of the township Community Development program, said Community Development, unlike Model Cities, is designed primarily to fund "hardware" or construction programs. "Under Community Development, social programs are only supposed to be funded if they lend support to the hardware programs," Spray said.

The proposal developed by the township Community Development staff has earmarked only $54,000 out of the total $1.22 million grant for social service programs. The rest is for "hardware" programs such as housing rehabilitation, relocation payments, public works improvements and acquisition of property. A remaining $150,000 is set aside for administration of the program.

The hearing Tuesday is designed to hear citizens' feelings on the proposal. Larson said he fears the hearing will be stacked with social service program workers and advisory committee members requesting a greater share for social service programs.

Eleven social service agencies have requested more than $200,000 from the block grant. Only three agencies have been recommended for the $54,000 in funding under the proposed grant.

Larson said many of the advisory committee members are affiliated with area social service programs. At least nine of the 19 members are affiliated with social service programs and five of the nine members are also members of social service agencies requesting money from the township, according to Larson.

Spray said there is no conflict of interest in the fact that some members are affiliated with social service programs because the committee has only an "advisory" function and that the township board of trustees will ultimately decide how to spend the funds.

The advisory committee will put together a final recommendation after two public hearings. The committee will then submit the recommendation to the township board of trustees who will make the final decision on the application for funds.

Probate Court To Determine 'Fitness' Of Arrested Mother

By NICK SMITH

Probate court proceedings have begun against a Benton township woman whose two children were taken from her when she was arrested Wednesday for shoplifting.

Asst. Prosecutor John Sullivan said a Probate court hearing will be held for Jamie Ellen Anderson, 20, of 30 Eastman avenue, to determine whether she is a "fit mother."

No criminal charges will be brought against the woman, he said, but the probate hearing could result in the children being taken from her permanently if she is shown to be a negligent mother.

The woman was arrested for shoplifting at Benton Harbor K-Mart Wednesday, and police contacted juvenile authorities when the two children with her were observed wearing very little clothing.

The woman's 11-month-old daughter, who appeared ill, was taken to Mercy hospital. She was reportedly suffering from a circulatory ailment and is still hospitalized, Mercy officials report. Her son has been placed in a foster home, according to Sullivan.

Yesterday in Berrien District court Jamie Anderson pleaded guilty to the shoplifting charge. She was placed on presentence investigation and ordered held without bond by Judge John T. Hammond.

And she pleaded guilty in a charge of allowing a dog to run at large Oct. 10 in Benton township. She was sentenced to fine and costs of $20 or three days in jail.

Two Benton township women arrested with Jamie Anderson for shoplifting at K-Mart also pleaded guilty yesterday and were sentenced. Esther L. Grison, 19, of 2240 Red Arrow highway, was sentenced to $120, and Mary F. Cleary, 23, of 2258 Butler, was sentenced to $122.

Two of four ADC dads arrested this week on warrants for non-payment of child support payments were sentenced to jail Friday in Berrien Circuit court.

Edward Pastrick, special investigator with the Berrien friend of the court's office, reported:

Dennis L. Simmons, of 816 Monroe street, Benton Harbor, was sentenced to six months in jail after Judge Julian E. Hughes found him in contempt of court for $6,278 arrears for five children on ADC.

Simmons was also placed on three years probation for the arrearage. Pastrick said Simmons has not made a support payment in 2½ years.

Arthur Cannon, of 719 Buss, Benton Harbor, was sentenced to five weekends in jail by Judge Chester J. Byrns for $3,276 arrears for two ADC children. Byrns also found Cannon in contempt of court, placed him on two years probation, and ordered him to sign a wage assignment of $15 weekly support and $5 weekly on the arrearage.

Hughes threatened James Dixon, of 521 Boynton, Benton Harbor, with 90 days in jail if he misses one support payment after holding him in contempt for $7,045 arrears for two children on ADC. Dixon was placed on three years probation and told to execute a wage assignment of $24 weekly support and $24 weekly towards the arrearage.

Donald McGuire, of 227½ Elizabeth street, Buchanan, was held in contempt and placed on three years probation by Hughes for $1,794 arrears for two children on ADC, and told to sign a wage assignment of $23 weekly support plus $5 weekly on the arrearage.

MORMAN MISSIONARIES Serving Church Here

Eight young elders of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormons) are serving as missionaries for the church in southwestern Michigan.

Stationed in the twin cities are Elder Clyde Cook of Price, Utah, and Elder David Terry of Springville, Utah, and stationed in Waterford are Elder William Bigler of Heber, Ariz., and Elder Kent Silver of Holladay, Utah.

Others serving in the area are

Elder Stuart Parkinson and Elder Jeffrey Wise in Niles, and Elder Randall Coats and Elder Stanley Pack, in South Haven.

The elders will serve in the area for an indefinite time and will be contacting people in the area to share with them the family-oriented concepts of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and the significance of the Book of Mormon to persons of all faiths.

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints is dedicated to the support of the family and of the home. The Book of Mormon is named after a man named Mormon who lived in the Americas about 400 A.D. Mormon was a prophet who had abridged the records of his people who inhabited the Americas and are ancestors of the American Indian, according to the elders.

The elders are among 24,000 missionaries that are spread over the earth in all the free countries of the world.

Russel Hansen is president of the mission in this area and is responsible for 200 missionaries.

Mormon missionaries give two years of their lives to serve the church. They save their money from the time they are young to go on missions and support themselves.

There is no paid ministry in the church and they don't accept contributions.

The elders will speak at churches, clubs, schools and homes. Those wishing more information may contact Elders Cook and Terry at 925-4228 or Elders Bigler and Silver at 463-7097.

CHURCH NEWS OF RELIGIOUS ACTIVITIES

THE BIBLE

No. 226. The Book of Proverbs: Discipline

Many of the admonitions found in the book of Proverbs are maxims or aphorisms which specifically emphasize desirable character traits or modes of conduct. Because it is a requisite for wisdom and the good life, discipline is highly prized by the wise.

The sage who addressed himself to the topic of discipline taught that corporal punishment is the appropriate method of disciplining a child: "Apply thine ear unto instruction, and thine ears to the words of knowledge. Withhold not correction from the child; for if thou beatest him with the rod, he shall not die. Thou shalt beat him with the rod, and shalt deliver his soul from hell." (Proverbs 23:12-14)

However, another important aspect of discipline involves constructive criticism. "The ear that heareth the reproof of life abideth among the wise. He that refuseth instruction despiseth his own soul; but he that heareth reproof getteth understanding. The fear of the Lord is the instruction of wisdom; and before honour is humility." (Proverbs 15:31-33)

Helping Earthquake Victims

Baroda Congregation

BARODA — Members of the Baroda Church of God are working to assist their friends in earthquake-torn Guatemala.

The response of the parishioners is because of their three-year involvement with the Guatemalan people, according to the Rev. Dennis Kissell, pastor.

According to Associated Press report, the massive earthquake which rolled through Guatemala City Feb. 4 registered 7.5 on the Richter scale and left more than 15,000 dead, 40,000 injured and 200,000 homeless.

The Rev. Kissell said, last year the Baroda congregation supplied over 200,000 vitamins to the Rev. Isai Calderon and his medical assistants for distribution in the same areas hit by the earthquake.

The Rev. Kissell last year also served as tour director twice for Church of God members who wanted to see "missions in action."

Eight members of the Baroda Church of God spent one or more weeks last year in Guatemala assisting the Church of God there.

The Rev. Kissell reports he has had direct word from Guatemala twice since the earthquake by radio to the United States and then telephone from the Southwest.

He says at least two of the homes where he stayed in Guatemala were completely destroyed and most of the villages he visited suffered great damage.

Many of the areas, which are within 25 miles of Guatemala City, are still cut off except by air.

At the Mission Headquarters Building in Guatemala, the Rev. Calderon and his wife are sleeping in the front yard of the damaged building so they can be near their working telephone. Their family was asleep inside the building when the quake struck, but all are reported safe.

On Saturday, Feb. 7, the Rev. Calderon attempted to take food supplies to Tecpan, one of the villages hardest hit. According to the Rev. Kissell the pastor in Tecpan had lost three grandchildren and members of his church with many injured. There has been little or no food available to the families.

One of the problems, according to the Rev. Kissell, is that it is difficult for the government to learn what the villages need because of the language differences.

En Boca del Monte is only 12 miles from the Rev. Calderon, but he has been unable to reach the people there. The pastor in Palzun reported his daughter and two sons were killed in the earthquake, and when asked about various buildings, he answered, "It is gone."

According to the Rev. Kissell, the Guatemalan government, with the assistance of many other nations in the Americas, is doing an excellent job of helping the people.

He said the rebuilding of Guatemala should be faster than in Managua, Nicaragua. He visited Managua after the 1972 earthquake and again last November following a visit to Guatemala.

He said he found the conditions in Managua still greatly depressed, but that "most of it seemed to be because people were afraid to reinvest in business because of the political situation."

The Rev. Kissell said, "Guatemala has a democratic republic which places more emphasis on the will of the people. While many business were taken over by the government following the Managua earthquake, I do not see this happening in Guatemala. People will be more willing to borrow to reestablish business. The government will assist in rebuilding necessary businesses without taking control of them. The free enterprise system will work faster and better in Guatemala."

The pastor said the congregation will wait until all the roads are open and the country is able to stabilize somewhat to assist the Guatemalans because it is not helpful to rush a plane to Guatemala City now when all the governments and large organizations are trying to help.

In a month or three months, the major assistance will be gone but people will still need special medical care. Their diets will need to be supplemented by vitamins and minerals. Many people will need the encouragement that can come by knowing friends have not forgotten them and some families will need relocation.

By that time, the Rev. Kissell said, they will be the forgotten people of the world. "Then we can work side by side with them, not doing for them, but with them, enabling them to maintain their dignity while working and assisting as we would our own brothers. There is so much to do, now all we can do is get ready."

This week the congregation has begun repackaging some of the 175,000 vitamins already on hand, which will be shipped to both Nicaragua and Guatemala. Church members will also begin searching for new supplies.

Most supplies must be repackaged to cut the weight so they can be flown to Central America.

First National Bank of Southwestern Michigan has assisted the congregation with repackaging materials and other businesses have also helped, the Rev. Kissell said.

He added, "When we repackaging vitamins, it is quite an experience. We use all willing hands. In the past that has included grandmothers to little children. The children are assigned simple tasks and enjoy being involved."

MORMON MISSIONARIES

Serving Church Here

Eight young elders of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormons) are serving as missionaries for the church in southwestern Michigan.

Stationed in the twin cities are Elder Clyde Cook of Price, Utah, and Elder David Terry of Springville, Utah, and stationed in Watervliet are Elder William Bigler of Heber, Ariz., and Elder Kent Silver of Holladay, Utah.

Others serving in the area are

Elder Stuart Parkinson and Elder Jeffrey Wise in Niles, and Elder Randall Coats and Elder Stanley Pack, in South Haven.

The elders will serve in the area for an indefinite time and will be contacting people in the area to share with them the family oriented concepts of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and the significance of the Book of Mormon to persons of all faiths.

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints is dedicated to the support of the family and of the home. The Book of Mormon is named after a man named Mormon who lived in the Americas about 400 AD. Mormon was a prophet who had abridged the records of his people who inhabited the Americas and are ancestors of the American Indian, according to the elders.

The elders are among 24,000 missionaries that are spread over the earth in all the free countries of the world.

Russel Hansen is president of the mission in this area and is responsible for 200 missionaries.

Mormon missionaries give two years of their lives to serve the church. They save their money from the time they are young to go on missions and support themselves.

There is no paid ministry in the church and they don't accept contributions.

The elders will speak at churches, clubs, schools and homes. Those wishing more information may contact Elders Cook and Terry at 925-4228 or Elders Bigler and Silver at 463-7097.

THE BIBLE

No. 226. The Book of Proverbs: Discipline

Many of the admonitions found in the book of Proverbs are maxims or aphorisms which specifically emphasize desirable character traits or modes of conduct. Because it is a requisite for wisdom and the good life, discipline is highly prized by the wise.

The sage who addressed himself to the topic of discipline taught that corporal punishment is the appropriate method of disciplining a child. "Apply thine heart unto instruction, and thine ears to the words of knowledge. Withhold not correction from the child: for if thou beatest him with the rod, he shall not die. Thou shalt beat him with the rod, and shalt deliver his soul from hell." (Proverbs 23:12-14)

However, another important aspect of discipline involves constructive criticism. "The ear that heareth the reproof of life abideth among the wise. He that refuseth instruction despiseth his own soul: but he that heareth reproof getteth understanding. The fear of the Lord is the instruction of wisdom; and before honour is humility." (Proverbs 15:31-33)

Helping Earthquake Victims

Baroda Congregation

BARODA — Members of the Baroda Church of God are working to assist their friends in earthquake-torn Guatemala.

The response of the parishioners is because of their three-year involvement with the Guatemalan people, according to the Rev. Dennis Kissell, pastor.

According to Associated Press report, the massive earthquake which rolled through Guatemala City Feb. 4 registered 7.5 on the Richter scale and left more than 15,000 dead, 40,000 injured and 200,000 homeless.

The Rev. Kissell said, last year the Baroda congregation supplied over 200,000 vitamins to the Rev. Isai Calderon and his medical assistants for distribution in the same areas hit by the earthquake.

The Rev. Kissell last year also served as tour director twice for Church of God members who wanted to see "missions in action."

Eight members of the Baroda Church of God spent one or more weeks last year in Guatemala assisting the Church of God there.

The Rev. Kissell reports he has had direct word from Guatemala twice since the earthquake by radio to the United States and then telephone from the Southwest.

He says at least two of the homes where he stayed in Guatemala were completely destroyed and most of the villages he visited suffered great damage.

Many of the areas, which are within 25 miles of Guatemala City, are still cut off except by air.

At the Mission Headquarters Building in Guatemala, the Rev. Calderon and his wife are sleeping in the front yard of the damaged building so they can be near their working telephone. Their family was asleep inside the building when the quake struck, but all are reported safe.

On Saturday, Feb. 7, the Rev. Calderon attempted to take food supplies to Tecpan, one of the villages hardest hit. According

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

How To Obtain Eating 'Clue'

Dear Ann Landers: I made a fool of myself last night and am ruined for life with a wonderful guy and his family.

I'm 15 years old and a good student, but being book-smart doesn't help much if a person doesn't have common sense. Here's what happened: This neat guy asked me to have dinner with his folks at a fancy restaurant. Well, the waiter asked me first what I wanted and I didn't know how much I ought to spend or what to say, so I ordered a grilled cheese sandwich with bacon and a soft drink. Everyone else ordered a dinner. I felt like an idiot. Please advise me for next time.

— The Fox's Paw

Dear Paw: Next time tell the waiter you are undecided and ask him to come back to you after the others have ordered. Then take your clue from them. And stop kicking yourself. You didn't kill anybody.

appear gauche or newly rich. How does a person know what is the correct amount? No matter what I do, I always feel as if I did the wrong thing. How about some guidelines, Ann? — Insecure In The Big Apple

Dear Apple: These days, 15 per cent is adequate — 20 per cent is very generous. Speaking strictly for myself, I'd rather overtip than under tip. I figure the person who is carrying my suitcases, manicuring my nails, setting my hair or waiting on tables needs that little extra more than I do.

Tell Truth

Dear Ann Landers: I am not proud of the life I have led. If I had it to do over again I would do it differently, but how I must look ahead and not back. I want to do the right thing by my son.

who is 14 years old, but I haven't got the courage. Here is my problem:

The man who has been living in our home as a "roomer" for the last nine years is the father of this boy. Many people know that Roger and I are more than just friends. To make matters worse, the boy just happens to be the living image of Roger. The resemblance becomes more striking every year and several people have mentioned it — "Innocently, I think."

I've told my son that his father died when he was a baby. How much longer can I keep the lie going? My conscience is bothering me something awful. I really think I should tell my son the truth. But how? Will you help me? — Tortured By The Lie

Dear Friend: Your signature tells me that you will never be at peace with yourself until you tell the boy the truth. I hope you will do so very soon — in a frank and forthright manner. Explain that he's a young man now and can face the real story. Since the resemblance is so strong, don't be surprised if he already knows.

CONFIDENTIAL To Need The Facts, Ma'am: There are no hard-and-fast rules for the "game." But sometimes when a widower refuses to marry again, it is because his first marriage was so miserable he is afraid to take another chance.

What kind of wedding goes with today's new life styles? Does anything go? Ann Landers' completely new "The Bride's Guide" tells what's right for today's weddings. BERRIEN SPRINGS — "Inventing a Nation," the fourth in the Alastair Cooke film series, "America: A Personal History of the United States," will be shown Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 16 and 17.

The film, free to the public, will be shown Monday at 7:45 p.m. and Tuesday at 5:30 and 7:45 p.m. in the Meier Hall Gold room on the Andrews university campus.

Cooke gives an insight into the mind which created our Bill of Rights in a visit to Thomas Jefferson's Virginia home, Monticello. He traces the emergence of the United States from the secret Independence Hall debates of Hamilton, Madison and Monroe through the westward surge, following Daniel Boone across the Appalachians.

The series is a joint production of Time-Life films and the British Broadcasting Corp. and required more than two years and over 100,000 miles of travel.

CAVITY-FREE FUTURE Successful attempts to immunize rhesus monkeys against tooth decay, using strains of the organism responsible for decay, hold promise for a nearly cavity-free future for humans, a London dental researcher has suggested.

North took quite a chance when he ruffled with a takeout double after his opponents had stopped at two hearts. For all he knew, they might have underbid and the double might get them to game. Or his partner might have a bad hand and no place to go. However, you don't get to the finals of the team trials by sitting around and waiting. You have to take chances. This time the bid really worked. East would have made his two hearts and might even have made three, but South bid three and four diamonds. East doubled. You can't really blame him. He had three aces and West had bid twice.

West opened the king of hearts and shifted a low spade. East took his ace and led the suit back to West's king. That gave the defense the first three tricks, but careful play allowed South to take the next 10 and make his doubled contract.

Ask the Jacobys

A Canadian reader wants to know if spades was always the ranking suit.

The answer is that it always has been in contract, but in the early days of auction it was the lowest suit. Then someone thought of giving spades two values: Regular spades at the bottom and royal spades at the top. After a few years of that the low spades were dropped and spades had moved to the top.

Plan New Feature For Band-O-Rama

Participating area high school band directors will be televised in color for the first time during Lake Michigan college's Band-O-Rama Saturday, Feb. 21, as a means of improving their directing techniques.

During the morning telecasts, each band director will work the first 10 minutes with his high school band while being video taped by members of the LMC audio-visual aid department using the college's new closed circuit color TV camera.

Later in the day, each conductor will view his own 10-minute tape segment privately with Dr. James Neilson, nationally famous music director and Band-O-Rama guest conductor and clinician.

Dr. Donald Moely, head of the LMC music department which is sponsoring the event, said 400 high school musicians are expected to attend.

The bands will perform compositions of their choice during the early part of the evening program and later will join in massed formation to play under the direction of Dr. Neilson.

Berrien Springs high school band, under the direction of Peter Töhlitz, will perform "Prelude and Fugue in B Flat Major" by Bach-Meinhofmann; Colonia high school band, Raymond Norberg, director, will perform "Dedicator's Overture" by Williams, and Dowagiac Union high school symphony band, Tom Stansifer, conductor, "Castle Gap March," Williams.

Other bands, their conductors and selections are Eau Claire high band, Michael Peterson, conductor, "American Sea Rhapsody," Cavayes; Lake Michigan Catholic high school band, Donald Swickowski, conductor, "Montego Bay," Nestico; Watervliet high school band, Larry Zychowicz, conductor, "The Blue and the Gray," Grundman, and Galien high school band, William Deal, conductor, "Overture for Winds" Carter.

Dr. Moely will conduct the LMC Brass Ensemble to open the festival part of the program which will take place in the LMC gymnasium at 7:30 p.m. The Brass Ensemble will perform Copland's "Fanfare for the Common Man." The LMC Symphony Wind Ensemble under Dr. Moely's direction will perform "American Overture for Band" by Jenkins. Dr. Neilson will conduct the ensemble in "Dedicator's Overture" by McBeth.

The festival will conclude with Dr. Neilson conducting the high school massed bands in "Colonial Legend" by Grundman and "America the Beautiful" by Ward-Drum.

The morning and afternoon sessions will be held in various music rooms and small auditoriums on the LMC campus.

The evening performances will all be held in the gymnasium. Tickets for the evening performances are $1 and are available from members of participating bands and their directors; and from the LMC music department office during the day and the LMC night school office evenings Monday through Thursday.

The use of the color television as a teaching aid will be the first time the college's new color television camera has been used for the benefit of non-campus groups and organizations.

"This is one of the best, up-to-the-minute, audio-visual educational techniques that can be offered at this point in time," Dr. Moely said. "There is nothing quite so helpful for those of us who are conductors than to see ourselves as our own musicians see us."

The color video taping will be supervised by William Hessel, LMC dean of libraries and learning resources.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

How To Obtain Eating 'Clue'

Dear Ann Landers: I made a fool of myself last night and am ruined for life with a wonderful guy and his family.

I'm 15 years old and a good student, but being book-smart doesn't help much if a person doesn't have common sense. Here's what happened: This neat guy asked me to have dinner with his folks at a fancy restaurant. Well, the waiter asked me first what I wanted and I didn't know how much I ought to spend or what to say, so I ordered a grilled cheese sandwich with bacon and a soft drink. Everyone else ordered a dinner. I felt like an idiot. Please advise me for next time.

— The Fox's Paw

appear gauche or newly rich.

How does a person know what is the correct amount? No matter what I do, I always feel as if I did the wrong thing. How about some guidelines, Ann? — Insecure In The Big Apple

Dear Apple: These days, 15 per cent is adequate — 20 per cent is very generous. Speaking strictly for myself, I'd rather overtip than under tip. I figure the person who is carrying my suitcases, manicuring my nails, setting my hair or waiting on tables needs that little extra more than I do.

Tell Truth

Dear Ann Landers: I am not proud of the life I have led. If I had it to do over again I would do it differently, but now I must look ahead and not back. I want to do the right thing by my son, who is 14 years old, but I haven't got the courage. Here is my problem:

The man who has been living in our home as a "roomer" for the last nine years is the father of this boy. Many people know that Roger and I are more than just friends. To make matters worse, the boy just happens to be the living image of Roger. The resemblance becomes more striking every year and several people have mentioned it — innocently, I think.

I've told my son that his father died when he was a baby. How much longer can I keep the lie going? My conscience is bothering me something awful. I really think I should tell my son the truth. But how? Will you help me? — Tortured By The Lie peace with yourself until you tell the boy the truth. I hope you will do so very soon — in a frank and forthright manner. Explain that he is a young man now and can face the real story. Since the resemblance is so strong, don't be surprised if he already knows.

CONFIDENTIAL To Need The Facts, Ma'am: There are no hard-and-fast rules for the "game." But sometimes when a widower refuses to marry again, it is because his first marriage was so miserable he is afraid to take another chance.

What kind of wedding goes with today's new life styles? Does anything go? Ann Landers' completely new "The Bride's Guide" tells what's right for today's weddings. For a copy, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (13 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Dr. Lester Coleman

More than a quarter of a million Americans are said to fall into sudden attacks of uncontrollable sleep.

Complete relaxation, and even muscle paralysis, associated with this overwhelming sleepiness is known as "narcolepsy."

Although much is known about this strange phenomenon, there still are many holes in the puzzle.

Dr. William C. Dement, head of the Clinic for Sleep Disorders at Stanford University in Palo Alto, California, has found that narcolepsy occurs in animals, too.

Dr. Dement believes that these dog studies may open new horizons for knowledge of this puzzling sleep disorder.

A new drug cholestyramine, is being used at the University of Chicago to reverse the process of arteriosclerosis.

Dr. Robert Wissler and his co-workers report that this drug is most effective when used in addition to a low-fat, low-cholesterol diet.

This scientific study is being performed with monkeys. In these animals there was a distinct decrease in the narrowing of the arteries to the heart, to the lungs and to the brain.

This drug, when used with the low-fat, low-cholesterol diet, shows such dramatic results that it is hoped that duplication of these results in humans will soon follow.

A number of patients who had angina pain around the heart were treated surgically by a vein-grafting technique.

Dr. Cary J. Lambert, of the Baylor University Medical in Houston, treated more than 60 such patients by means of the "bypass" operation.

These patients were treated in this way although there had not been a coronary artery closure.

The severe, persistent angina pain is an index of the condition of the coronary arteries. Preventative surgery returned many of these patients to productive lives complete free of symptoms.

DR. LESTER COLEMAN has a special eye-care booklet available called, "What You Should Know About Glaucoma and Cataracts." BERRIEN SPRINGS — "Inventing a Nation," the fourth in the Alistair Cooke film series, "America: A Personal History of the United States," will be shown Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 16 and 17.

The film, free to the public, will be shown Monday at 7:45 p.m. and Tuesday at 5:30 and 7:45 p.m. in the Meier Hall Gold room on the Andrews university campus.

Cooke gives an insight into the mind which created our Bill of Rights in a visit to Thomas Jefferson's Virginia home, Monticello. He traces the emergence of the United States from the secret Independence Hall debates of Hamilton, Mason and Madison through the westward surge, following Daniel Boone across the Appalachians.

The series is a joint production of Time-Life films and the British Broadcasting Corp. and required more than two years and over 100,000 miles of travel.

Charge Against Sherman Dropped

A charge of fleeing police Nov. 21 in Benton Harbor was dismissed yesterday against Lawrence C. Sherman because of his conviction last week on another charge in connection with the same incident.

Sherman, 24, of Townline road, Benton Harbor, was arrested Nov. 21 and charged with failure to yield right-of-way at a stop sign. While a policeman was writing a ticket, Sherman allegedly attempted to flee in his auto, police charged.

At a non jury trial before Berrien Fifth District Court Judge Leo Cook last week, Sherman was found guilty of failure to yield right-of-way.

Citing that conviction, Berrien Prosecutor John Smietanka yesterday said that recent rulings of the Michigan Supreme court bar further prosecution. A person must be tried at the same time for all alleged crimes which were committed in connection with the same incident, he said.

Smietanka said it would have been impractical to try Sherman for both offenses at the same time. The fleeing charge is a state violation and would have to be presented by the prosecutor's office. The failure to yield charge, a violation of city ordinance, was presented by the city attorney.

Cook dismissed the charge yesterday on motion from Smietanka. Cook will sentence Sherman for failure to yield, and for reckless driving Sept. 18 in Benton Harbor, on March 5, according to court records.

Sherman complained of police harassment during a Washington, D.C., visit taken by a "community coalition" of Benton Harbor people. Within 10 hours of his return to Benton Harbor he was arrested and charged with failure to yield and attempting to flee police.

Teens Extradited From Florida

Two Galien teenage boys extradited from Florida have been charged with the Oct. 20 house and attempted safe burglary of a Berrien Springs home, according to Berrien county sheriff's detectives.

Extradited from Bartow, Fla., Sunday were John M. Collard, 17, Wagner road, and a 16-year-old boy, both of Galien.

The two are also being questioned in connection with a rash of October crimes, including the strong armed robbery of $1,300 from 79-year-old Mrs. Iva Shipley at her grocery store in Glendora on Oct. 20, according to Berrien sheriff's Det. Fred Reeves.

Collard was in Berrien Fifth

District court Wednesday where he waived a preliminary hearing on charges of breaking and entering the Max Nitz residence in Berrien Springs, and attempted safe burglary at the Nitz home.

Authorities are trying to get the juvenile waived into adult court for trial on the same charges, Reeves said.

Reeves said questioning of Collard led to the issuance of a warrant yesterday charging Bobby Osborne, 21, of 1293 Parkway, Benton township, with the Oct. 9 armed robbery of Stacey Ragsdale.

Ragsdale was robbed as he was about to put $205 in the night deposit box at a Benton township bank.

Osborne was to be arraigned in district court on the armed robbery charge today or Tuesday, a court spokesman said.

Reeves said Collard and the 16-year-old boy were arrested in Florida in November and charged with committing five burglaries in that state.

They were convicted and put on probationary terms before being handed over to Berrien county authorities.

The Berrien sheriff's detective said the extradited youths are to be questioned in regard to other offenses last fall in Berrien county, including a break-in at Hinchman Farm Supply, and burglaries of churches in Baroda and Glendora, and the Oct. 20 theft of a pickup truck in Baroda and the cashing of four forged checks in Berrien Springs, also in October.

Collard is being held under $5,000 bond.

Three Carmakers Announce Recalls

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors, Ford Motor Co. and Mercedes Benz have announced recalls affecting more than 120,000 vehicles to fix defects involving brake failures, overheating mufflers and stuck throttles.

GM said Friday it is recalling 100,000 current-model subcompact cars to correct problems which could result in a loss of front braking action. Ford is recalling nearly 15,000 of its 1975 and 1976 Bronco recreation vehicles to replace exhaust mufflers which could overheat and create a fire hazard.

Mercedes is recalling 3,529 current-model cars to correct a defect in the cruise control system which could force the throttle to stick open.

GM said 34,000 Chevrolet Monzas, Buick Skylarks, Oldsmobile Starfires and Pontiac Sunbirds may have front disc brake shoes which could move out of position after repeated hard braking. The firm said the shoes will be replaced on all affected vehicles.

Some 86,000 Chevettes have front brake hoses which could crack due to contact with another component, causing a loss of brake fluid. GM said a shield designed to protect the hose from the other component will be installed on the minicars.

The firm noted that since all the affected vehicles have dual braking systems, the rear brakes would remain operational should the front brakes fail, although the stopping distance would be increased.

GM said it has received one report of an accident resulting in one minor injury involving a Chevette brake hose.

Ford's recall affects 11,711 of the firm's 1975 Broncos and 2,913 of the 1976 models, which may have had the muffler installed by dealers.

The company said a component in the exhaust system could cause the muffler skin temperature to rise when the vehicles is driven up a steep grade or pulling a heavy load. The high temperatures could overheat the floorboards, damaging front-seat shoulder belts, wiring harness insulation and auxiliary fuel tanks and hoses.

Ford said it has received no field reports of accidents, fires or injuries resulting from the problem. Ford said it will replace each muffler with one of a different design.

Mercedes said a defective cable in the cruise control system could force the throttle to stick open, allowing the vehicle to continue traveling even if the accelerator pedal is let up. Hand braking would be required and the ignition key would have to be turned off to halt the cars, the West German importer said.

Mercedes said it will correct the defect to the cars in owner hands as well as an additional 8,808 cars in dealer and company inventories. The firm added that it has received no field reports of failures in this country.

Tipsy Driver Law 'Teeth' Restored

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has signed into law a bill to permit the state driver's License Appeals Board to stay in operation — and keep the teeth in Michigan's drunk driver law.

Technically, the bill, signed Friday, permits the secretary of state to appoint people to act as administrative hearing officers in place of the three-member License Appeals Board.

The change was required when the state Supreme Court ruled the appeal board unconstitutional because it was made up, in part, of law enforcement representatives. They could not give a driver a fair hearing when one side of the argument was given by the police, the court said.

Appeal board panels, which are members by full-time law enforcement officials are not fair and impartial tribunals to adjudicate a law enforcement dispute between a citizen and a police officer, the court said.

The ruling virtually nullified the state's implied consent law, under which motorists suspected of drunk driving can be required to take blood alcohol tests. With two of the three members — representatives of the attorney general and local police — ruled off the board, the panel could no longer achieve a quorum and hear cases.

That raised the possibility that those arrested for drunk driving could get off scot-free. If a person refuses a blood alcohol test, his driver's license is automatically suspended. He can appeal the suspension to the appeals board, however.

But with the appeals board ruled unconstitutional, the possibility was raised that all persons arrested for drunk driving would refuse Breathalyzer tests, appeal the suspension of their license — and win when the board could not rule.

The state built up a backlog of the appeals while the legislature hastened through a bill to permit the board to keep functioning.

The governor also signed into law a bill eliminating the requirement that the State Police furnish living quarters for all single officers. The bill requires the State Police to continue to provide living quarters to all single officers hired prior to the effective date of the law.

Two Top Officials Quit At Lockheed

By RICHARD SALTUS
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) —

Lockheed Aircraft Corp. plagued by an international kickback scandal and a $600 million debt, has forced the resignation of its top two executives.

Resigning in the shakeup Friday were Daniel J. Haughton, chairman of the huge aerospace firm, and A. Carl Kotchian, vice chairman and chief operating officer.

The resignations came at a special board meeting called in the wake of Kotchian's admissions to Congress that Lockheed had paid officials of several countries at least $22 million to aid sales of its aircraft.

Board member Robert W. Haack, 58, who was elected chairman pro tem, said the directors felt "the company, employees and shareholders would perhaps be better protected if they (Haughton and Kotchian) as potentially controversial people excused themselves from the premises."

Haughton, 64, and Kotchian, 62, are eligible for retirement and will be retained as "consultants and advisers" for the present, said Haack.

The new chairman, who joined the Lockheed board in 1972 after a securities career that included the presidency of the New York Stock Exchange, declined to discuss the payoff scandal.

Instead, he listed refinancing the corporation's $600 million debt as among his highest priorities.

Lockheed's fight for survival is likely to be made more difficult, observers believe, by the payoff revelations, since they could hurt the overseas business on which Lockheed has become more dependent in recent years.

Later, in a statement, Haack said that the board last September adopted a stringent new policy with respect to the selection, use and payment of international marketing consultants.

This policy, which has been scrupulously observed since its adoption, is designed to prevent questionable practices in the use and payment of such consultants, said Haack.

The first meeting of a four-member committee of Lockheed board members appointed to look into the payoff was held Friday, but its actions were not disclosed.

White House Uneasy About Job Bill Veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House is taking a pessimistic view of its chances for upholding President Ford's veto of a $8.1 billion public works jobs bill.

Ford vetoed the bill on Friday, calling it "little more than an election year pork barrel." The President contended the public works bill would "do little to create jobs for the unemployed."

Backers of the bill said it would provide 600,000 new jobs.

House Democratic Leader Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. of Massachusetts branded the presidential action "another deplorable example of President Ford's disdain for the nation's unemployed" and predicted the House, which passed the bill 321 to 80 last month, would muster far more than the two-thirds majority needed to override Ford's veto.

The House vote is scheduled for Thursday. If the House overrides the veto, Senate action would follow soon after. Senate leaders had no predictions on the outcome of an override attempt, but the bill passed the Senate by more than a two-thirds majority.

Max Friedersdorf, chief White House lobbyist, conceded Friday that "obviously, it's going to be difficult" to sustain Ford's veto.

"It's pork barrel," Friedersdorf said of the bill. "There are a lot of goodies in there for members of Congress."

Friedersdorf said he and his staff would emphasize last month's drop in unemployment and the high cost of the bill in their attempts to convince members of Congress to support the veto.

Rising Industrial Output Makes January 'Good' Month

By M. GREGORY MOSES

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The output of the nation's industry increased for the ninth consecutive month in January, another indication that last month was a good one for the economy.

An increase in industrial production should mean more jobs become available in the nation's factories, mines and utilities.

The Federal Reserve Board said Friday that industrial production rose by seven-tenths of 1 per cent in January and six-tenths of 1 per cent in December.

Production of consumer goods, such as home appliances and television sets, was strong.

The gains in industrial production followed a big drop in unemployment to 7.8 per cent during the month and reports that wholesale prices were stable for the third consecutive month in January — indicating continuing improvement in the nation's inflation problems.

The Labor Department said in its wholesale price report Friday that prices of farm products, including most foods, declined 2.8 per cent in January, the third straight month of decline.

The Federal Reserve Board said its industrial production index for January stood at 119.3 of the 1967 average of 100. That represented an 8.5 per cent increase in production since the recession low last April.

Auto production dropped slightly to an annual rate of 7.6

million units, down from 7.8 million units in December.

However, the board said it expects auto production to rise to the eight million unit level in February.

Meanwhile, the Commerce Department said inventories of the nation's businesses declined by $526 million in December and fell a total of $9.5 billion during all of 1975. In 1974, inventories increased $40.6 billion.

A decline in inventories had been considered essential in helping to end the nation's recession, although it also reflected the low state of production in the economy.

Sales Of Cars Going Up

DETROIT (AP) — Domestic car sales in early February

inched by a recovery in the big car market, rose 21 per cent from a year ago, when the industry offered cash rebates to stimulate an anemic market.

Meanwhile, General Motors said Friday it has scrapped plans to boost production of the Chevrolet Chevelle, saying sales of the nation's first domestic manicure have not been as robust as expected.

The domestic makers reported Friday that they sold 167,000 new cars in the first 16 days of February, compared with 136,100 a year ago.

Sales also were up 15 per cent from early February 1974, when the market was depressed by the energy crisis. However, they were down 14 per cent from the same 1973 period, before the industry plunged into a deep two-year slump, and trailed the period record set in 1965 by 20 per cent.

Rising Industrial Output Makes January 'Good' Month

By R. GREGORY NOKES

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The output of the nation's industry increased for the ninth consecutive month in January, another indication that last month was a good one for the economy.

An increase in industrial production should mean more jobs became available in the nation's factories, mines and utilities.

The Federal Reserve Board said Friday that industrial production rose by seven-tenths of 1 per cent in January and six-tenths of 1 per cent in December.

Production of consumer

goods, such as home appliances and television sets, was strong.

The gains in industrial production followed a big drop in unemployment to 7.8 per cent during the month and reports that wholesale prices were stable for the third consecutive month in January — indicating continuing improvement in the nation's inflation problems.

The Labor Department said in its wholesale price report Friday that prices of farm products, including most foods, declined 2.8 per cent in January, the third straight month of decline.

The Federal Reserve Board said its industrial production index for January stood at 119.3 of the 1967 average of 100. That represented an 8.5 per cent increase in production since the recession low last April.

Auto production dropped slightly to an annual rate of 7.6

million units, down from 7.8 million units in December. However, the board said it expects auto production to rise to the eight million unit level in February.

Meanwhile, the Commerce Department said inventories of the nation's businesses declined by $526 million in December and fell a total of $5.5 billion during all of 1975. In 1974, inventories increased $46.6 billion.

Attorneys Suffering Own Version Of Malpractice Insurance Crisis

By CLAYTON HARDIMAN
MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — Attorneys, blamed by some for the medical malpractice crisis, are starting to take some lumps of their own.

TRP. JOSEPH M. KENDZIERSKI Retires

Trooper Ends Long Service

NEW BUFFALO — Trp. Joseph M. Kendzierski, 51, of the New Buffalo state police post retired Feb. 6, after serving with the state police for 25 years, according to Col. George L. Halverson, East Lansing, department director.

Kendzierski joined the state police in February, 1951, serving first at Mt. Pleasant before transfers in 1952 to Keego Harbor (Pontiac), and in 1963 to Paw Paw. Since 1966, he has been stationed at New Buffalo.

Col. Halverson said Trp. Kendzierski received two citations for honorable mention during his 25 years of service.

A native of Hamtramck, Trp. Kendzierski served 33 months with the U.S. Army, including 16 months of overseas duty during World War II.

Kendzierski, who lives with his wife, Dorothy, on route 2, Riviera road, New Buffalo township, has said he plans to stay in the area. The couple has five children.

Crash Identities Corrected

A Coloma woman injured in a two-car accident in Benton township Wednesday afternoon was Arlene Salteiver, 48, of 451 Riverside road, not Charlene Salteiver.

This newspaper also erroneously reported that the driver of the car in which Arlene Salteiver was riding was a woman. Driver of the car, Irel Dee Killingsworth 34, of 951 Bert street, Benton township, was a man. Benton township police report.

suits filed against attorneys is on the rise. So are malpractice insurance rates for some legal firms.

But their rates are still dirt cheap in comparison with rates charged by physicians, says a local agent.

According to some reports, malpractice suits against lawyers are increasing at the annual rate of 10 per cent.

A lawyer can be sued for malpractice if the client's case was lost because of an obvious mistake — such as allowing the statute of limitations to run out or making a bad decision without the client's permission.

But a lawyer can't be sued simply for losing a case.

"Actually, what you're doing is trying a case twice," said John M. Briggs, president of the Muskegon County Bar. "The Court has to determine first that the attorney was negligent. Then it has to determine that the attorney's negligence was what lost the case."

"An attorney isn't liable for botching a case that would have lost anyway,"

Do more claims and higher settlements mean today's attorney is less competent than his counterpart of yesterday.

Not necessarily, said Michael Franck, executive director of the State Bar of Michigan.

Franck says an increasing consumer movement is behind the increase in litigation. Consumers are more sophisticated these days, Franck contended, and more and more unwilling to accept what they consider poor

Auto Maker Termed Liable

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — An auto-maker can be held liable in Florida for a automobile defect that causes an injury in an accident even if the defect didn't cause the wreck, the state Supreme Court says.

"The manufacturer must use reasonable care in design and manufacture of its product to eliminate unreasonable risk of foreseeable injury," the court ruled Thursday.

service — from anybody.

"It also means there are attorneys willing to pursue those claims," he added.

State and local bar officials generally agree it shouldn't be too difficult to find an attorney to represent you against another lawyer.

"That is, if you have a good case," Briggs cautioned. "I don't think most attorneys would refuse a worthwhile case on general principles."

The jump in litigation has been costly for many of Michigan's legal firms. Franck said premiums for some attorneys have increased as much as 72 per cent.

The crunch has hit hardest in the larger metropolitan areas, Briggs said.

The problems appear less severe in Muskegon, where insurance agent Ray Richardson said legal malpractice insurance rates have gone up some.

"But they're still very reasonable," he said. "The major problem is that some companies have curtailed writing new policies. There are only a few writing now, where before there were dozens."

When you compare doctors' and lawyers' rates, Richardson said, there is no comparison.

He said rates for lawyers in Muskegon have gone up roughly 33 per cent.

But that means an attorney may be paying only a couple of hundred dollars, while an average physician might pay $7,000 or more, he said. And premiums for a high-rated physician may approach $20,000.

Attorneys played a major role in the medical malpractice crisis that sprang to public attention in 1974. Some doctors charged that the legal profession's contingency fee system was largely responsible.

Under the system, an attorney is paid a percentage of the settlement which, in the past, ranged as high as 50 per cent.

Doctors said the system encouraged the barrage of "nuisance suits" which they say drove malpractice insurance premiums sky-high.

Now, it's the attorney's problem as well.

Michigan isn't the only state where attorneys have taken a rate hike in malpractice insurance premiums.

Studies in heavily populated states — such as New York and California — show lawyers have been hit even harder.

community action agency cites CHURCH SUPPORT MAJOR "75" SUCCESS berrien county action inc.

"It Was A Very Good Year"

BCA Board Directors

"We thank God, our dedicated Board of Directors, a hard-working staff, and the many supportive private and public agencies who helped BCA meet and exceed its goals of service for 1975."

It was a year of outstanding growth and achievement, and we acknowledge with appreciation the help and moral support from the churches and agencies for our growth and success. Church support was especially significant for Berrien County Action this year because we had to resolve some differences that appeared to many as controversial, and the moral as well as financial support of the religious community helped sustain us as we worked through those particular issues.

The most significant support was, of course, the generous donation of the Louise Beebe Memorial House, by the Friendship Baptist Church of Benton Harbor, as our parenting center and family planning out-reach and counseling center for Berrien County. The Louise Beebe House was the focal point of much of BCA's effort to fill a need in the community for reliable family planning outreach services, and for sensible counseling to meet the many problems that our young people face with growing up in today's fast moving society.

QUIET, CHRISTIAN SUPPORT

But what we appreciate most of all as a board of directors is the consistent, quiet, Christian support we have received by the many churches in Berrien County for our programs to help the poor lead lives of dignity, free from the pangs of hunger, cold, of helplessness of old age. Our churches have been ready with food for our emergency food projects, cash for restocking the food bank, clothing and transportation for emergencies, furniture and shelter and advocacy when called upon.

The Coloma United Methodist Church has provided space for the north county outreach and community services center, and has added the participation of Rev. Carl Hausermann to the BCA Board of Directors.

The Berrien Springs Seventh Day Adventist Church, Spanish, has hosted BCA board meetings, and has encouraged other churches in Berrien County to share with BCA through the Generous Thanksgiving offering of the combined services. Rev. Orval Schull, pastor of the Spanish Seventh Day Adventist Church is also a valued member of the BCA Board of Directors.

The Beebe House was the gesture of community concern and support that turned the corner for BCA in its quest for added services to school age parents, many of whom are in need of medical, social, and rehabilitation services. We are proud to report that since the dedication of Beebe House in October, Berrien County Action has received grants for family planning outreach from the United States Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and will soon begin its teen outreach and referral services designed to help young people avoid the pitfalls of childhood pregnancy.

BICENTENNIAL GRANT FOR FAMILY PLANNING

The success of BCA in family planning led to the award of a Bicentennial Commission for a volunteer staff person working with the family planning program in Berrien County. This grant will pay the salary of the volunteer, and will help implement a workable program to improve the life chances of young Americans—an idea that the Michigan Bicentennial Commission felt was worthy of their support as a "new horizons" project.

The youth members of Methodist Peace Temple, Benton Harbor, were concerned enough about the bare tables of the poor in Berrien County that they conducted several fund raising efforts, including working on Saturday to raise money to buy toys, gifts, and food for the families less fortunate than they would be at Christmas. These young people, led by Assistant Pastor Smith, were living their faith, and helping BCA do a better job of serving the needs of Christmas.

In Coloma the churches joined in a toy and gift giving effort at BCA that made the holidays much happier for many north county children this Christmas.

The United Ministers of Buchanan, responding to the crisis of unemployment in south county, presented BCA staff with a check just a few days before Christmas. This money was added to the staff fund for food and gifts to the elderly on Christmas Eve, our busiest day of the year. Thanks to these men of God, the Christmas of many older people was more bountiful and happy this year.

Other churches throughout Berrien county have contributed to our work, and to each of them we express our deepest gratitude. We need your continued support in 1976.

WHAT BERRIEN COUNTY ACTION MEANS TO YOU

1. As a Christian, Berrien County Action means sharing, and caring, for those less fortunate than ourselves.

Help, in an emergency, for the aged, the poor, the confused, the hungry, the homeless, not in some far away land, but right here, right now, at home in Berrien County.

2. As A Businessman, Berrien County Action Means Business

Berrien County Action employees buy in your stores, and bring dollars into other businesses and services in your community. Berrien County encourages local initiative in support of local business. Winterization supplies or emergency food and clothing, it means dollars in the cash register of a local business.

Berrien County Action teaches habits that help dollars do double duty. Utility bills and rent payments are taught to be important priorities, and money management skills are developed by staff at BCA. BCA builds the stability of your business, and brings in new customers.

3. As A Citizen, Berrien County Action means economy,

Cash dollars go farther with the community action agency than with any other federal or state funded program. The emphasis at BCA is on volunteers, contributions, and coordination of services for greatest economy. We help people learn how to save time and steps, avoid red tape, and get the job done right the first time. We work harder to solve the problems of people, rather than sending them from one place to another. Our staff is trained to know where to go, who to see, and what to do to solve problems of unemployed head of household, no heat, no transportation, medical needs, hungry or neglected children, school problems, and family crisis.

HOME WINTERIZATION

Installing insulation, weather stripping, caulking, replacing storm doors and storm windows is a project that saves energy and helps keep poor people warm. BCA winterized 83 homes of low income people last year in Berrien, Cass and Van Buren Counties. The emphasis of the program is for aged, blind, and disabled.

COMMUNITY COORDINATION

Berrien County Action sponsored a Human Services Seminar last September to bring together all organization and agencies, who deal with services to people. Over 260 people attended the Seminar and 72 organizations were represented. The Seminar was designed to expand the knowledge of human resources in Berrien County and to help solve the problems of service gaps and duplications.

BCA FUNDS COME FROM MANY SOURCES To Serve The Poor in Many Ways.

BCA HAS BICENTENNIAL PROJECT

A special Bicentennial Grant was given to BCA by the Michigan Bicentennial Commission. Our Bicentennial mobilization volunteer will help coordinate family planning efforts to teens in target areas. This Bicentennial effort is designed to have lasting effects into the next century.

"LOOKING AHEAD TO GROWTH AND SERVICE IN 1976"

Progress, Plans and New Programs, by Helen L. Ford, Executive Director — No man or woman wants to be poor, pitted, or powerless. Each person wants to be respected, and to lead a life of achievement, making his own way whenever possible. It is the mission of the community action program to reach out and help people learn how to help themselves — to break the chains of ignorance, poverty and powerlessness that keep them slaves to the systems of welfare and helplessness. We reach and teach so people can lift, rather than lean. To each client of BCA we offer the challenge, "Learn, Earn, Seek, Listen, and Emancipate Yourself from Poverty." In order to help our client, we promise to, "Educate, Negotiate, Advocate and Mediate" and to help him find out where to go, who to see, and what to do to solve the problems he can solve. BCA is a handle, not a crutch. Our programs for 1976 will continue to reach and teach the poor in the areas where there is a need for service, advocacy, or mobilization of resources. Some of the programs on the drawing board for 1976 are:

HEALTH CENTER—A feasibility study will be conducted to determine if a community health center providing outpatient care and minor surgical services would be feasible for the Benton Harbor/Benton Township community. A task force for this study is being organized, and will begin its work in February.

SENIOR SERVICES—Increased services to senior citizens, especially those in isolated parts of the county is planned. Continuation of the home security and outreach program is assured. We will investigate added resources to serve more senior citizens.

CITIZEN PARTICIPATION—Training programs for new board members, and orientation in program guidelines for advisory boards will be scheduled for mid-winter, summer and fall of 1976. We support full citizen participation, and endorse the federal and state requirements for citizen input in all programs funded with tax dollars. A special board training allowance will be included in all program budgets of BCA.

WINTERIZATION—The greatly expanded winterization project will add funds for service to more homes. We will train homeowners and help them in simple home maintenance to save on fuel. A special project, "Operation Price" will focus on do-it-yourself projects for the low income person.

HEALTH—Our new Health Education And Referral To Services (HEARTS) project will concentrate on the need for school children to be more careful with personal and home hygiene, to wash before meals at home and away, and to know the symptoms of diseases before they get out of hand. This is a home-school project to attack the spread of dysentery, colds, flu, and other communicable diseases. Schools will be given a small scholarship to publish HEARTS Newsletters in their buildings. HEARTS Newsletters will be aired on radio, and HEARTS workers will visit homes to help homemakers practice good hygiene in the kitchen, bath, and washing of family laundry.

FAMILY PLANNING—We will begin the teen outreach family planning project with 6 teens on staff, and will build a volunteer corps of 40 young adults and other citizens to help reduce the epidemic of childhood pregnancies in our community.

COMMUNITY PICNIC—BCA will observe the Bicentennial with a Picnic and Exhibition in Niles this summer. All participants in the programs of BCA are invited to attend and help observe the 200th birthday of our nation and to plan for ways to wipe out poverty in our lifetime.

By LINDA M. KRAMER,
Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Two years ago the Symbionese Liberation Army kidnaped Patricia Hearst, labeled her parents fascist pigs and forced them to give $2 million in food to the poor.

Now another band of self-styled revolutionaries has targeted the Hearsts for more terrorist acts and asserts their daughter would be dead if she were free on bail.

A communique Friday signed by the New World Liberation Front claimed responsibility for a bombing a day earlier at the famed Hearst castle at San Simeon.

It gave the Hearsts 48 hours to revoke their daughter's defense in her bank robbery trial and to contribute $250,000 to the defense of two SLA members in Los Angeles.

E.J. Kleiner, a Hearst family attorney, said Randolph A. Hearst, Patricia's father, would not comply with the terrorists' demands.

The communique said if the demands were not met the $1 million-plus bombing Thursday at the San Simeon estate would "only be the beginning."

"They're just a bunch of maniacs, just a bunch of maniacs," sighed Hearst after reading a copy of the letter during a recess on the 14th day of Miss Hearst's bank robbery trial.

Another of his five daughters, Anne, stood beside him. She looked up and said, "It just never seems to stop, does it?" and Hearst replied, "No, it doesn't."

The FBI said it believes the communique was authentic because it resembled previous letters from the NWLF claiming responsibility for numerous San Francisco Bay area bombings.

Titled "HEARSTS TARGETED," the communique called the Hearsts "villains" and claimed they were buying justice for their daughter "at the expense" of William and Emily Harris, her former underground companions.

The Hearsts are awaiting trial in Los Angeles on charges stemming from a May 1974 crime spree in which Miss Hearst also has been charged.

The letter said the 21-year-old newspaper heiress would never have made it to her trial alive if she had been released on bail and demanded that the Hearsts "stop the lying that is designed to save Patty and bury the Hearsts."

The FBI said it had arrested a self-described NWLF courier, Jack Rogers, also known as Jacques Rogers, who hand-delivered the communique to The Associated Press and other news media.

Rogers, 37, was picked up on a Feb. 4 bench warrant for failure to appear before a federal grand jury in connection with his dissemination of communiques reportedly prepared by the NWLF. He was held in San Francisco jail and was scheduled to appear in federal court Tuesday.

New security measures, including the searching of handbags and cameras, were instituted when tours resumed Friday at the Shangri-La 150 miles south of San Francisco built by the legendary publishing magnate William Randolph Hearst.

No one was injured in the explosion Thursday that ripped through a six-inch concrete wall in an ornate guest house just three minutes after 53 tourists had passed through it.

The building, called Casa del Sol, is 100 yards from the main castle and is one of three guest houses. The Hearsts usually stay at another, Casa del Mar, when they visit the estate which is now a California historical monument.

"We have two theories," said San Luis Obispo County Sheriff John Pierce. "Either someone put the bomb there during a tour, or someone came up at another time and planted the bomb with a long timing device."

The Casa del Sol has eight bedrooms, eight bathrooms and two living rooms on three levels. Besides structural damage, the explosion fragmented several priceless art objects including a 4th Century B.C. stone lion.

CBS Newsmen Takes Blame

WASHINGTON (AP) — Television newsmen Daniel Schorr says he arranged newspaper publication of the House intelligence committee's secret final report because, "I could not be the one responsible for suppressing the report." Schorr, a correspondent for CBS, described Friday "the inescapable decision of journalistic conscience" that he said faced him when he became aware he might be the only person outside government with a copy of the report. CBS said it will not comment on Schorr's statement, "because of the possibility of a federal investigation" into the publication of the report, which had been suppressed by a vote of the full House. Schorr gave no indication who leaked it to him.

Drugs A 'Deliberate Plan'

BAY CITY, Mich. (AP) — Concentrated sale of drugs in the black community is a "deliberate plan on the part of whites," charges a black New York City educator. Preston Wilcox, assistant professor at Columbia University, spoke to about 100 persons in a black history class sponsored by Delta College this week. "The whites want to replace heroin with methadone, which is just another drug," said Wilcox. "A shot of methadone last 24 hours, instead of six hours for heroin. You need to be on welfare to be on methadone. So we have a bunch of zombies walking around on welfare and on methadone." He accused police of condoning drug use in the black community. "Police are like occupational troops. They're there to make sure drugs are kept in our community and not in their community. Drugs are a political problem," he said. "There are deliberate attempts by whites to anesthetize black people, so as to deny our existence." Wilcox works in social counseling in Harlem, where he said there are 900 drug addicts in one block.

He had pleaded guilty to the charge in connection with the Oct. 31, 1969, shooting death of Bert Sturgeon, 24, of Benton Harbor.

A spokesman for the 70-year-old variety store chain said 222 of the stores were closed permanently Friday. The remaining 137, also closed Friday, will reopen March 4-26 for a "going out of business sale." In which all of Grant's inventory will be on sale to pay off what it can of its $1.1 billion debt. Grant was once the nation's third largest variety retailer with 1,074 stores.

Libel Suit Dismissed

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A $1 million libel suit against a Grand Rapids television station and one of its newsmen has been dismissed on grounds a public figure must risk a reporter's "berbs and criticisms." Kent County Circuit Court Judge George Cook ruled Thursday that Albert VandenToorn, owner of a wrecker service with a city contract to haul cars impounded by police, is a public figure under U.S. Supreme Court rulings.

Predicts Ford Will Win

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken predicts President Ford will win the New Hampshire primary Feb. 24, but he won't say by how much. "Just a victory would be sufficient," Milliken said this week at a news conference. Milliken, a Republican as is Ford, also said that after Michigan's May 18 presidential primary, the state should consider abolishing the election. Legislation to do just that is expected to be introduced soon in the state Senate. The expense of the primary and Michigan's poor economic situation are being held responsible. Sixteen House Democrats and 10 House Republicans responded to Milliken's statements this week by introducing a bill to cancel the presidential primary, with one lawmaker calling it "essentially nothing more than a straw vote popularity contest."

PBB-Human Data 'Lacking'

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — No well-conducted scientific investigation of health hazards humans face from eating PBB-tainted food has yet been conducted, a medical researcher claims. Dr. Thomas Corbett also told a special house committee this week that there is no hard data to prove that the federal guideline of three-tenths parts PBB per million is a safe level in cattle. PBB, or polybrominated biphenyl, is a toxic fire retardant compound that was accidentally mixed with Michigan cattle feed in 1973. Thousands of cattle and millions of chickens were destroyed after eating the poisoned feed. The Michigan Department of Agriculture said another 2,000 cattle are awaiting destruction.

Dortch Convicted Of Murder

Aldrey Bridgewater, whose body was found Feb. 19, 1975, also in a rural ditch.

"It was a long, hard, difficult case for the jury," McDowell said of the Dortch trial. "It was a tough decision for them."

Berrien Prosecutor John A. Smetanka expressed satisfaction with the Dortch verdicts and noted: "I'm extremely pleased with the fine job done by the state police and Berrien county sheriff's department, and especially with the outstanding, conscientious job of prosecution done by McDowell."

He spearheaded this investigation and put in many hours of preparation. The county owes him a great deal."

The prosecutor also felt the convictions of Dortch, Langford, and Cross should serve as a deterrent to crime. "These defendants thought they were operating in a closed group, and despite that this conspiracy was smashed and they were convicted."

Trial testimony during the Dortch case said Dortch was paid slightly more than $15,000 as beneficiary on his son's life insurance policy, and a district court transcript indicated Langford received $1,000 for the murder.

Defense Atty. Harry Cramer could not be reached for comment but previously indicated that the case would be appealed if guilty verdicts were returned.

By LINDA M. KRAMER
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Two years ago the Symbionese Liberation Army kidnaped Patricia Hearst, labeled her parents fascist pigs and forced them to give $2 million in food to the poor.

Now another band of self-styled revolutionaries has targeted the Hearsts for more terrorist acts and asserts their daughter would be dead if she were free on bail.

A communique Friday signed by the New World Liberation Front claimed responsibility for a bombing a day earlier at the famed Hearst castle at San Simeon.

It gave the Hearsts 48 hours to revise their daughter's defense in her bank robbery trial and to contribute $250,000 to the defense of two SLA members in Los Angeles.

E.J. Kleines, a Hearst family attorney, said Randolph A. Hearst, Patricia's father, would not comply with the terrorists' demands.

The communique said if the demands were not met the $1 million-plus bombing Thursday at the San Simeon estate would "only be the beginning."

"They're just a bunch of maniacs, just a bunch of maniacs," sighed Hearst after reading a copy of the letter during a recess on the 14th day of Miss Hearst's bank robbery trial.

Another of his five daughters, Anne, stood beside him. She looked up and said, "It just never seems to stop, does it?" and Hearst replied, "No, it doesn't."

The FBI said it believes the communique was authentic because it resembled previous letters from the NWLF claiming responsibility for numerous San Francisco Bay area bombings.

Titled, "HEARSTS TARGET-ED," the communique called the Hearsts "vultures" and claimed they were buying justice for their daughter "at the expense" of William and Emily Harris, her former underground companions.

The Harris are awaiting trial in Los Angeles on charges stemming from a May 1974 crime spree in which Miss Hearst also has been charged.

The letter said the 21-year-old newspaper heiress would never have made it to her trial alive if she had been released on bail and demanded that the Hearsts "stop the lying that is designed to save Patty and bury the Harris."

The FBI said it had arrested a self-described NWLF courier, Jack Rogers, also known as Jacques Rogiers, who hand-delivered the communique to The Associated Press and other news media.

Rogers, 37, was picked up on a Feb. 4 bench warrant for failure to appear before a federal grand jury in connection with his dissemination of communiques reportedly prepared by the NWLF. He was held in San Francisco jail and was scheduled to appear in federal court Tuesday.

New security measures, including the searching of handbags and cameras, were instituted when tours resumed Friday at the Shangri-La 150 miles south of San Francisco built by the legendary publishing magnate William Randolph Hearst.

No one was injured in the explosion Thursday that ripped through a six-inch concrete wall in an ornate guest house just three minutes after 53 tourists had passed through it.

The building, called Casa del Sol, is 100 yards from the main castle and is one of three guest houses. The Hearsts usually stay at another, Casa del Mar, when they visit the estate which is now a California historical monument.

"We have two theories," said San Luis Obispo County Sheriff John Pierce. "Either someone put the bomb there during a tour, or someone came up at another time and planted the bomb with a long timing device."

The Casa del Sol has eight bedrooms, eight bathrooms and two living rooms on three levels. Besides structural damage, the explosion fragmented several priceless art objects including a 4th Century B.C. stone lion.

CBS Newsman Takes Blame

WASHINGTON (AP) — Television newsman Daniel Schorr says he arranged newspaper publication of the House intelligence committee's secret final report because, "I could not be the one responsible for suppressing the report." Schorr, a correspondent for CBS, described Friday "the inescapable decision of journalistic conscience" that he said faced him when he became aware he might be the only person outside government with a copy of the report. CBS said it will not comment on Schorr's statement, "because of the possibility of a federal investigation" into the publication of the report, which had been suppressed by a vote of the full House. Schorr gave no indication who leaked it to him.

Drugs A 'Deliberate Plan'

BAY CITY, Mich. (AP) — Concentrated sale of drugs in the black community is a "deliberate plan on the part of whites," charges a black New York City educator. Preston Wilcox, assistant professor at Columbia University, spoke to about 100 persons in a black history class sponsored by Delta College this week. "The whites want to replace heroin with methadone, which is just another drug," said Wilcox. "A shot of methadone last 24 hours, instead of six hours for heroin. You need to be on welfare to be on methadone. So we have a bunch of zombies walking around on welfare and on methadone." He accused police of condoning drug use in the black community. "Police are like occupational troops. They're there to make sure drugs are kept in our community and not in their community. Drugs are a political problem," he said. "There are deliberate attempts by whites to anesthetize black people, so as to deny our existence." Wilcox works in social counseling in Harlem, where he said there are 600 drug addicts in one block.

PBB-Human Data 'Lacking'

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — No well-conducted scientific investigation of health hazards humans face from eating PBB-tainted food has yet been conducted, a medical researcher claims. Dr. Thomas Corbett also told a special House committee this week that there is no hard data to prove that the federal guideline of three-tenths parts PBB per million is a safe level in cattle. PBB, or polybrominated biphenyl, is a toxic fire retardant compound that was accidentally mixed with Michigan cattle feed in 1973. Thousands of cattle and millions of chickens were destroyed after eating the poisoned feed. The Michigan Department of Agriculture said another 2,000 cattle are awaiting destruction.

Pedestrians Injured

SOUTH HAVEN — Two pedestrians were injured yesterday when struck by a car at a downtown intersection after the vehicle's brakes failed, according to city police.

Released after treatment at South Haven Community hospital were Bette Carpenter, 51, and Kenneth Bush, 69, both of South Haven. Bush suffered a broken leg, according to a hospital spokesman.

Officers said a car driven by Douglas Nevills, 18, route 4, South Haven, struck the pair at Center and Phoenix streets shortly before 3 p.m.

The driver told police he was turning onto Center from Phoenix but that when he went to stop his brakes failed, causing the car to strike the pedestrians.

Nevills was ticketed for failure to yield to pedestrians and for operating a vehicle with defective equipment, police said.

FLU DEATHS
ATLANTA (AP) — The number of deaths from pneumonia and influenza in New England has passed the "epidemic threshold," says the national Center for Disease Control. The center said 81 deaths related to flu or pneumonia have been reported.

Traverse City Virtually Ends Tiger LMAC Title Hopes

TRAVERSE CITY — The lid was nailed in Benton Harbor's coffin here Friday night as far as the LMAC race is concerned.

Traverse City, off to its best start in recent years, hammered in the final by edging the Tigers 78-72.

The loss dropped Benton Harbor to 4-4 in the league and only a major miracle can save the Tigers now. Earl McKee's crew, in fact, must win both of its remaining league games (against Muskegon and Monrovia) to avoid their worst league finish in nine years.

Traverse City, upped its league record to 6-2 and took over sole possession of the LMAC lead when Muskegon upset Haven 62-56 Grand Friday. The Trojans can wrap up their first title ever by beating Grand Haven next Friday.

"They just wanted it more than we did," McKee said. "It was another one of those games where we just didn't turn on. We didn't put out the effort like they did."

Traverse City, which has won seven straight to up its record to 13-4, got 22 points from All-State prospect Mark Brannmer. Tim Raymond added 18 points, John Hanson 11 and Dave Mann 10.

Russell Steele led Benton Harbor, as usual, with 20 points. Steve McNutt chipped in with 15. Leon Lewis added 13 and Dennis Bowers had 11 for the Tigers, now 11-7 overall. Benton Harbor held leads of four points three times in the early going, the last at 31-27 late in the second quarter. But the Trojans never trailed after scoring the last seven points of the first half to take a 34-31 halftime margin.

Still leading by the three-point cushion at 42-39 with just over five minutes to play in the third quarter, Traverse City outscored the Tigers 11-2 to take a commanding 53-41 lead.

A three-point play by Bowers helped Benton Harbor close to within three at 66-66 with 2:23 still to play. But the Tigers could get no closer. Traverse City went to its foul-corner offense to seal the victory away.

"We came out and tried to play a man-to-man in the third quarter," McKee said. "But we'd make that one reach and they'd be gone. They were always that one step ahead of us."

Benton Harbor blistered the nets on 16 of 27 shots in the second half, but it wasn't enough.

"We got decent shots but we just weren't putting the ball up there enough," McKee said.

The Tigers finished with 30 of 54 from the floor for 56 per cent. Traverse City hit on 32 of 62 for 52 per cent.

Benton Harbor held a 34-29 rebounding edge with Bowers pulling down 14 and Leon Lewis 12. Brannmer led the Trojans with eight.

The Tigers did finish with their best floor game of the year, turning the ball over just 16 times to 14 for the Trojans.

Benton Harbor did win the junior varsity game 81-76 in overtime to up its record to 19-5. Ronald Page pumped in 38 for the Tigers. Ricky McDonald added 11 and Desmond Parker and Mickey Johnson each tallied 10.

Dorothy Hamill
Golden Winner

Koch Fades In Ski Race

INNSBRUCK (AP) — She sat on a brown corduroy sofa. A gold medal dangled from a ribbon around her neck and a bouquet of flowers was cradled in her arms.

"I can't describe how happy I am," she said.

So said Dorothy Hamill as the bells in old Innsbruck tolled midnight.

Eleven years of dedication, hard work and sacrifice had come to fruition — Dorothy Hamill of Riverside, Conn., was the gold medalist. She had reached the pinnacle of women's figure skating in the 12th Winter Olympics.

Earlier, the same eyes that now glistened in a delayed news conference in the catacombs of the Olympic Ice Hall had welled with tears.

Dorothy admitted she cried shortly before she went onto the ice to skate the most important program of her 19 years. It was emotion.

Then, after the results were in and a big red carpet had been rolled across the ice for the medal presentation ceremonies, Dorothy cried again.

"I couldn't help it," she said. "It wasn't because I had finally won the medal. It was seeing the American flag go up and hearing the band play 'The Star Spangled Banner.'"

The man who draped the medal around Dorothy's neck wasn't just another blue-coated official. It was Lord Killarney, president of the International Olympic Committee.

And those two young women standing on either side of her weren't just any skaters. They were world champions — Dianne de Leeuw of The Netherlands, the 1975 winner, and Christine Errath of East Germany, queen of figure skating in 1974.

Dorothy had skated against them for these titles and just, but not this time.

The long-legged Miss de Leeuw, who lives in Los Angeles but skates for The Netherlands, had to be content with the silver medal, and Miss Errath the bronze.

For this one exhilarating evening, Dorothy was unbeatable. She was superb.

"I really felt confident all week," the petite, dark-haired teen-ager told reporters who had seen her skate in a dress she described as American Beauty Rose, and then stayed on for the long wait for a chat with the new champion.

"I am usually very tense and nervous. It is my nature. But I was more relaxed."

Dorothy's coach sat beside her, sharing for the second time in this Olympics the glory of his student. Carl Fassi of Denver, a man of Italian birth, also led Britain's John Curry to the men's individual crown on Wednesday.

Ivor Forno of Norway gave his country its third gold medal of the 12th Olympic Games, winning the 50-kilometer (31 miles) cross-country ski race today as a valiant effort by American Bill Koch — the leader at the halfway mark — fell far short.

Forno covered the grueling distance in two hours 37 minutes 30.50 seconds while Gerd Dietmar Knause of East Germany took the silver in 2:38:13.21 and Benny Sodergren of Sweden won the bronze in 2:39:38.21.

Meanwhile Koch, who had given the United States its first Nordic event medal ever with a second-place finish in the 30-kilometer cross-country race last week, raised hopes of another stirring finish by moving up from fourth place at the 14.5-kilometer mark to first at the halfway point.

Those hopes faded quickly as Koch, of Guilford, Vt., tired in the second half of the race. After finishing far back in the field, Koch looked exhausted and glassy-eyed and had to be helped to his dressing room by two officials.

"I didn't think I was going to make it," said Koch, who was reported by a team doctor as apparently suffering from cerebral hypoxia — a shortage of blood flowing to the brain. The doctor said the 20-year-old Koch would recover within an hour, and no serious effects were expected.

It was only the second time Koch had attempted such a distance, though he gave the United States its silver medal in only

Garrett Gets 1,000th Point,
Bucks Set Scoring Record

BUCHANAN — Ken Garrett went over the 1,000-point mark for his career here Friday night to help Buchanan clinch a second straight Blossomland conference title with a record 106-58 win over Dowagiac.

The point total broke the school record of 101 set in 1970 against Columbia.

Garrett tossed in 21 points to push his record career point total to 1,018 and help the Bucks win their 17th straight game this season, the longest winning streak in school history. The Bucks are now 12-0 in the league, while Dowagiac fell to 5-7 in Blossomland play and 8-9 overall.

Buchanan also got double figure scoring out of guard Walt Vanderbush, who scored 22 points, and the Busby brothers, Mike pumped in 19 and Gerald 16.

Scott Wiltsie led Dowagiac with 22, 18 coming in the first half. Kim Mulder and Bob Wankles each added 10.

Buchanan coach Bill Wilson has been looking for his team's fast break all season and Friday night it finally arrived.

"I think it's finally there."

Wilson said. "We've been stressing the break the last week or two and I think the kids are beginning to make it work."

Wilson was upset with his team's defensive work in the first half, which ended with the Bucks on top 48-37. But Buchanan, ranked second in the latest Associated Press Class C poll, was overabundant in the second half.

"We emphasized more movement toward the ball at halftime," Wilson said. "That seemed to help out quite a bit. Plus we decided to spread it out offensively in the second half."

Buchanan blistered the nets on 49 of 82 from the floor for 59 per cent. Dowagiac found the range on only 23 of 63 for 37 per cent. The Chieftains hit just seven of 31 in the second half.

The Bucks held a commanding 55-24 rebounding edge with Mike Busby pulling down 16 and Garrett 13.

Despite using a running offense throughout much of the game, Buchanan committed just seven turnovers to 20 for Dowagiac.

With VictoryBears Topple Northern, Near Loop Title

PORTAGE — St. Joseph felt the chill of the Portage Northern again here Friday night, but the Bears still managed to escape with a 51-42 victory.

St. Joe inched closer to the conference championship while taking a season-low 50 shots and posting its third-lowest field goal mark of the season (38 per cent).

"It always seems when we go to Portage Northern we have a rather difficult time doing things we do elsewhere," commented Bear coach George Gauder.

St. Joseph did get outstanding efforts from Henry Pullman, Cory Benford and Mike Collier while winning, its fifth straight and lifting season records to 9-1 in the Big Seven and 14-4 overall.

Pullman scored 12 points, pulled off 13 rebounds, blocked eight shots and made five interceptions in his super effort.

Benford added a game-high 18 points while making seven of 13 field goal attempts. The senior guard had eight points in the second quarter when the Bears posted a decisive 21-12 scoring edge.

Meanwhile, Collier got the job of guarding Northern's high-scoring George Chang in the St. Joe man-to-man defense. Chang got 22 points earlier this season against the Bears, but managed just nine Friday night. "Chang has always been a thorn in our side," continued Gauder.

Northern got 10 points from John VanArendonk while slipping to 8-5 in the league and 9-8 overall. The Huskies, who lost to St. Joe 88-63 earlier, had carried a three-game winning streak into the game.

Both teams had 18 field goals with St. Joe's continuing excellent free throw shooting again coming through. The Bears meshed 15 of 21 at the line overall (71 per cent), including eight of 10 in the last quarter. The Huskies went six for 10 (60 per cent).

St. Joe's 38 per cent field goal shooting came on an 18 for 50 effort. Northern hit just 18 of 65 (28 per cent) — the lowest shooting percentage against the Bears this season.

Northern took a 37 to 35 rebounding advantage. John VanArendonk having 12 and brother Craig 11.

Northern had 18 turnovers, and St. Joe had 17 miscues, while also being guilty of just 10 fouls, which matches a season low.

SJ 'Escapes' With Victory

Bears Topple Northern, Near Loop Title

PORTAGE — St. Joseph felt the chill of the Portage Northern igloo again here Friday night, but the Bears still managed to escape with a 51-42 victory.

St. Joe inched closer to the conference championship while taking a season-low 50 shots and posting its third-lowest field goal mark of the season (36 per cent).

"It always seems when we go to Portage Northern we have a rather difficult time doing things we do elsewhere," commented Bear coach George Gaunter.

St. Joseph did get outstanding efforts from Henry Follman, Cory Benford and Mike Collier while winning its fifth straight and lifting season records to 9-1 in the Big Seven and 14-4 overall.

Follman scored 12 points, pulled off 13 rebounds, blocked eight shots and made five interceptions in his super effort.

Benford added a game-high 18 points while making seven of 13 field goal attempts. The senior guard had eight points in the second quarter when the Bears posted a decisive 21-12 scoring edge.

Meanwhile, Collier got the job of guarding Northern's high-scoring George Chang in the St. Joe man-to-man defense. Chang got 22 points earlier this season against the Bears, but managed just nine Friday night. "Chang has always been a thorn in our side," continued Gaunter.

Northern got 10 points from John VanArendonk while slipping to 6-5 in the league and 9-8 overall. The Huskies, who lost to St. Joe 88-63 earlier, had carried a three-game winning streak into the game.

Both teams had 18 field goals, with St. Joe's continuing excellent free throw shooting again coming through. The Bears meshed 15 of 21 at the line overall (71 per cent), including eight of 10 in the last quarter. The Huskies went six for 10 (60 per cent).

St. Joe's 36 per cent field goal shooting came on an 18 for 50 effort. Northern hit just 18 of 65 (28 per cent) — the lowest shooting percentage against the Bears this season.

Northern took a 47 to 35 rebounding advantage. John VanArendonk having 12 and brother Craig 11.

Northern had 18 turnovers, and St. Joe had 17 miscues while also being guilty of just 10 fouls, which matches a season low.

Lakers Nip Panthers To Snap Road Jinx

Win Keeps Title Hopes Alive

BY PAUL MORGAN
Staff Sports Writer

WATERVLIET — This season Lake Michigan Catholic has been like a tiger at home...on the road, however, the Lakers have played more like pussycats.

But Friday night, the Lakers kept pace with Red Arrow conference-leading Galien by taking a 57-52 win over Watervliet here in high school basketball.

The victory snapped a five-game road losing streak for Catholic that dated back to Dec. 19. The Lakers are now 10-2 in league action, one game back of the Gaels, and 12-6 overall. Watervliet falls to a 4-8 conference mark and 7-9 overall.

"Heck, a five-point road win for us is practically a breather," grinned Laker head coach Al Nixon.

The Lakers had to rely on free throws to win the game. Both squads made 23 field goals, but Catholic went 11 for 20 from the charity stripe and Watervliet was six for 12.

The contest was a close one all the way, thanks to a tough Panther defense that effectively clogged up the middle for most of the night. "We were trying to screen out better," said Watervliet head coach Ken Marzka Sr. "We just try to play better defense every game."

One of the Panthers that was screening out well and getting good rebounding position was Tom Hutchinson. The junior center pulled down 15 rebounds, eight coming in the second half when he played with four fouls.

Watervliet also used a zone in the initial part of the game that seemed to take the Lakers by surprise. But once it got running, Catholic scored three quick layups and Marzka had to take the press off. "We hurt them early with it when they weren't ready for the press," Marzka said. "But they are a smart ballclub."

The Lakers' defensive efforts also received some pleasant comments from Nixon. "I was very pleased with our defensive phase of the game tonight," he said. "The kids played a good man-to-man."

Nixon had his team play the man-to-man the whole evening and it paid off in the second half when Bill Frantz was able to get better positioning for some boards. He had 15 for the game, including nine in the second half.

On offense, the Lakers had a balanced attack led by Don Alt's 15 points. Frantz added 12 and Steve Gentry 10 for Catholic. "I'm very pleased with the balance we showed on offense, getting three men in double figures and two with eight points," Nixon said.

A factor that could have helped the Lakers is their recent experience with close games. Catholic has now won three of its last four games by a total of 13 points. The Lakers lost the fourth game to Dowagiac by just two points. "Going down the stretch, looking for a conference championship, that's what you need," Nixon commented. "Our kids are used to the pressure."

On the other hand, Watervliet has seven juniors out of its eight top men "and the inexperience hurt us when the game got close," Marzka said.

Jim Weaver led the Panthers in scoring with 15 points while Hutchinson added 12 points and Tim Hardy came off the bench to notch 10 points and 10 rebounds.

Watervliet hit a fine 42 per cent from the floor, connecting on 23 of 55 attempts. The Lakers made 23 of 66 floor shots for 35 per cent.

The turnovers were just about even with the Panthers collecting 18 and Catholic 15.

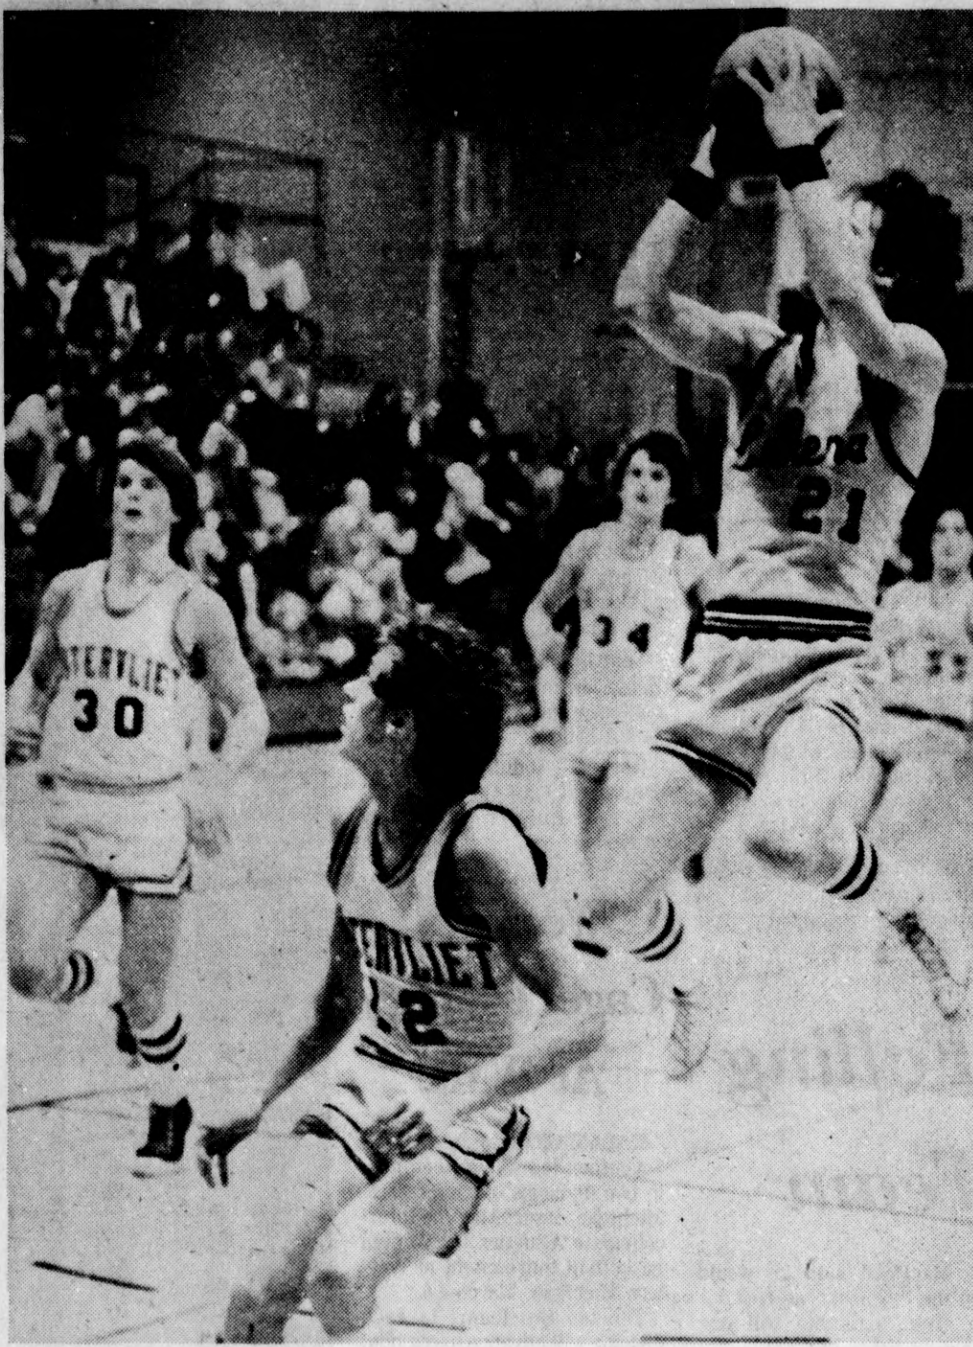

The Panthers managed to take the lead at 44-43 with 5:46 left in the game but baskets by Frantz and George Welch gave the Lakers a 47-44 margin.

The Lakers were able to hold that three-point margin through most of the later stages of the game. John Kasmer put the game out of reach. The 230-pound forward put a guard-like move on his man and made a layup with 1:42 left to give the Lakers a 55-50 lead.

Catholic's junior varsity pulled out a 47-45 victory. Clancy Rose led the winners with 16 points.

Bob Linke Sinks 24 Points In Bee Victory Over Bisons

BRIDGMAN — Bob Linke tossed in 24 points Friday night to lead upstart Bridgman to an 89-70 win over New Buffalo here.

The win was the eighth in the last 10 games for the Bees since the new year began. Bridgman is now 7-5 in the Red Arrow and 11-5 overall. New Buffalo, which has now lost five straight, fell to 1-11 and 3-14, respectively. "Linke just went to the bucket and they couldn't stop us from getting the ball to him," Bee coach Doug Hendricks said.

The 6-5 junior pumped in 19 points in the first half to help Bridgman race to a 47-33 halftime margin. The Bisons could get no closer the rest of the way.

Bridgman also got 22 points from Howie Mutz, a season-high 13 from Mike Schaller, and 12 from Dave Zilke. Bob Kerns tossed in 18 points for New Buffalo. Roger Lijewski added 13 and Mark D'Amato had 11.

The Bees meshed 35 of 68 from the floor for 51 per cent and made a remarkable improvement at the free throw line, netting 19 of 27.

"We've been concentrating on free throws all week," Hendricks said. "Mutz hit on eight of 10 from the line, a big improvement for him."

New Buffalo hit 30 of 63 from the floor for 48 per cent.

The Bees held a 47-34 rebounding edge with Linke pulling down 15 and Mutz 10. Bridgman also claimed the better floor game with 14 turnovers to 17 for the Bisons.

Bridgman also took the junior varsity game 61-41 with Phil Ott pumping in 21 points and Bill Moreland 18.

There was one more exchange of leads before Bridgman went in front for good, leading 25-21 after the first quarter, 40-35 at halftime and 64-44 entering the last period.

The Shamrocks scored 14 unanswered points in the third period, with its biggest leads being at 22 once late in the stanza and twice early in the final frame. But Hartford refused to fold scoring 14 of 15 points during the opening minutes of the fourth quarter to cut Berrien's lead to nine at 69-60. But the Indians couldn't get any closer.

"I think they played pretty well," said Stover in praise of Hartford. "They didn't look like any four-win ball club to me."

Mireles hit eight of 11 shots as Hartford meshed 28 of 55 field goals for the 51 per cent mark. Berrien hit on 32 of 86 (37 per cent).

At the free throw lines, the Indians were 18 for 30 (60 per cent) and the Shamrocks 21 of 32 (66 per cent).

Hartford's 46 to 40 rebounding edge included a game-high 16 caroms by Sexton, but the Indians' 40 turnovers were 14 more than the Shamrocks made.

"Our guards have been increasingly good on pressuring," added Stover on his turnover-causing defense. "They are causing bad passes and letting our forwards make the steals."

"Defensively, we're coming along and that's got a lot to do with our scoring."

Berrien Springs also won the junior varsity preliminary, 84-31. The little Shamrocks, now 13-5, got 19 points from Mike Shembarger, 16 from Brad Dixon, 11 from Ron Herford and 10 each from Tom Michienzi and Scott Moore. Dan Dowd was high for Hartford with nine.

'Rich' Rocks Top Indians

Hosbein, Thiele Sparkle In 85-74 Victory

By JOHN VANDEN HEED

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Another rich man, poor man story was told in Red Arrow basketball action here Friday night in the Berrien Springs gym.

The streaking Shamrocks of Berrien Springs won the fifth game of their last six 85-74 over last-place Hartford.

Terry Hosbein led all scorers with 25 points and took over the Red Arrow scoring lead (18.4 average per game) as Berrien continued to score a wealth of points. (The Shamrocks are averaging 80.0 during the current surge.)

Rick Thiele added 19 points and 15 rebounds and Kirk Hansen had 16 tallies as Berrien Springs clinched its third consecutive winning season. The Shamrocks are now third in the league at 8-4 and 11-7 on the season.

"I think we are finally starting to put it together," declared Berrien coach Connie Stover after the game. "We had a lot of adversity to overcome early in the year, and we are starting to overcome it. But we're still got a far piece to go."

The Shamrocks were without starting center Jack Lewis early in the campaign because of a football injury, and Stover was also missing because of back surgery.

Meanwhile, Hartford played well Friday night except for its ball handling, but continued to come up empty-handed in the win column. The Indians put five players in double figures but saw their record league losing streak extended to 24 straight.

Phil Mireles scored 20 points, Dave Sexton 17 and Gary Fernham, Duane Toney and Ken Lowe 11 each as Hartford slipped to 0-12 in the league and 4-13 on the season. But to the credit of the Indians, it should be pointed out that their four wins this season are the most at the school in four campaigns.

Hartford posted an excellent 51 per cent field goal shooting mark and out rebounded Berrien, but 40 turnovers by the Indians were too costly.

"This is an exciting team to watch, but we make too many turnovers," commented Hartford coach Dick Pfeiffer. "The kids are great hustlers, as they proved again tonight."

The Indians opened the game by making seven of their first 10 shots for a 17-12 lead — their biggest of the night.

Meanwhile, Berrien's Hosbein was stringing together 10 straight points for the Shamrocks which produced an 18-17 lead.

There was one more exchange of leads before Berrien went in front for good, leading 25-21 after the first quarter, 40-35 at halftime and 64-44 entering the last period.

The Shamrocks scored 14 unanswered points in the third period, with its biggest leads being at 22 once late in the stanza and twice early in the

Bucks' Coach Blasts Refs After Defeat By Cavaliers

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
Bill Fitch got a technical foul, but he could laugh about it afterwards. His team won the game.
It was Larry Costello who was really mad. He lost.
"Down the stretch you shouldn't call any fouls unless you're really sure," the Milwaukee Bucks' coach sizzled. "It's a sin to play 47 minutes and 40 seconds of whatever and then get a whistle on a judgement call. That determines the whole game. Unless you're really sure, you shouldn't be allowed to do it."
Costello was screaming Friday night after officials called two technicals in the last minutes that helped Fitch's Cleveland Cavaliers beat the Bucks 101-95.

In a highly controversial National Basketball Association game.
"Go over to their lockers and ask them what happened," Costello said, referring to referees Ron Falkner and Darrell Garretson. "They've got it locked like a drum. You can't talk to them. They're the Almighty."
The crucial play came with Milwaukee holding a 65-63 lead when the Bucks' Bob Dandridge was charged with fouling Jim Clemons. Dandridge, who had scored 20 points, was assessed two technicals for protesting the foul and then kicked out of the game by Falkner.
Bobby Smith sank two free throws on the technicals, and Clemons converted his pair as the Cavaliers led 97-85. Milwaukee was never able to catch up Cleveland's victory was its fourth straight and 10th in the last 12 games. Jim Chones scored 19 points and Smith 17 to lead the Cavaliers.

In the other NBA games, the Philadelphia 76ers routed the Houston Rockets 134-108; the Buffalo Braves stopped the Kansas City Kings 101-88; the Boston Celtics nipped the Phoenix Suns 100-108; the Seattle SuperSonics whipped the Atlanta Hawks 119-102 and the Los Angeles Lakers downed the New Orleans Jazz 128-112.
Fred Carter scored 32 points and Doug Collins 27 as Philadelphia romped past Houston.

Jim McMillian scored 11 points and reserve center Dale Schlueter came off the bench to pull down eight rebounds in the deciding fourth quarter as Buffalo beat Kansas City.
Jim Ard scored one point, but it came with three seconds left and gave Boston a tight victory over Phoenix.
Seattle's Tom Burleson and Herm Gilliam each scored 20 points to lead the SuperSonics past Atlanta.
Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's 32 points and Gail Goodrich's 30 led Los Angeles over New Orleans.

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — Seventeen teams will compete in two divisions of the State of Michigan Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women basketball tournament at Western Michigan, March 4-6.
The top two teams in each division will advance to regional tournaments March 11-13.
Teams in the large-schools division will be: Adrian, Calvin, Central Michigan, Eastern Michigan, Grand Valley, Michigan State, Northern Michigan, Michigan, Wayne State and Western Michigan.
In the smaller-schools division will be: Albion, Hope, Kalamazoo, Olivet, Saginaw Valley, Shaw and Spring Arbor.

Legal Roadblocks Falling For Seattle's New Team

SEATTLE (AP) — Now that the legal roadblocks appear to be out of the way, businessman Les Smith, entertainer Danny Kaye and their four other partners can begin planning their American League baseball team.
Smith said Friday that the group, organized as a general partnership, intends to take "a look at what's going on" during spring training and the first two months of the season as it searches for a general manager.

The city of Seattle announced Friday that it had agreed to join the state and county in asking for the suspension of their $32.5 million damage suit against the league and its owners.
At the press conference announcing the city's decision, Mayor Wes Uhlman said the league had agreed to amend its constitution to prevent a team being transferred to an insolvent corporation, "facilitating" its transfer.
Uhlman also said that American League President

Lee MacPhail said he would help the city serve as host for the first available All-Star Game, probably 1978.
The city had balked initially, saying it wanted a cash settlement for money it spent refurbishing Sicks Stadium, the Pilots' home in 1969.
Continuance of the suit, was the final of three conditions required by the league.
The Smith-Kaye group earlier agreed to buy the franchise for about $5.5 million and the group also signed a 20-year lease to use the King County Stadium.

Cardinals Cling To Title Hopes

BLOOMINGDALE — Racing out to a 43-15 halftime lead, Bloomingdale kept its SAC hopes alive Friday night by beating Lawton 80-52.
The win upped the Cardinals league record to 8-2, one game behind SAC co-leaders Decatur and Marcellus. Bloomingdale can decide its own fate as the Cardinals still have home games with both the Raiders and the Wildcats.
Lawton fell to 4-7 in the league and 6-10 overall.
Dan Leonard came off the bench to score 13 points and lead Bloomingdale. Jeff Melvin added 12 and Goldman Greene had 11 for the winners. Bryan Crimmett was the only Lawton player to hit for double figures with 14.

Bloomingdale was in command throughout after grabbing the 26-point halftime lead.
"The kids played probably their best defensive ballgame all year in the first half," Cardinal coach Ray Lasco said. "We've been experimenting with a new press and it seemed to do a good job."
Bloomingdale hit on 24 of 59 from the floor for 43 per cent and held a 37-30 rebounding edge with Tim Miller pulling down 12.

Texas Speedway Is Being Sold

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Only official papers need to be signed to complete the sale of the Texas World Speedway, a $6.2 million, 2.7 mile auto racing track, the president of the World Series of Auto-Racing says.
Richard S. Conole said Thursday the track has been sold to a Philadelphia-based racing syndicate by the current owners, Holloway Sand and Gravel Co. of Michigan.
The track has had two owners since it opened under the name of Texas International Speedway in November 1969. Don Holloway Sr., whose sand and gravel company was a major contractor for the track, bought the speedway in 1971 after the original owner went bankrupt.

UCLA Risks Home Streak

Revived Bruins Host Huskies Tonight

Since he took over the UCLA basketball team, Gene Bartow has had to contend with dissension, rebellion, harsh criticism and even obscene phone calls.
Now he's got something else to worry about — a 96-game homecourt winning streak.
The sixth-ranked Bruins haven't lost at home since Southern Cal beat them 87-86 on March 6, 1970. But tonight's game with No. 9 Washington should test that monumental streak.
The Huskies, a Pacific-8 title contender for the first time in many years, will be shooting plenty of inside firepower at the Bruins. Including their seven-footer, James Edwards. He led Washington's 83-73 victory over Southern Cal Thursday night to fatten the Huskies' record to 18-2.
Marv Harshman's team expects to see a zone defense at Pauley Pavilion tonight. The Bruins used that successfully when they met in Seattle last week and came off with a 92-87 triumph.

Belleville Upsets Plymouth Salem!

PLYMOUTH, Mich. (AP) — Belleville surged to a 13-1 lead and went on to smash previously unbeaten Plymouth Salem, Michigan's fourth-ranked Class A high school basketball team, 63-57 Friday night.
Nardell Turner scored 15 points in the first period for Belleville, while led 27-9 after the first quarter of the Suburban Eight Conference game.
Salem, now 16-1, battled back to trail only 28-26 at halftime but never did pull ahead.

Bangor's Upset Bid Falls Just Short

BANGOR — Bangor lost a non-league thriller to KVA powerhouse Delton 57-53 here Friday night.
After trailing 38-28 at halftime and 48-43 after three quarters, Bangor came back for a one-point advantage midway through the final frame. It stayed close the rest of the way, with three free throws in the closing seconds by Denny Bourdo icing the victory for Delton.
"We had to foul, and they made them," commented Bangor coach Mike Witt. "They've got a good ball club, but our kids played well. That's a hard one to lose."
Delton, now 14-3, got 13 points from Phil Johnson, 12 from Brett Champion and 10 each from Reynard Reyes and Bill Humphrey.
Bangor, now 11-6, got a game-high 23 points from Skyler Morgan and 14 points from Ricky Ross.

Bangor's Upset Bid Falls Just Short

was Delton's string of 10 unanswered points in the final 1 1/2 minutes of first half.
Bangor made 21 of 56 field goals (37 per cent) and 11 of 18 free throws (61 per cent). Delton went 28 of 67 from the floor (38 per cent) and five of nine at the line (56 per cent).
Bangor had a 34 to 31 rebounding edge, including 13 by Morgan. The Vikings also had 22 turnovers, compared to Delton's 19.
The junior varsity preliminary was won by Bangor.

Bucks' Coach Blasts Refs After Defeat By Cavaliers

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bill Fitch got a technical foul, but he could laugh about it afterwards. His team won the game.

It was Larry Costello who was really mad. He lost.

"Down the stretch you shouldn't call any fouls unless you're really sure," the Milwaukee Bucks' coach sizzled. "It's a sin to play 47 minutes and 40 seconds or whatever and then get a whistle on a judgement call. That determines the whole game. Unless you're really sure, you shouldn't be allowed to do it."

Costello was steaming Friday night after officials called two technicals in the last minutes that helped Fitch's Cleveland Cavaliers beat the Bucks 101-96

in a highly controversial National Basketball Association game.

"Go over to their lockers and ask them what happened," Costello said, referring to referees Ken Falkner and Darrel Garretson. "They've got it locked like a drum. You can't talk to them. They're the Almighty."

The crucial play came with Milwaukee holding a 95-93 lead when the Bucks' Bob Dandridge was charged with fouling Jim Clemons. Dandridge, who had scored 20 points, was assessed two technicals for protesting the foul and then kicked out of the game by Falkner.

Bobby Smith sank two free throws on the technicals, and Clemons converted his pair as the Cavaliers led 97-95. Milwaukee was never able to catch up; Cleveland's victory was its fourth straight and 10th in the last 12 games. Jim Chones scored 19 points and Smith 17 to lead the Cavaliers.

In the other NBA games, the Philadelphia 76ers routed the Houston Rockets 134-109; the Buffalo Braves stopped the Kansas City Kings 101-96; the Boston Celtics nipped the Phoenix Suns 109-108; the Seattle SuperSonics whipped the Atlanta Hawks 119-102 and the Los Angeles Lakers downed the New Orleans Jazz 126-112.

Fred Carter scored 32 points and Doug Collins 27 as Philadelphia romped past Houston.

Jim McMillian scored 11 points and reserve center Dale Schlueter came off the bench to pull down eight rebounds in the deciding fourth quarter as Buffalo beat Kansas City.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's 32 points and Gail Goodrich's 30 led Los Angeles over New Orleans.

"We're getting a lot of input," he continued. "I've got a desk full of applications for all kinds of jobs."

Cedric Tallis, former Kansas City Royal general manager who held the same job once with Seattle's AAA Pacific Coast League team in the 1960s, and Roland Hemond, former California Angels farm director and Chicago White Sox general manager, already have been mentioned as candidates.

The Seattle group officially joins the league after the 1976 World Series.

In the interim, the major leagues are expected to determine if the National League also will expand to 13 teams and participate in interleague play or if the American League will add a 14th club.

UCLA Risks Home Streak

Revived Bruins Host Huskies Tonight

Since he took over the UCLA basketball team, Gene Bartow has had to contend with dissension, rebellion, harsh criticism and even obscene phone calls.

Now he's got something else to worry about — a 96-game homecourt winning streak.

The sixth-ranked Bruins haven't lost at home since Southern Cal beat them 87-86 on March 6, 1970. But tonight's game with No. 9 Washington should test that monumental streak.

The Huskies, a Pacific-8 title contender for the first time in many years, will be shooting plenty of inside firepower at the Bruins, including their seven-footer, James Edwards. He led Washington's 93-75 victory over Southern Cal Thursday night to fatten the Huskies' record to 19-2.

Marv Harshman's team expects to see a zone defense at Pauley Pavilion tonight. The Bruins used that successfully when they met in Seattle last week and came off with a 92-87 triumph.

UCLA has come around after an unsteady beginning that wasn't helped by bickering and open rebellion from the players. There were rumors that some players were ready to leave the team after three early-season losses. Bartow had lost the whip hand over the Bruins, it was charged.

Bartow's home phone number was announced over the air by a Los Angeles radio station and the result was predictable: Phone calls poured in, most of them hardly complimentary.

It got so bad that a distraught Bartow, in his first year at UCLA and following the legendary John Wooden, called a team meeting to straighten things out.

"You better get your minds on basketball," he told his players with grim finality. "or else we're in real trouble."

Then he left the players to some serious soul-searching.

There has been an upswing of late for "Clean Gene," who wears that label for his highly spiritual lifestyle. The team's emotional state is better. The Bruins are playing with far more intensity than in the early season and UCLA appears to be once more the team to beat in the Pac-8.

At least Bartow thinks so.

"We are starting to play the kind of basketball that is synonymous with UCLA," he says, some of his first-year frights gone.

In Friday night's college basketball, Armond Hill scored 18 points to lead Princeton to a 56-47 decision over Brown; Penn whipped Yale 73-53 as Keven McDonald and John Engles scored 17 points each; Al Fleming and Bob Elliott teamed for 43 points to lead Arizona to an 89-76 victory over Utah; Brigham Young nipped Arizona State 93-89 as Jay Cheesman and Vance Law combined for 61 points; Larry Gray scored 17 to help New Mexico beat Wyoming 57-51 and four free throws in the last minute of play by George Tucker and Lonnie Shelton gave Oregon State a 70-66 victory over Stanford.

Mileski Leads Way U.P. Football Gains Recognition At Last

By LARRY PALADINO
AP Sports Writer

TROY, Mich. (AP) — Critics from Michigan's Upper Peninsula have often contended that high school sports teams north of the Mackinac Straits generally have been ignored by the populous Lower Peninsula.

Whether this is a state of mind or a genuine grievance has never been scientifically determined. But the feeling is there, nevertheless.

People like Mike Mileski are working hard to eliminate any such discrimination — through example.

Who could possibly slough off a team that won the state's first official Class C high school football championship by beating a team that had just set the national record for consecutive victories?

Who could possibly ignore a boy who traveled more than 900 miles round trip in the midst of a bad winter to tell his Lower Peninsula colleagues how it was accomplished.

Mileski is the football coach at Ishpeming High, which defeated national record holder Hudson, 38-22, last Nov. 22 to capture the Class C state grid title. He journeyed all the way to Troy, Mich., to give an hour-long address before the Michigan High School Football Coaches Association.

"Hopefully, with the state playoffs, now in time, Upper Peninsula football would be recognized as good football and people would look at us a little cheer," Mileski said in an interview, after his formal talk on Ishpeming's option offense.

"People don't see us play up there," he said, "just local newsmen. I can see why they (U.P. teams) are forgotten at times in the polls."

Ishpeming had ranked eighth by the Associated Press when it beat top-ranked Hudson for the title. Hudson had beaten fifth-ranked Kalamazoo Hackett in the semifinals for their record 72nd straight triumph.

Ishpeming isn't wearing the U.P. banner alone. Crystal Falls Forest Park, which had been ranked fourth, crushed Flint Holy Rosary, 50-0, for the Class D title.

Incidentally, in the latest basketball poll, Crystal Falls was ranked fourth in "D" and Negaunee from the Upper Peninsula was first in Class C.

"People in the Upper Peninsula are pretty proud," said the soft-spoken Mileski, a slender, in-shape, balding man who looks somewhat like Manager Bill Virdon of baseball's Houston Astros.

"It's a nice place to live," Mileski continued. "Any time we get a chance to let people know about it, we do. We just enjoy it. It's quite a feeling to live up here."

It's a little-known fact, but actually the first "official" state grid title for Ishpeming is actually its fourth championship. From 1899 through 1904 state champions were declared through a joint program of the University of Michigan and the

State Athletic Committee — forerunner of the Michigan High School Athletic Association, which ran and sanctioned the 1975 tourney.

Ishpeming beat Orchard Lake Michigan Military Academy 12-3 in the 1900 game. The next season it downed Kalamazoo 27-21, then beat Benton Harbor 35-12 in 1902.

Benton Harbor came back with a 22-0 triumph the following year over another Upper Peninsula team, Escanaba. Then in 1904, the last "unofficial" tourney, Escanaba tripped Mount Pleasant 16-3.

"I think most coaches in the U.P. would agree it's a real fundamental type of hard-hitting football," Mileski said. "You don't see a lot of finesse."

For games up here you'd better put your helmets on and be ready to hit.

He said he believed the lifestyle of Upper Peninsula boys has helped coaches in building strong football teams.

"They're not living high on the hog," he said. "Their fathers go to the mill or mine and work all day. The kids are well disciplined. They know right from wrong. Coaches can discipline a problem. You're not fighting that all of the time."

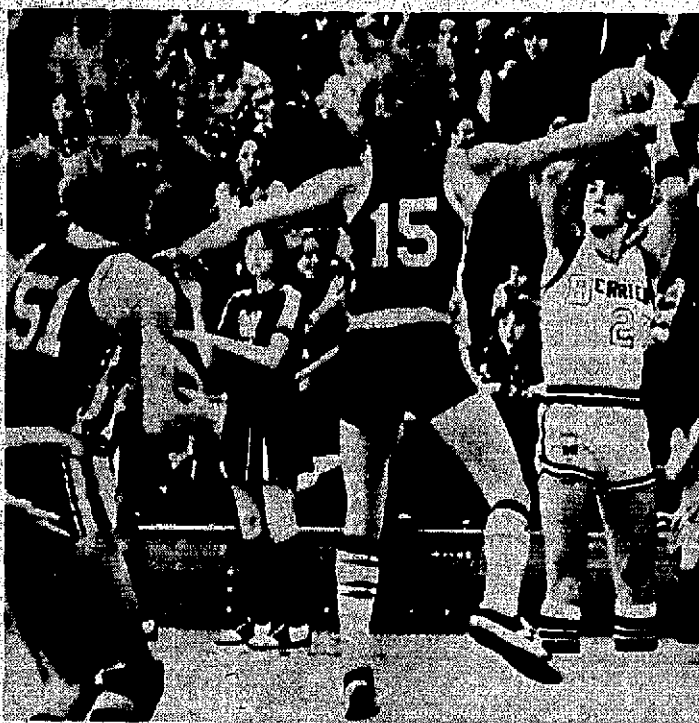

In smaller towns the kids aren't exposed to as many things that might detract them from competing in athletics. They're exposed to things on a smaller level. I'm sure that's a factor. It goes back to the discipline thing.

Mileski, 35, is a graduate of Northern Michigan University at Marquette. He coached in Escanaba, his home town, for four years after graduation and then went to Green Bay, Wis., to coach the West High as an assistant for five years.

Mileski and his family took a little ribbing when he first took the job at Ishpeming, whose nickname is the Hermatites — a form of iron ore.

"I didn't know what a Hermatite was," Mileski told the coaches' gathering. "It is a piece of rock. The kids in our neighborhood were calling my kids 'hermatoids'."

Not any more.

Morley Says Non-Golfer Put His Game Together

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Mike Morley, an obscure, longshot career struggler from Minot, N.D., figured he was going to play a little better this year. But even he hadn't planned on this.

"Naturally, I'm a little surprised," Morley said in typical, low-key, under-stated fashion Friday after his eagle on the final hole had given him a share of the second round lead in the $180,000 Andy Williams San Diego Open Golf Tournament.

"I knew I'd play better—but I didn't know how much better," Morley, tied with Snead at 11-under-par 33 halfway through this chase for a $36,000 first prize, generally has been overlooked in the early season heroics of Ben Crenshaw and Johnny Miller, neither of whom is playing here. But Morley's play—in comparison with his previous career—has been remarkable.

With the season just getting started, he finished second once, fourth once and had two other placings in the top 15. He's already won $38,000, compared with $41,000 for all of last season. And that was the best season of his seven-year career.

The turn-around came last year. "I looked like my game had gone as far as it could go," he said. "I figured I had to do something or get off the tour."

So he sought the advice and help of Joe Nichols, a Phoenix, Ariz., businessman who "hasn't played" in 25 years. Morley said, "But he knows the game. He thinks he knows how the game should be played."

"He's the only man I've ever known who could put the game all in perspective for me—who could make me understand what it's all about."

"I was pretty confused. I had a lot of loose ends in my game. Now, it just seems to all be coming together."

It came together with a six-under-par 66 and still another shot at his first four title.

Snead, the defending champion and the first round leader, had a 69 in the cold, cloudy, threatening weather that left him tied with Morley one stroke in front of the always-dangerous Bruce Crampton.

Crampton, an Australian who has won 15 tour titles, had a solid 68 and was at 134.

It was another two strokes back to Don January, Don Bles and Jim Masserello, locked at 138. January's seven-under-par 65 ranked as the best round of the gray, gloomy day. Bles had a 66 and Masserello a 67.

Shero Takes Short Leave

From Associated Press

Fred Shero has no intention of becoming the Wally Pipp of hockey, but it's nice to know that Mike Nykoluk and Barry Ashbee are waiting in the wings, anyway.

For the youngsters in the audience, Wally Pipp was a first baseman for the New York Yankees in the 1920s who decided he wasn't feeling well enough to play one day and was replaced by Lou Gehrig. They finally got Gehrig out of there 2,130 games in a row later.

Shero took a brief sabbatical from his coaching duties Friday night and watched from the press box as Nykoluk and Ashbee guided the Philadelphia Flyers to a 3-3 National Hockey League victory over the New York Rangers as Reggie Leach and Bill Barber scored two goals apiece.

Elsewhere in the NHL, the Buffalo Sabres rallied for three goals in the final period and tipped the Atlanta Flames 3-2. The Boston Bruins edged the California Golden Seals 6-5 and the St. Louis Blues blanked the Washington Capitals 2-0.

In World Hockey Association play, it was the Cincinnati Stingers 5, New England Whalers 1; Calgary Cowboys 4, Indianapolis Racers 3 in overtime; and Edmonton Oilers 5, Toronto Toros 3.

A check with the NHL office disclosed the Philadelphia-New York game marked the first time a team had two coaches behind the bench.

"I think every coach should get a break, take one or two days off," Shero said. "Even if you're winning, you are under pressure. Including preseason and playoffs there are 100 games in a season. That's a lot of games, and there's plenty of pressure for a coach to handle."

Former Atlanta wing Jacques Richard flipped in a rebound to cap Buffalo's third-period rally that enabled the Sabres to remain six points behind Boston in the Adams Division.

Wayne Cashman scored his second goal of the game and 20th of the year with 5:19 remaining to win the game, 1-0.

Chuck Leffley scored in each of the first two periods while goalie Ed Johnston got his first shutout of the season.

Ron Plurth scored on the first shot of the game after just 44 seconds of play and the Stingers added three more goals in the opening period by Rick Dudley, Bernie MacNeil and Bryan Campbell.

Rick Sentes scored the winning goal with 39 seconds left in the third period and then poked in the winner at 1:18 of the sudden-death overtime.

Bob Russell and Rick Morris scored Edmonton in a 2-0 lead for the first three minutes as the Oilers defeated the Toros.

Tech Icers Win Squeaker

From Associated Press

Western Collegiate Hockey Association pacemaker Michigan Tech has won 10 of its last 11 games and the Huskies have pulled most of them out of the hat.

It was no different Friday night when George Lyle scored with 22 seconds left to give Tech a 7-6 victory over Notre Dame.

Minnesota clawed out a 5-4 overtime victory at Wisconsin and climbed past Michigan State back into second place, seven points behind Tech.

Michigan State stubbed its tie at home again losing to North Dakota 6-2.

In other games, Michigan trounced Denver 4-2 and Colorado College stopped Minnesota-Duluth 6-4.

Lyle's game winner for Tech came five seconds after Paul Clarke had given Notre Dame a tie. Mike Zuke scored two goals for Tech, now 19-8 in the league and 23-7 overall.

Warren Miller stole the puck and raced in to score his third goal of the game 1:46 into overtime to give Minnesota its victory over last place Wisconsin.

Freshman Bill Wheeler scored his first collegiate goal midway through the third period to snap a 2-2 tie and spark Michigan past Denver.

Bob DePieri scored a goal and added two assists to lead North Dakota to its victory.

Freshman defenseman Rob Mihaluk, Scott Marvin, Scott Deane, Brad Decker and Mike Burzgraf also scored for the Sioux, who have won seven of their last ten games.

Waltrip Passes Daytona Test

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Catapulted into the limelight of the world's richest stock car race by his first super-speedway victory, Darrell Waltrip sees his beating Richard Petty in a qualifier as an omen for Sunday's $343,000 Daytona 500.

"When you run with Petty and beat him on the last lap, it is a great confidence builder," Waltrip said. "He's won this race five times and he just keeps getting better. We've tested our engine, our tires and everything else. We tested our driver Thursday and, by damn, I think he passed."

Waltrip figures Petty is the man to beat for first prize of $40,000 plus up to $20,000 lap money.

Petty said he appreciated the compliment, but Sunday's climax of Speed Weeks is quite different from the Thursday victory that paid Waltrip $3,000. "Sunday is a whole new game," Petty said. "We're talking about a lot more money and a different strategy."

Waltrip, just turned 26 this month, won his first two events on the big-money Grand National circuit of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing (NASCAR) last year and got his first major sponsor this year.

He also was among the favorites in today's $72,700 late model sportsman race over 300 miles, but the busiest driver of the week is Bobby Allison. Allison won the 200-mile modified stockers race Friday afternoon after seventh place in the final event of the International Race of Champions series and fourth overall in the series.

"It was a $35,350 payday for Allison. He'll start a Mercury in eighth place Sunday and had qualified 10th fastest for today's event but withdrew."

"We had unexpected problems with our sportsman car," he said, "and we're getting ready for Sunday."

Benny Parsons, winner of the IROC race and tied for second with Martin Andretti for second in the series behind winner A.J. Foyt, feels his chances of repeating last year's Daytona 500 victory are good.

"I started 32nd last year, and I'm starting 32nd this year. But my chances are even better because my Chevrolet is better than last year's," Parsons said.

Other top favorites are Dave Marcis in a Chevrolet, Buddy Baker in a Ford, David Pearson in a Mercury, Cale Yarborough in a Chevrolet, and Foyt in a Chevrolet.

Carner Wielding Hot Putter

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — JoAnne Carner attributes her first-round success in the $45,000 Orange Blossom Classic of the Ladies Professional Golf Association to her putting game.

She attributes her game, in one-time men's golf star Gardner Dickinson.

"One year I won $22,000 and I went to Gardner, took three lessons and went out and won $85,000 that year," Mrs. Carner said Friday after carding a seven-under-par 32-33-65 for a two-stroke lead in the 73rd annual event. "I saw him once last year and I won $80,000."

Super might be the word for her play, especially on the greens, as she gained a two-stroke lead over Sally Little, who has never won on the LPGA tour.

Mrs. Carner sank seven birdies, four from 12 feet away or better, and had no bogies in one-putting nine greens en route to the 65 that tied her previous best competitive round score.

Miss Little, two strokes ahead of veterans Sandra Haynie and Mary Horner and three in front of Sandra Palmer, Kathy Whitworth and Kathy Postlewait, also had a fine day on the greens with rounds of 34 and 33.

Ten golfers in the field of 114 are bunched at 71. Another eight are tied at even-par 72.

The field will be trimmed to the low 60 and ties after today's round. The tournament is being played over the 6,500-yard course at Seminole Lakes Country Club.

Capac Thwarts

Memphis, 32-9

CAPAC, Mich. (AP) — Who would have believed that earlier this high school basketball season Capac had beaten Memphis 87-60?

It wasn't such a surprise that Capac, ranked fourth in Class C, beat Memphis in their rematch Friday night — it's just that there were 108 fewer points scored.

Capac beat Memphis 32-8 — that's right, thirty-two-to-nine — Memphis went into a stall early and didn't give it up until the last six minutes. Neither team scored a point in the third quarter after Capac had taken a "commanding" 14-4 halftime lead.

Capac blew the game open in the final quarter with 18 points. Memphis scored three points in the first, second and fourth quarters.

Watson Leads K-Wings To Victory Over Gems

There was a lot of saving going on in the International Hockey League Friday night.

Goalie Harvey Stewart of Saginaw and Billy Yen of Columbus combined for a game total of 75 saves, while Muskegon goalie Don Cutts made 40 saves.

Yen rebuffed 37 attempts by Saginaw players, as Columbus defeated the Gems 4-2. Stewart blocked 38 attempts on goal.

Jerry DeMarco scored the winning goal for the Owls, as Columbus tipped their record to 20-31-4. The Gems are 18-19-7.

Cutts' 40 saves earned him a shutout, as Muskegon trounced Fort Wayne 8-0. Carlo Torresson

Muskegon is now 24-20-10, while Fort Wayne is 19-25-12.

Right wingman Bob Watson scored two goals as the Kalamazoo Wings scored a 6-2 victory over the Dayton Gems.

PLAZA RIVERVIEW DRIVE

Mileski Leads Way U.P. Football Gains Recognition At Last

By LARRY PALADINO
AP Sports Writer

TROY, Mich. (AP) — Critics from Michigan's Upper Peninsula have often contended that high school sports teams north of the Mackinac Straits generally have been ignored by the populous Lower Peninsula.

Whether this is a state of mind or a genuine grievance has never been scientifically determined. But the feeling is there, nevertheless.

People like Mike Mileski are working hard to eliminate any such discrimination — through example.

Who could possibly slough off a team that won the state's first official Class C high school football championship by beating a team that had just set the national record for consecutive victories?

Who could possibly ignore a guy who traveled more than 900 miles round trip in the midst of a bad winter to tell his Lower Peninsula colleagues how it was accomplished.

Mileski is the football coach at Ishpeming High, which defeated national record-setter Hudson, 38-22, last Nov. 22 to capture the Class C state grid title. He journeyed all the way to Troy Athens High outside Detroit recently to give an hour-long address before the Michigan High School Football Coaches Association.

"Hopefully with the state playoffs, now in time Upper Peninsula football would be recognized as good football and people would look at us a little closer," Mileski said in an interview, after his formal talk on Ishpeming's option offense.

Ishpeming had ranked eighth by the Associated Press when it beat top-ranked Hudson for the title. Hudson had beaten fifth-ranked Kalamazoo Hackett in the semifinals for their record 72nd straight triumph.

Ishpeming isn't wearing the U.P. banner alone. Crystal Falls Forest Park, which had been ranked fourth, crushed Flint Holy Rosary, 50-0, for the Class D title.

Incidentally, in the latest basketball poll Crystal Falls was ranked fourth in "D" and Negaunee from the Upper Peninsula was first in Class C.

"People in the Upper Peninsula are pretty proud," said the soft-spoken Mileski, a slender, in-shape, balding man who looks somewhat like Manager Bill Virdon of baseball's Houston Astros.

It's a little-known fact, but actually the first "official" state grid title for Ishpeming is actually its fourth championship. From 1899 through 1904 state champions were declared through a joint program of the University of Michigan and the

State Athletic Committee — forerunner of the Michigan High School Athletic Association which ran and sanctioned the 1975 tourney.

Ishpeming beat Orchard Lake Michigan Military Academy, 12-5, in the 1900 game. The next season it downed Kalamazoo, 27-21, then beat Benton Harbor, 35-12, in 1902.

Benton Harbor came back with a 22-0 triumph the following year over another Upper Peninsula team, Escanaba. Then in 1904, the last "unofficial" tourney, Escanaba tripped Mount Pleasant, 16-5.

"I think most coaches in the U.P. would agree it's a real fundamental type of hard-hitting football," Mileski said. "You don't see a lot of finesse. For games up here you'd better put your helmets on and be ready to hit."

He said he believed the lifestyle of Upper Peninsula boys has helped coaches in building strong football teams.

"They're not living high on the hog," he said. "Their fathers go to the mill or mine and work all day. The kids are well disciplined. They know right from wrong. Coaches can discipline a problem. You're not fighting that all of the time."

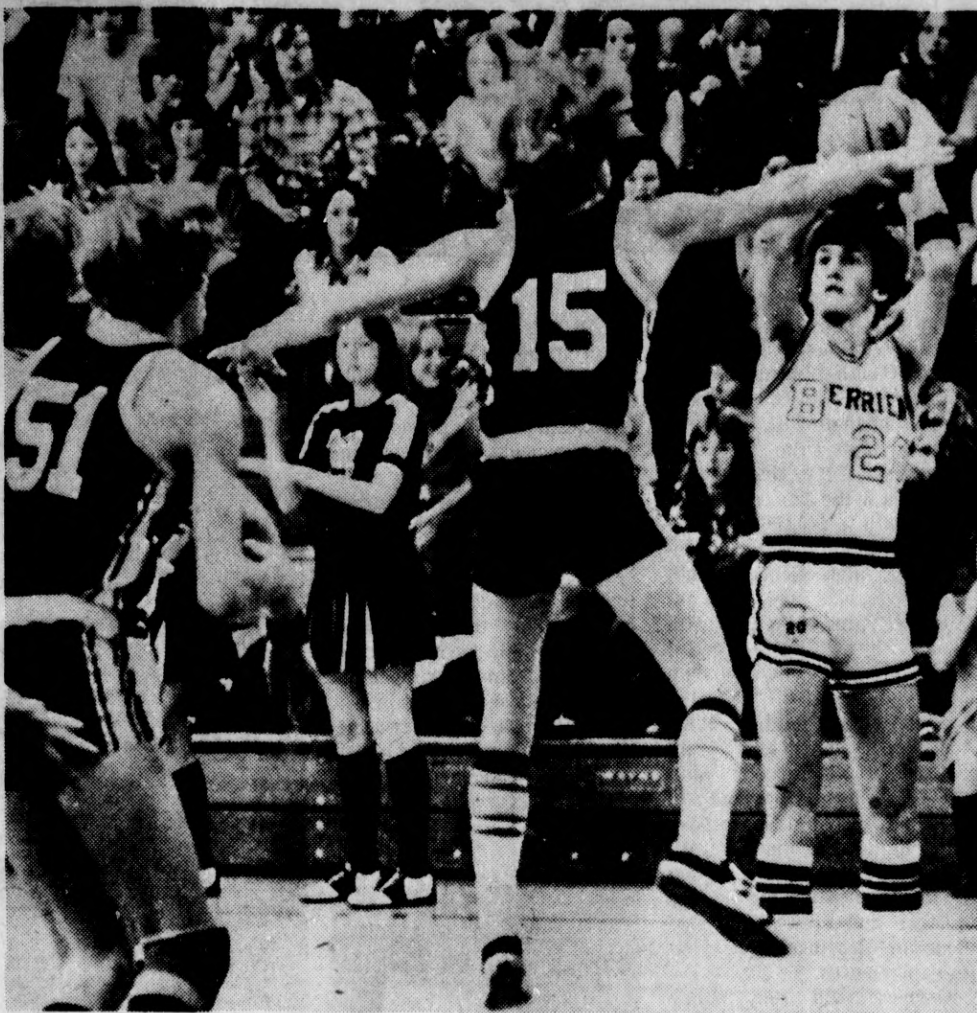

"In smaller towns the kids aren't exposed to as many things that might detract them from competing in athletics. They're exposed to things on a smaller level. I'm sure that's a factor. It goes back to the discipline thing."

Mileski, 35, is a graduate of Northern Michigan University at Marquette. He coached in Escanaba, his home town, for four years after graduation and then went to Green Bay, Wisconsin's West High as an assistant for five years.

Mileski and his family took a little ribbing when he first took the job at Ishpeming, whose nickname is the Hermites — a form of iron ore.

"I didn't know what a Hermit was," Mileski told the coaches' gathering. "It is a piece of rock. The kids in our neighborhood were calling my kids 'hemorrhoids.'"

Yeo rebuffed 37 attempts by Saginaw players, as Columbus defeated the Gems 4-2. Stewart blocked 38 attempts on goal.

Jerry DeMarco scored the winning goal for the Owls, as Columbus upped their record to 20-31-6. The Gems are 30-19-7.

Cutts' 40 saves earned him a shutout, as Muskegon trounced Fort Wayne 9-0. Carlo Torresan and Pat DeMarchi each scored a pair of goals.

PLAZA RIVERVIEW DRIVE

Two-Pronged Fund Drive Opens For Ambulance Unit

By JOHN DYE

SOUTH BERRIEN BUREAU — The South-west Michigan Community Ambulance service has opened a two-pronged fund drive to finance ambulance service in Southeast Berrien county and Cass county's Howard township. Included is a $100,000 capital fund drive to purchase ambulances and equipment and a family subscription drive to help finance low-cost ambulance coverage, according to Joe Garbert II, Buchanan city representative to and chairman of the SMCAS board.

Municipal members of SMCAS are the cities of Buchanan and Niles and townships of Buchanan, Niles, and Bertrand in Berrien county and Howard township in Cass county.

An all-volunteer ambulance service, with 24-hour manned ambulances in both Niles and Buchanan will begin on Tuesday, Feb. 17.

The capital fund drive got its first shot in the arm earlier this week with a $10,000 donation from Simplicity Pattern company of Niles. George Lund, executive vice president of Simplicity, made the presentation to Mrs. Philip (Marcella) Hadsell Jr. of Niles, chairman of the SMCAS drive.

John McDonald, Niles township supervisor and SMCAS project director, said the $100,000 drive hopes to raise will include the purchase of equipment to monitor ambulance patients and establish permanent housing for the ambulance and crew to be stationed in Niles, in addition to the two ambulances.

Garbert said the money raised by the subscription program will be used to offset operating expenses of the ambulance service.

Application for the service, available to anyone who resides within the six-government area, can be made at any of the six township or city halls, Garbert said.

A family membership will cost $15 per year and an individual membership will be $8. Membership will cover any members of the family or any guests of the house hold, Garbert said.

Non-membership fees for ambulance service will be a $40 minimum charge, plus $1.25 per loaded mile after the first 10 miles. Patient transfer costs (from one hospital to another) will be 30 cents per loaded mile for members, and the same fee for emergency service for non-members.

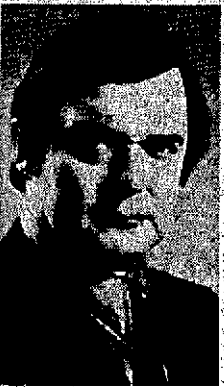

Emergency ambulance service will be provided to hospitals in South Bend, Mishawaka, Dowagiac, Niles, Buchanan and Berrien General hospital in Berrien Center; as well as the Cass county Medical Care facility.

The two-man, all-volunteer crews servicing the ambulances will be based at Pawating hospital in Niles and Unity hospital in Buchanan.

Until the Feb. 17 initiation of all-volunteer service, St. Joseph-based STAT Ambulance service will provide primary emergency ambulance service to the Niles-Buchanan area. A second, back-up ambulance, manned by SMCAS volunteer workers will also be available.

CAS was formed by the six governments in November after Robert Wilson, owner of Gold Crown Ambulance service, Niles, announced he would no longer provide emergency ambulance service to the area. SMCAS signed a 90-day contract with STAT that expires on Feb. 17.

SMCAS has a permanent base for the Buchanan-based ambulance at the Buchanan township hall, located across the street from Unity hospital. The Niles-based ambulance is currently based at Pawating hospital, but must find other permanent headquarters for the ambulance, crews and SMCAS offices.

He'll Tell Story Of 'Uncola'

Winfield L. Holden, vice president and management supervisor of J. Walter Thompson Co., based in Chicago, will tell the "The Uncola Story" at the Thursday, Feb. 18 meeting of The Communicator's Forum.

The dinner is scheduled for 6:45 p.m. at Win Schuler's restaurant, Stevensville. While it will be a regular meeting of the Forum, the public is invited to attend. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Jan Rogacki, president, at LECO Corporation.

Holden will trace the route he took to promote 7-Up, "just another green bottle fizzy," to a giant in the soft drink industry.

Holden at J. Walter Thompson Co., one of the nation's largest advertising agencies, has worked on Ford Motor Co., Sears Roebuck and the 7-Up accounts. His tenure on 7-Up has lasted 18 years.

The Communicator's Forum is a newly organized association of advertising and public relations professionals.

MSU Male Bowlers Say Women Get Unfair Break

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Male bowlers at Michigan State University are complaining about what they contend is sexism in reverse.

The scoring system used in MSU's bowling classes is what is bringing the cries of "foul" from some of the men.

Most teachers grade their classes by total average for the term, with the averages then divided into two scales — one for men and one for women.

Using this system, one instructor gives a top four-point grade to women with only a 108 average, while for male students to get a top grade, a 135 average is required.

Some students contend that Title IX, a law passed by Congress in 1972, supposedly makes such a grading practice illegal, because grading women on a lower scale than men amounts to sex discrimination, prohibited under the Act.

Asked about the complaints voiced by some of the men, the chairman of MSU's Health and Physical Recreation Department, Gale Mickles, was quoted by the student newspaper as saying:

"This is not discrimination. Girls have a physical handicap. If we wanted to give all girls 'C's' and all guys 'A's' we would go on a straight scale."

Carolyn Stieber, MSU ombudsman, responded to queries in a similar vein. She said the handicap given to women was necessary because of "anatomical differences."

But the explanations haven't satisfied some of the male students.

"It's a noncontact sport, so the grading should be done on a straight scale," commented Bill Hall, a sophomore.

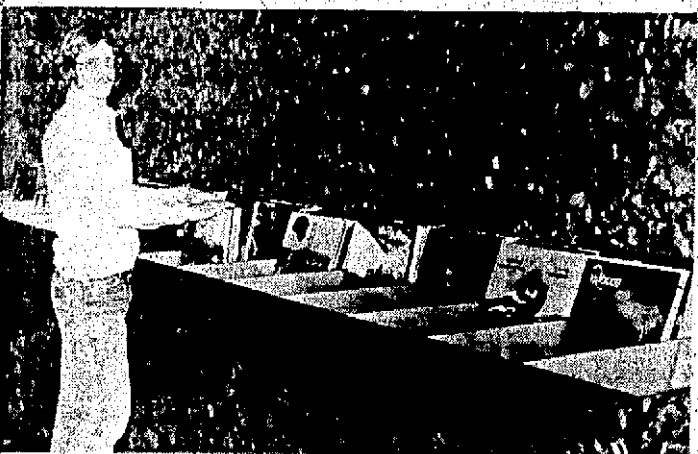

Freshman Don Dougherty generally agreed.

"It depends on how good a bowler she is," he said. "If she's good, it's discrimination."

On the other hand, women interviewed by the State News thought the system was fair.

"Most girls don't have the strength to compete at the same level with the male bowlers," said Carol Worth, a junior.

And Jane Grabowski said simply, "Guys have better bodies."

A DUPLEX CAN HELP PAY FOR ITSELF

Live In One Unit,
Rent The Other

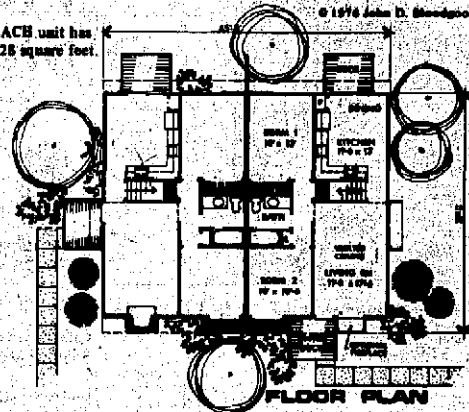

By JOHN D. BLOODGOOD, Architect

HOUSE DESIGN 7607: Double your pleasure—or at least your housing dividends—by building a duplex. Live in one apartment; rent the other to help carry costs. Each two-bedroom unit has a spacious living room with vaulted ceiling. A fireplace (at front) is an optional feature. One apartment has a front entry; the other a side entry. Each has access, via the kitchen, to its own private rear deck. Bedrooms have good wall space, large wardrobe closets. Each unit has a full private basement for heating-cooling facilities, laundry and storage.

IMPROVEMENT PLAN: If one bathroom isn't enough during the morning rush hour, consider building this dressing vanity in a bedroom that backs up to bath plumbing. Cabinetry, which can be painted to blend with walls, laminated plastic counter, and decorative basin shape and fittings are attractive. Note the built-in ceiling light that sheds light on mirror.

EACH unit has 628 square feet.

Glass Cutting Made Easy

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

There's a knack to cutting glass to replace a window pane, but it's something you can learn with a little practice.

Do it three or four times with some scrap glass and you'll suddenly find yourself getting the hang of it.

The glass should be cut slightly smaller than the dimensions of the frame into which it will be placed. This allows for irregularities and expansion. Deduct about one 16th of an inch (.625 inch maximum) from each dimension. The frame is constructed to permit this leeway.

Before making the cut, be certain the glass is absolutely clear.

Place the glass on newspapers which are on a flat surface, such as a workbench. Use a straight edge, preferably metal, to guide the wheel of the cutter. Put a few drops of turpentine or kerosene along the line of the cut. Hold the cutter firmly and almost vertically. Begin at the part of the glass farthest from you, drawing the cutter towards you.

Use fairly heavy pressure, moving the cutter so that a line is scored in the single long stroke.

When you practice, you may find that you have no trouble making the cut, but that you run into difficulty when you attempt to break off the scrap glass from the part to be used in the frame.

My method, evolved after experimenting, is to tap gently along the underside of the cut, move the glass carefully so that the scrap part overhangs the workbench, then snap it off firmly with one hand while I hold the glass with the other.

For this snapping operation, I put on work gloves.

Your cutter has a notched edge. This should be used when snapping off narrow strips of glass.

Is all this worthwhile? It is when you have some old glass on hand that can be used or when your hardware store or glass dealer charges considerably more for cutting the glass to exact dimension than for one of the pieces he has in stock.

If you do have a pane cut to order, better measure dimensions three times to be certain you haven't made a mistake. Be sure to tell the dealer whether you already have made the necessary deduction.

To replace the pane—remove every bit of old glass first—apply linseed oil to the grooves of the frame. Use a putty knife to put down a bed of putty or glazier's compound. Put the glass into position and insert glazier's points every few inches. Make a roll of putty and press it against the frame and glass with your fingers.

Do the smoothing with the blade of a putty knife.

BERRIEN MAY ADVERTISE

WANTED: County Plumber

By JIM DELAND
Assistant City Editor

HELP WANTED: Licensed plumber to inspect plumbing throughout Berrien county, for compliance with state code requirements.

An advertisement of that sort is just one of the steps Berrien Commissioner R.J. Burkholz is recommending to enable the county to meet its obligations for administering and monitoring the Michigan Construction Code.

In a memorandum to county commissioners, Burkholz and Planning Director Charles Eckenstahler also recommend that the county work with four local units to arrange for building code enforcement and that a county agency or department be designated to monitor code enforcement activities throughout the county.

The recommendations were based on a meeting this month with Robert Hilprecht, executive director of the Michigan Construction Code Commission, who said Berrien county is:

1. Responsible for building code enforcement in the City of Watervliet and the Villages of Shoreham, Baroda and Michiana, which have not adopted building codes acceptable to the state.

2. Responsible for designating an agency to monitor local units' enforcement of building codes by providing a "complaint department" and statistical information reporting system.

3. Responsible for plumbing code enforcement in all units except Benton township, which has its own enforcement system.

"That appears to be the tough one," Burkholz said of the plumbing code enforcement. "It's going to be hard to find a licensed plumber to do this job."

Burkholz and Eckenstahler have recommended that the county place advertisements for a licensed plumber to conduct inspections on a fee basis under direction of a designated agency and note that the fees should cover all costs of inspection and administration.

"I'd guess it would have to be a retired plumber," Burkholz says. "This job could take him all over the county, and I can't imagine that any active plumber would want to fool with it."

To cover building code enforcement in the four units that have not adopted acceptable building codes, Burkholz and Eckenstahler recommend that each unit be urged to contract for code administration with a neighboring unit that has an acceptable code.

The alternative, Burkholz said, would be for the county to provide code enforcement for these units, which he says is not practical.

jacent unit." Burkholz added that in contracting for code enforcement, the four units probably would have to adopt codes identical to those of the neighboring unit that would provide enforcement.

Monitoring of all code enforcement in the county, Burkholz said, could be handled by the health department's housing inspectors without additional expense to the county.

Burkholz said Berrien has been under increasing pressure to comply with a 1974 law that places code enforcement requirements on counties, and said he hopes Berrien will be in full compliance by July 1.

Presto—A Marble Finish

NEW YORK (AP)—Here's one man's easy way of creating a "marbled" finish on wood furniture:

Brush on antiquing glaze as usual, lay a large sheet of plastic—such as a laundry bag—over the entire surface to be marbled, and pick up the plastic.

Presto—a marble finish. If dissatisfied with a first attempt, brush the glaze out and try again. Some people might try rubbing the plastic around gently with the fingertips.

Each two-bedroom unit has a spacious living room with vaulted ceiling. A fireplace (at front) is an optional feature. One apartment has a front entry; the other a side entry. Each has access, via the kitchen, to its own private rear deck. Bedrooms have good wall space, large wardrobe closets. Each unit has a full private basement for heating-cooling facilities, laundry and storage.

Step-By-Step Instructions Glass Cutting Made Easy

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

There's a knack to cutting glass to replace a window pane, but it's something you can learn with a little practice.

Do it three or four times with some scrap glass and you'll suddenly find yourself getting the hang of it.

The glass should be cut slightly smaller than the dimensions of the frame into which it will be placed. This allows for irregularities and expansion. Deduct about one 16th of an inch (1/16 inch maximum) from each dimension. The frame is constructed to permit this leeway.

Use fairly heavy pressure, moving the cutter so that a line is scored in the single long stroke.

When you practice, you may find that you have no trouble making the cut, but that you run into difficulty when you attempt to break off the scrap glass from the part to be used in the frame.

My method, evolved after experimenting, is to tap gently along the underside of the cut, move the glass carefully so that the scrap part overhangs the workbench, then snap it off firmly with one hand while I hold the glass with the other.

For this snapping operation, I put on work gloves.

Your cutter has a notched edge. This should be used when snapping off narrow strips of glass.

Is all this worthwhile? It is when you have some old glass on hand that can be used or when your hardware store or glass dealer charges considerably more for cutting the glass to exact dimension than for one of

Do the smoothing with the blade of a putty knife.

WANTED: County Plumber

By JIM DeLAND
Assistant City Editor

HELP WANTED: Licensed plumber to inspect plumbing throughout Berrien county for compliance with state code requirements.

An advertisement of that sort is just one of the steps Berrien Commissioner R.J. Burkholz is recommending to enable the county to meet its obligations for administering and monitoring the Michigan Construction Code.

In a memorandum to county commissioners, Burkholz and Planning Director Charles

Eckenstahler also recommend that the county work with four local units to arrange for building code enforcement and that a county agency or department be designated to monitor code enforcement activities throughout the county.

The recommendations were based on a meeting this month with Robert Hilprecht, executive director of the Michigan Construction Code Commission, who said Berrien county is:

1. Responsible for building code enforcement in the City of Watervliet and the Villages of Shoreham, Baroda and Michiana, which have not adopted building codes acceptable to the state.

2. Responsible for designating an agency to monitor local units' enforcement of building codes by providing a "complaint department" and statistical information reporting system.

3. Responsible for plumbing code enforcement in all units except Benton township, which has its own enforcement system.

"That appears to be the tough one," Burkholz said of the plumbing code enforcement. "It's going to be hard to find a licensed plumber to do this job."

Burkholz and Eckenstahler have recommended that the county place advertisements for a licensed plumber to conduct inspections on a fee basis under direction of a designated agency and note that the fees should cover all costs of inspection and administration.

"I'd guess it would have to be a retired plumber," Burkholz says. "This job could take him all over the county, and I can't imagine that any active plumber would want to fool with it."

To cover building code enforcement in the four units that have not adopted acceptable building codes, Burkholz and Eckenstahler recommend that each unit be urged to contract for code administration with a neighboring unit that has an acceptable code.

The alternative, Burkholz said, would be for the county to provide code enforcement for these units, which he says is not practical.

jacent unit."

Burkholz added that in contracting for code enforcement, the four units probably would have to adopt codes identical to those of the neighboring unit that would provide enforcement.

Monitoring of all code enforcement in the county, Burkholz said, could be handled by the health department's housing inspectors without additional expense to the county.

Burkholz said Berrien has been under increasing pressure to comply with a 1974 law that places code enforcement requirements on counties, and said he hopes Berrien will be in full compliance by July 1.

Ball Says Records Were Set

MUNCIE, Ind. — Ball Corporation has announced that unaudited figures indicate the company's 1975 and fourth quarter sales and earnings reached all-time records.

Ball President John W. Fisher said net sales were $365 million compared to $293 million the previous year, an increase of 24.6 per cent. Net income for 1975 was $14 million, an increase of $4.5 million or 48.1 per cent more than 1974. Per share earnings were $3.03 compared to $2.05 for 1974. Financial statements for 1975 are presented for the first time with international operations fully consolidated.

Fisher also reported fourth quarter sales were $89.4 million compared to $74.6 million in the same period of 1974, an increase of 20 per cent. Net income in the quarter was $3.3 million versus $2.3 million in the fourth quarter of 1974, a gain of 43 per cent. This was equivalent to 70 cents per share compared to 49 cents per share in the 1974 final quarter. Per-tax operating profit was essentially even with last year reflecting realignment of facilities, start-up costs absorbed during the fourth quarter, and other year-end factors.

The rubber and plastics line incurred a loss for the year on substantially reduced volume with its three major markets — appliances, automotive and construction — suffering severely from the recession. In the fourth quarter, these losses continued. Steps have been taken, Fisher said, to strengthen the company's position through improved technology, new product emphasis, and facilities additions and upgrading.

Ball Corporation operates a Rubber and Plastics division plant on Hilltop road, St. Joseph.

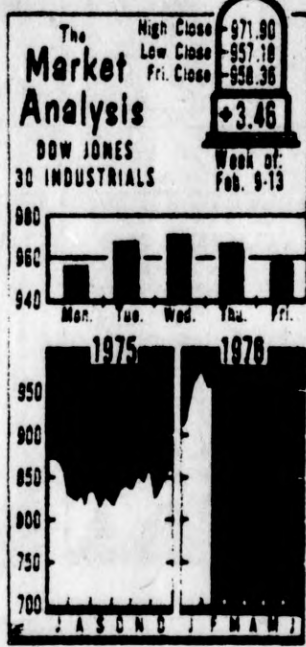

Major sales and earnings gains during the year, Fisher said, were achieved in the company's glass containers and consumer products business line. The glass container and consumer products line benefited from continuing strong demand for glass containers, increased sales of home canning closures, new product introductions and productivity improvements.

In metal products, sales and earnings far surpassed 1974, the previous record year. Ball unit shipments of metal containers for beer and soft drinks were up 19 per cent in the year while the entire industry was down by approximately 4 per cent. Metal decorating operations also added to improved sales and earnings. In the fourth quarter, metal products operating earnings were up 43 per cent over the comparable 1974 period, with improvements continuing in metal containers and a restoration to profitability in the company's zinc operations in Greeneville, Tenn. where gains were realized from increased sales and cost controls.

Technical products sales improved in aerospace, environmental monitoring systems, and computer-related products areas. Sales of the last area increased to almost one-half of the entire line. In the fourth quarter, technical products doubled its operating earnings over the prior year.

Petroleum engineering and equipment increased sales and earnings in 1975, despite a substantial loss on the startup of a new fabrication plant in Natchez, Miss. Fourth quarter earnings were adversely affected by major facilities additions and realignments in Singapore.

The Ball board of directors at its regular meeting Jan. 22 declared a quarterly dividend of 17.5 cents a share on common stock payable March 15 to shareholders of record March 1, 1976.

Crash Made Him Gay

DETROIT (AP) — A 27-year-old Westland man who claimed a rear-end auto collision turned him into a homosexual was awarded $200,000 Friday by a Wayne County Circuit Court jury.

Carmen Leo claimed in his suit that the accident four years ago left him unable to carry on a normal sexual relationship with his wife.

Although his only physical injury was to his back, Leo claimed the accident had a jarring effect on his personality and altered his sexuality.

The back injury kept him away from work for six months, and Leo said this also robbed him of his masculinity.

"I had been raised to always believe that in order to be a man you had to provide for your wife and children," Leo said at the end of the five-week civil trial.

"When I found I couldn't function in the business world and support my wife, the effect was emasculating."

Leo told the jury of four women and two men that prior to the accident he had never been a homosexual and had always enjoyed normal sexual relationship with his wife.

Leo's attorney, Peter Barbara of Detroit, told the jury that Leo left his wife, moved in with his parents, and started hanging around gay bars and reading homosexual literature.

Leo filed the suit against Flannery Leasing Co. of Lincoln Park, the owners of the truck that collided with his car.

The jury also awarded $25,000 for his wife.

Man Awaits Sentence

CASSOPOLIS — An Alma, Mich., resident entered a guilty plea in Cass county Circuit court yesterday to a charge of felonious assault in connection with the attempted holdup last Dec. 10 of a rural Cassopolis man.

John R. Bowers, 23, had originally been charged with armed robbery following his arrest at the home of the Cassopolis man who was not named by police.

A pre-sentence investigation will be made before Judge James E. Hoff pronounces sentence, according to the court.

Bowers was accused of attempting to hold up the man as he left his home to go to work. Police said Bowers had been hitch-hiking along M-60 at the time.

Police said the bandit was apprehended by the victim's brother who came out of the house with a shotgun and found the bandit attempting to drive off in the victim's car which had become stuck in the driveway.

St. Joe Firemen, Police Save Life

Rudy Roberts, 57, revived by St. Joseph police and fireman yesterday after suffering a heart attack at his home at 1418 Michigan avenue, St. Joseph, remained in "critical" condition this morning at Memorial hospital.

St. Joseph police and firemen worked together to aid Roberts, after police were notified at 4:07 a.m. Friday. Roberts was transported to the hospital in a fire department van truck, because no ambulance was available.

Police said a stretcher was left off at the home by Action ambulance attendants who were transporting a shooting victim from Berrien Springs at the time. Another Action ambulance and a Rampart ambulance were reported out of service because of mechanical troubles.

Patrolmen August Bishop and Steve Doak aided Roberts at his home by administering cardio pulmonary resuscitation, until firemen arrived with a resuscitator. Roberts was unconscious and no pulse was detected by the officers.

State Trooper, Benton Man Hurt

State police and Berrien sheriff's officers Friday night arrested three people during a scuffle that resulted in injuries to two people, including a trooper, after a car was stopped at Territorial road and Euclid avenue.

The post said Trooper Charles Longenbarger received a bone fracture of the right hand. He was treated at Mercy hospital and sent home.

Also injured was John R. Gonzales, 20, of 346 Vernon, Benton township, who was lodged in jail after treatment for a fractured cheekbone. Gonzales was booked on charges of assault and battery and obstructing a police officer in his duties, the post said.

Others arrested were: Sammie Foster Jr., 21, of 2159 Holly road, Benton township, booked on a charge of resisting arrest and driving under the influence of intoxicants; and Terry Clark, no age or address determined, booked on a charge of assault and battery.

POLICE ROUNDUP

Man Is Hospitalized In Stabbing Incident

A Benton Harbor man suffered a stab wound in a bar early this morning and another man was arrested soon afterward, according to city police.

Listed in "fair" condition at Mercy hospital was Sessie Field, 50, of 620 Green street. Police said Field was stabbed in the neck.

Booked on a charge of attempted murder was Roosevelt Harris, 40, of 614 Baird street, Benton Harbor. Police said Harris was apprehended at his home.

The stabbing was reported at 1:38 a.m. and occurred inside Cook's tavern, 417 Territorial road, police said. It apparently stemmed from an argument, police said.

Thefts reported to Benton Harbor police were:

- A calculator and tape recorder, valued at $160, from an office at Mercy hospital.
- A set of cymbals, valued at $100, from the bandroom at Benton Harbor high school.
- A stereo player with two speakers from the residence of Charles Holloway, 418 Lincoln avenue.

St. Joseph police said vandals Friday broke nine light bulbs and globes along the stairway of Lake Bluff park at the end of Broad street. The lights apparently were broken by BB pellets, police said. The value was reported as about $68.

State police at the Benton Harbor post said an unknown woman phoned the post to report that five bombs were set to go off in the street at Territorial road and Euclid avenue.

It's Attempt To Hit Wallace?

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Alabama Gov. George Wallace would come to Michigan in a fighting mood if serious attempts were to scrap this year's presidential primary election, said Wallace's Michigan campaign co-ordinator.

"Art Cutlers of Battle Creek, who helped steer Wallace to 51 per cent of the 1972 Democratic presidential primary vote in Michigan, said Friday he feels a bill to eliminate the primary next May 18 is an attempt to undercut Wallace support in Michigan."

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR WILLIAM E. SIMON, Secretary of the Treasury
What happened to your great blunder, gas ration coupons? Will you tell the American people how much this brain child of yours cost them?—R.D. Reed, Martinsville, Va.

● No blunder—just preparing for the worst (and we've still got the stamps, if rationing, heaven forbid, should ever come). Think back to the oil embargo, those long lines at gas pumps and all the demands for rationing. I was against rationing then and I still am. It's inequitable and costly. Still, if the embargo had continued, we might have been forced to impose rationing, like it or not. We were prepared. A three-month supply of coupons was printed under the authority of the Defense Production Act with funds appropriated by Congress. The cost, never a secret, was $10 million.

FOR HUGH O'BRIAN, star of "Killer Force"

Are you a confirmed bachelor? If you are, you'll never be a grandfather! Does that bother you?—Mrs. Julie Jordan, Nampa, Idaho

● I have every intention of getting married and have every hope of becoming a father. Whether I become a grandfather depends on how long the good Lord lets me hang around. In the meantime, I have about 1,200 adopted "kids" who have attended my foundation's annual leadership seminars. This year's seminar will be in Washington April 3-10.

FOR GINA LOLLOBRIGIDA

Is it true you have a weight problem?—K.B., Troy, N.Y.

● For 40 years I didn't, but I sure do now! You see, I don't know how anyone can survive without bread or pasta, and I've never learned how to diet sensibly. The only thing that works for me is a three-day fast. I don't eat a thing, just sips of water or juice. That way I drop five pounds. Anyone else—who doesn't have my strange metabolism—would lose 10 pounds that way!

FOR ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Do you ever ask your sister, Ann Landers, for advice on letters you receive?—Lisa Lovin, Glendale, Calif.

● Yes, we do occasionally confer on questions we receive. In almost every instance we arrive at the same answer, and this is understandable because as identical twins we came from the same background.

FOR LADY BIRD JOHNSON

What was your greatest contribution to the nation?—R.J., Amarillo, Texas

● I guess it was helping create an awareness of the delights of our land, and the need to keep it clean and beautiful. But I don't like calling it "my" contribution. I was just one of a vast army of people enjoying nature (a park tucked into a crowded neighborhood, a rugged mountain wilderness, gently rolling farm country, a sparkling seashore), and I'll be forever grateful that our White House years made it possible for me to work with people who felt the way I did.

FOR MEL BLANG

Do you owe your success to Jack Benny, and what was the first voice you used on radio?—Bea Machl, Monterey Park, Calif.

● A great deal of my success was due to the "Jack Benny Show." Jack was a wonderful man and used me as many different characters (train caller, parrot, salesman at Christmas time, French violin teacher, even as a Maxwell motor). In 1927 my radio voice was first heard in a song, "Juanita—Wanna Eat; Wanna Eat, Juanita." They must have liked it because they called me back.

FOR DIGGER PHELPS, Notre Dame basketball coach

How did you get the nickname "Digger"?—Steve Wojciechowiec, Kenosha, Wis.

● My father is a funeral director, and Digger O'Dell was the mortician on the old "Life of Riley" radio show. So the nickname "Digger" was given to me.

FOR MICHAEL LANDON

Do you plan to star in any movies?—Elaine Marlowe, Chesapeake, Va.

● I did movies before "Bananza." Now I don't have any strong urge to do movies. If a great one were offered to me, I'd like it. But, actually, I'm more interested in doing family entertainment. Some of today's movies are too strong, especially for children. I prefer acting in something that a family can watch together. And that means TV.

FOR MONTY HALL of TV's "Let's Make a Deal"

What do you do with all the animals you don't give away on the show?—Dan McCormick, Kennewick, Wash.

● They are rented from an animal farm. The owner brings them to the show and takes them back afterward. If anyone wins one via a "zook," she can keep it. I try to persuade the winner it would be difficult to care for a tiger, lion or elephant in a home. (The winner can exchange the animals for other merchandise.) Some who kept their animals lived to regret it. When the cubs grew at an alarming rate, they pleaded with us to take them back.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

I've heard Sir Laurence Olivier is seriously ill, perhaps dying. Is this so? What can you tell me about him?—L. Straus, Dallas, Texas

● In recent years the 68-year-old actor has been stricken by cancer, thrombosis and dermatomyositis (a muscle-wasting disease). But he's ignoring it all and has just completed filming "The Marathon Man" in the U.S. He makes few concessions to his years, but he admits he's feeling his age; that his memory isn't what it used to be; and that he's still on the weak side. He and his wife, actress Joan Plowright, have three children, of whom the youngest is nine. One Christmas when Olivier dressed up as Santa Claus, the kids gave him his ultimate bad notice: "We know you're not Daddy Christmas. You're just Daddy."

In 1927 my radio voice was first heard in a song, "Juanita—Wanna Eat, Wanna Eat, Juanita." They must have liked it because they called me back.

FOR DIGGER PHELPS, Notre Dame basketball coach

How did you get the nickname "Digger"?—Steve Wojciechowicz, Kenosha, Wis.

FOR MICHAEL LANDON

Do you plan to star in any movies?—Elaine Marlowe, Chesapeake, Va.

● I did movies before "Bonanza." Now I don't have any strong urge to do movies. If a great one were offered to me, I'd like it. But, actually, I'm more interested in doing family entertainment. Some of today's movies are too strong, especially for children. I prefer acting in something that a family can watch together. And that means TV.

FOR MONTY HALL of TV's "Let's Make a Deal"

What do you do with all the animals you don't give away on the show?—Dan McCormick, Kennewick, Wash.

● They are rented from an animal farm. The owner brings them to the show and takes them back afterward. If anyone wins one via a "zonk," she can keep it. I try to persuade the winner it would be difficult to care for a tiger, lion or elephant in a home. (The winner can exchange the animals for other merchandise.) Some who kept their animals lived to regret it. When the cubs grew at an alarming rate, they pleaded with us to take them back.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

I've heard Sir Laurence Olivier is seriously ill, perhaps dying. Is this so? What can you tell me about him?—L. Straus, Dallas, Texas

● In recent years the 68-year-old actor has been stricken by cancer, thrombosis and dermatomyositis (a muscle-wasting disease). But he's ignoring it all and has just completed filming "The Marathon Man" in the U.S. He makes few concessions to his years, but he admits he's feeling his age; that his memory isn't what it used to be; and that he's still on the weak side. He and his wife, actress Joan Plowright, have three children, of whom the youngest is nine. One Christmas when Olivier dressed up as Santa Claus, the kids gave him his ultimate bad notice: "We know you're not Daddy Christmas. You're just Daddy."

JIM PALMER:

The Comeback King Who Was "Ready to Give Up Baseball"

Jim Palmer, right-hander for the Baltimore Orioles, is only 30, but he's already staged two major comebacks. In 1974 he suffered from arm trouble and posted a paltry 7-12 record. Then, last year, he led the major leagues with 10 shutouts and a 2.09 earned run average, the best of his career; and he tied Jim "Catfish" Hunter of the Yankees for the most victories, 23. His 23-11 record earned him his second Cy Young Award for the American League. . . . Jim was an early sensation. He posted a 15-10 record for Baltimore in 1966 and became the youngest man ever to toss a shutout in a World Series. But trouble arrived the following spring when Jim fell prey to back and shoulder miseries. "Things were so bad," he recalls, "that when the Orioles sent me to their minor-league team in Rochester, I couldn't strike anybody out at all. Since the team was fighting for a pennant in the International League, they decided I would be hurting them if I stayed around. So they shipped me to Miami." Finally, Palmer was sent to Puerto Rico to pitch winter ball in 1968. "I didn't think it would do any good," he recalls. "I was all set to give up baseball. I knew that was my last chance to show the Orioles I could pitch." But Palmer regained his touch in Puerto Rico, and when he rejoined the Orioles in 1969, he posted a 16-4 mark, then racked up 20 or more wins each of the next four summers. . . . Jim hopes that his 1975 success will trigger the same sort of winning streak. "I think everything's going to be fine," Palmer says. "I'm a physical fitness addict, so I always take care of myself during the off-season, and that's important once you're past 30. My only goal now is to stay healthy, and if I do that, I think I can win 20 games a year." —By Larry Bortstein

The Doctor Lets You In

Exercise: How Much
Is the Right Amount?

It's simple but true: it's how many meets you burn that makes the difference. We all know that regular exercise reduces the risk of heart disease. Those who exercise have less body weight, less body fat, and better breathing while exercising. In one study, it was shown that, even for men 60 and over, seven weeks of exercise training usually restored fitness to the level of a person 10 to 20 years younger! But what exercise is best? And how much? Generally, active exercise (running, walking, swimming, cycling, etc.) is better than passive exercise (isometrics, moving furniture, lifting weights). Exercise is rated on energy expenditure. This rating is called metabolic equivalents or metes. Here is a sample of metabolic expenditure in metes: polishing furniture, 2; making beds, 3; showering, 3½; golfing, 4; gardening, 4½; walking downstairs, 4½; walking upstairs, 7½; shoveling snow, 7; bicycling, 8. Let your doctor decide how many meets you should burn. It will depend on your age, health and physical conditioning.

Truancy—The Dangerous
New Statistics

Today high school absentee rates of 10 to 15 percent are not unusual and some city schools have up to 30 percent. The results: dramatic increases of daytime crime caused by truants. Those children who are absent and idling during the school day are definitely exposed to increased temptation. There's also an obvious failure-cycle that days out of school can create. As the days increase, the youngster falls further behind and becomes more discouraged. In one study, almost 73 percent of school dropouts had poor attendance records the previous year. Parents themselves may unconsciously influence their children against school. When parents frequently criticize the school, young people are likely to act out parents' attitudes by deciding, "I don't want to go today." Parents who want to increase children's attendance can encourage them to participate in school-sponsored activities. Students who belong to clubs, teams, bands, etc., have shown lower absenteeism than non-belongers.

Isaac Hayes: My Ten Favorite Records

Isaac Hayes was born and raised in poverty in Covington, Tenn. After the day's work, his family would sit on the front porch and sing. Isaac continued singing through adolescence, and worked nights in local clubs as a piano player. Hayes's first major breakthrough came with the 1969 album, "Presenting Isaac Hayes." Today Hayes can look back on four Grammys and a 1971 Academy Award. His current album is "Chocolate Chip."

The Lurking Failure That Lies Beyond Success

Psychiatry is discovering truth in the old saying: "The gods reserve their biggest disappointment for those who get what they want." Psychiatrist Frederic F. Flach explains why the risk of becoming depressed rises when people achieve their goals: 1) Many feel they do not deserve what they've achieved. Those individuals must guard against self-destructive ways that will undermine and undo their accomplishment. 2) Some people win career success at the price of sacrificing family relationships and friendships. Too late, they realize how few, if any, people care about them and their triumph. This awakening can turn their elation to bitterness. 3) And success means an ending of some kind, which may stir up temporary sad feelings of "It's over," and raise the perplexing question of "Where do I go from here?" If you do find yourself suffering from these feelings, consider that they're a natural reaction and not a sign that something unusual is wrong with you.

How to Stick to a Diet at Parties

Many a dieter who has successfully slimmed down becomes tense and deathly afraid of going to parties—in fact, fears accepting any social invitations because he or she might regain a few pounds. But avoiding a reasonable social life can depress you and lead to food binges at home. Begin by allowing yourself one item of food at a party and weighing yourself the next day to test your tolerance; by trial and error, you'll find the right balance. One diet specialist's recommendation: "I discourage the dieter from drinking hard liquor, as it enhances appetite. I encourage wine because it is often an effective counter to a large appetite." Also, try a low-calorie drink that looks like a cocktail—club soda with ice and an olive or a lemon twist. Select only low-calorie hors d'oeuvres; or practice looking three inches above the hors d'oeuvres tray, never directly at it, when the hostess offers it.

She arrives at the Iranian Embassy party a little late and walks with husband David Eisenhower through the crowded interior courtyard toward their table, her head held high. Some guests pretend not to see the daughter of their deposed leader, Richard Nixon. Some guests look a little startled to see her and give her a mild hello. Only a few are as effusive as they would have been in the old White House days.

Yes—Watergate. But even so, when confronted with questions about the chain of events that led to the resignation of President Nixon, she does not hesitate to make a few bitter charges of her own—namely that the press was prejudiced against her father and that the Senator who conducted the Watergate investigation, Sam Ervin, was a hypocrite. But she refuses to prolong the discussion.

"I know it takes time for people to forget and for me to forget what has been a very painful era," she says, "but there is nothing to be gained by going over and over it." The New Julie Nixon Eisenhower cabinets and walls with decals. "I love Tricia's handiwork, and I love puttering around the kitchen, testing recipes."

Julie, of course, has gained quite a reputation as a cook. One of her first projects when she went to work for the Saturday Evening Post in Indianapolis was to help edit the "Saturday Evening Post Family Cookbook" (Curtis, $6.95). Frederic A. Birmingham, Julie's boss at the Post, has fond memories of those times. "It was Julie's job to go through our archives in search of recipes that had run in the Post. She also arranged a contest to get additional recipes from our readers. One of the delightful things that impressed me were the ingenious chapter headings she invented. For example, we had a chapter on cheese and eggs which Julie insisted on calling, 'Shell Games and Wheys to Your Heart.' For our chapter on rice and potatoes, she wrote the headline: 'True Grits.'"

But if the folks at the Saturday Evening Post were satisfied with Julie's work, they were in awe of how she conducted herself. "Julie is a compulsive worker," says Birmingham. "While she was here, she never went out to lunch—she just nibbled snacks at her desk." Her coworkers watched uneasily as Julie bore up under the strain of Watergate. "She never broke down, she never complained. Now and then someone would take her hand and say, 'We're with you, Julie.' Or sometimes we'd call her on the phone when she was back in Washington and just tell her we were thinking of her. Julie never discussed the situation. All she would do is quietly and politely tell us how much she appreciated our concern."

Julie is proud that she cooks all the meals now and that she has done so well that a selection of her recipes has been made into her own cookbook—"Julie Eisenhower's Cookbook for Children" (Doubleday, $6.95). "But what do you feed David?" we asked. "Oh, just anything from the Children's Cookbook. Those are all the things he likes."

Many of the recipes in the book were supplied by the children of her girlfriends, and one of the little ones called to say he had a new recipe for her. "But I already have a Michael recipe in the book," she reminded him. "Remember, you gave me 'Michael's Porridge?'"

"Oh," said Michael disgustedly, "that was last-year's recipe."

What will Julie do with the money she will be earning from her cookbook? "I'm just not sure yet," she says, "but I may get myself some household help." For the time being, however, she likes the feeling of doing her own housework.

Julie may need more and more help as she becomes enmeshed in more and more projects. Last month she inaugurated the start of a little business of her own—"Stitchery by Julie"—the selling of children's samplers which can be framed or made into sofa pillows. Her 16 kits include yarn and a list of instructions on how to embroider the samplers. Stores everywhere will be carrying the samplers, one of which is the "Bless This House" poem that hung in the White House all during the Eisenhower Administration. [Her nine miniature samplers of flowers—5 inches by 7 inches—sell for $2.95.] She's also working on a book for children, which will be ready for next Christmas. Then there's a whole string of anthologies of short stories that will keep her busy far into 1976. And finally, there's the possibility of a radio talk show. The idea for that came when she did some radio work with Ronald Reagan, which was carried on some 300 stations. "I really feel I want to communicate. If I don't work in radio, maybe I'll have a TV program, though I'm not sure I want to be seen that much. I like the privacy of radio."

"Privacy is a very important word for Julie—freedom and privacy." She feels the 'joy of privacy' when she rides the bike trails on the way to Mount Vernon, George Washington's old home. Few of the cyclists she passes recognize her, and that pleases her."

Privacy is a very important word for Julie—"freedom and privacy." She feels the "joy of privacy" for instance, when she rides the bike trails on the way to Mount Vernon, George Washington's old home. Few of the cyclists she passes recognize her, and that pleases her. She likes the exercise and the chance to think her own thoughts, undisturbed by tourists or those once doggedly pursuing Secret Servicemen. David does not go along—"he doesn't like cycling. Sometimes he jogs with me."

David is still amazed by Julie's energy, and he teases her about taking her embroidery along on their honeymoon. Reminds Julie: "After all, what could I do when you had all your law books along?" David is still studying hard while holding down his part-time job at the law firm of Berry and Epstein. "But it will finally be over next spring," says Julie, "when David graduates from George Washington Law School, and then maybe we'll move away from Washington and all its memories."

Will David ever go into politics to follow in his grandfather's footsteps? "I wouldn't be surprised," says Julie. "He'd be a natural." ("So would Julie!" adds the Saturday Evening Post's Fred Birmingham. "She has a real gift for getting along with people. Once Watergate is behind us and forgotten, I wouldn't be surprised if Julie decides to enter public life on her own.")

But Julie still has a little "healing" to do. "Right now, all I'm looking forward to is a little more of that nonpolitical normalcy."

She recalls their recent trip to China, which was at the invitation of Ambassador Huang Chen, the People's Republic representative in the United States. "We were invited by the Chinese Government, but we insisted on paying for our own trip. We celebrated the New Year in China just like a couple of tourists. I mean just like any other tourists."

For the first time, Julie's getting to know people on a strictly-citizen level—her coworkers on her old job at the Saturday Evening Post, grocery clerks, now the Chinese. Before, people were so much in awe of her, it was impossible to start a conversation. The shadow of the Presidency lay between them. "These are all people I couldn't know before, just couldn't get close to them," she says. An object of her China trip was to begin finding out what ordinary people are thinking about all over the world. While in China, she and David were photographed surrounded by the young people there—who seemed to idolize them.

So, you might say everything's coming up roses for Julie. Also violets. And shamrocks for luck. They are the flowers that are on the miniature samplers, which are now appearing in stores across the country.

The New Julie Nixon Eisenhower

cabinets and walls with decals. "I love Tricia's handiwork, and I love putting around the kitchen, testing recipes."

Julie, of course, has gained quite a reputation as a cook. One of her first projects when she went to work for the Saturday Evening Post in Indianapolis was to help edit the "Saturday Evening Post Family Cookbook" (Curtis, $6.95). Frederic A. Birmingham, Julie's boss at the Post has fond memories of those times. "It was Julie's job to go through our archives in search of recipes that had run in the Post. She also arranged a contest to get additional recipes from our readers. One of the delightful things that impressed me were the ingenious chapter headings she invented. For example, we had a chapter on cheese and eggs which Julie insisted on calling, 'Shell Games and Wheys to Your Heart.' For our chapter on rice and potatoes, she wrote the headline: 'True Grits.'"

But if the folks at the Saturday Evening Post were satisfied with Julie's work, they were in awe of how she conducted herself. "Julie is a compulsive worker," says Birmingham. "While she was here, she never went out to lunch—she just nibbled snacks at her desk." Her coworkers watched uneasily as Julie bore up under the strain of Watergate. "She never broke down, she never complained. Now and then someone would take her hand and say, 'We're with you, Julie.' Or sometimes we'd call her on the phone when she was back in Washington

McCulloch CHAIN BRAKE

The most important safety feature a chain saw can have!

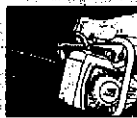

CHAIN BRAKE stops a moving chain in milli-seconds to reduce the hazard from kick-back.

If a chain hits a hard object, or the nose of a saw gets caught in wood, the saw might kick up and back. This can be hazardous if the chain continues to move. See how McCulloch's CHAIN BRAKE helps reduce that hazard.

Left, CHAIN BRAKE disengaged, chain running.

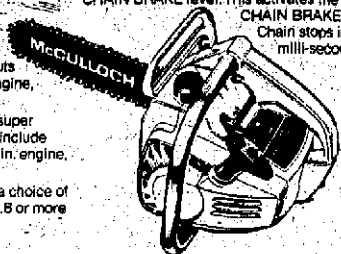

Right, if kickback should occur, your hand on the saw's top front handle tends to hit the CHAIN BRAKE lever. This activates the CHAIN BRAKE. Chain stops in milli-seconds.

Mini Mac 25 (shown). Our lowest-priced super lightweight cuts logs 20" thick! Sturdy 1.8 cu. in. engine, 10" bar. $114.95.

Super Pro 40. Our most powerful super lightweight. Professional features include Anti-Vibration System. Big 2.8 cu. in. engine, 14" bar. $194.95.

Other Mini Mac models offer you a choice of 12" bar or 14" sprocket nose bar. 1.8 or more powerful 2.0 cu. in. engine.

Two First-Rate Raitts

And Papa Says: "She Doesn't Owe Me Anything..."

John Raitt with his daughter Bonnie and wife Kathy.

"I give my parents credit for having great insight to counter all that L.A. plastic—most of the kids I knew grew up too fast."

By Noel Coppage

You can have fun with a son . . . but you gotta be a father to a girl." That realization set Billy Bigelow off on the climactic "Soliloquy" in Rodgers and Hammerstein's "Carousel."

And now here's John Raitt, the original Billy—the singer, it is said, for whom Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II wrote "Soliloquy"—sitting in Sardi's restaurant in the thick of the lore and glitter of Broadway and saying, in effect, "Hogwash!"

"I never was much impressed with the idea of 'being a father.' I resisted pressure to 'assert yourself as a father.' I was a permissive parent, and I'm still turned off when I hear a parent go into the 'how can they do this to us?' routine. You get them started, love them, give them advice if they ask for it, try to set an example and kick them out of the nest."

We are talking about Bonnie Raitt, best known of his three children, a culturally privileged child who grew up to be a singer of down-and-out music, the blues, and, as she says, "to get to know the people whose records I used to study." She was a close friend of the late

Fred McDowell and had recently helped Sippie Wallace celebrate her 77th birthday.

"Bonnie and I have had our problems, mostly problems communicating," John Raitt says, "but not as father-to-daughter—as person-to-person. You just have to keep working on communication, but you have to respect each other as persons before you can even work on it."

"Bonnie must have felt like a prisoner at times. We always lived up on a mountain, with no other kids around. There was a piano, but Bonnie's mother was such a good pianist that Bonnie didn't want to play that instrument and invite comparisons. It was a great gimmick for her, picking up the bottleneck style of playing guitar."

Bonnie, I discover the next day in a conversation about her father, recognizes that reacting against the world one's parents made is inevitable to some degree.

"We never had any religious structure because my parents were raised strictly and they just rebelled against it. I was raised as a sort of unstructured Quaker. I used to get upset about the way they lived, the kind of house they had. We lived in one of those canyons near Los Angeles. But eventually I realized my

Fine Silver Ingots

The 56 great men who dared to defy the King of England.

"As there is not a more distinguished Event in the History of America, than the Declaration of her Independence—not any, that in all probability, will so much excite the Attention of future Ages, it is highly proper, that the Memory of that Transaction, together with the Causes that gave Rise to it, should be preserved in the most careful Manner that can be devised."

John Hancock—1777

200 years ago... 56 men from 13 different colonies came forward to sign the Declaration of Independence. They came from every segment of society to create a young and virile nation out of an old world.

Their action was decisive and they risked much. Should England win the Revolutionary War that was now raging, these 56 men could expect only to be hunted and executed as traitors to the royal crown of England.

Their faith and courage, however, was stronger than their fear.

AN HISTORIC COLLECTION!

Now... 200 years later... The Hamilton Mint honors the memory of those 56 signers in a definitive, medallion art series. This is our bicentennial gift to the nation.

Every man who inscribed his signature on the Declaration of Independence will be portrayed in silver as part of this historic collection. Each ingot will bear a likeness of the signer, taken from contemporary and historical sources, and shall also faithfully depict the actual signature. Each ingot reverse shall show an artist's representation of a significant aspect of the signer's life. There, you will also find the signer's name, profession, and year of birth and death.

John Hancock — 1777

200 years ago... 56 men from 13 different colonies came forward to sign the Declaration of Independence. They came from every segment of society to create a young and virile nation out of an old world.

Their action was decisive and they risked much. Should England win the Revolutionary War that was now raging, these 56 men could expect only to be hunted and executed as traitors to the royal crown of England.

Their faith and courage, however, was stronger than their fear.

AN HISTORIC COLLECTION!

Now... 200 years later... The Hamilton Mint honors the memory of those 56 signers in a definitive, medallion art series. This is our bicentennial gift to the nation.

Every man who inscribed his signature on the Declaration of Independence will be portrayed in silver as part of this historic collection. Each ingot will bear a likeness of the signer, taken from contemporary and historical sources, and shall also faithfully depict the actual signature. Each ingot reverse shall show an artist's representation of a significant aspect of the signer's life. There, you will also find the signer's name, profession, and year of birth and death.

The Hamilton Mint certificate of authenticity—testifying to the exclusivity and precious metal content of your possession—is included with each ingot.

LIMITED EDITION... ACT NOW!

The intensity of artistic control with which The Hamilton Mint endows every ingot in this collection... requires that we set a limit of 10,000 editions. After these 10,000 sets are minted... the dies will be destroyed.

Subscription numbers—used on each ingot and the certificate of authenticity—will be assigned in the order that applications are received and accepted.

Your immediate action is requested. Come join these 56 men who dreamed and dared to create the United States of America: The Signers of the Declaration of Independence! Since this series is a bicentennial year offering... and particularly due to the limited edition status... The Hamilton Mint urges you to send in your subscription application without delay.

BONUS DISPLAY CASE!

Also, at no additional charge, you'll receive a handsome portfolio from The Hamilton Mint. Specifically designed to display your ingots, this elegant case will accommodate and preserve the beauty of your entire collection.

HANDSOME GIFT BOOK!

A lavishly illustrated and fastidiously researched volume of Founders of Freedom in America is yours for subscribing to The Signers of the Declaration of Independence.

In this valuable edition, you'll learn all about the life and significance of each of the signers of the Declaration. You'll discover names as familiar as Benjamin Franklin, John Adams, Patrick Henry, and Thomas Jefferson. And, you'll read about the men whose single glory in life was the signing of that document: from the dramatic tale of Caesar Rodney to the pitiable story of John Morton, the first of the signers to die.

"Bonnie and I have had our problems, mostly problems communicating, but not as father-to-daughter—as person-to-person."

dad felt obligated to live in a certain way—that was the way a star lived. And my parents were raised poor, so they liked having all those things. I wasn't, so it didn't mean much to me. . . .

"He liked to live on top of a hill and build things with his hands. My dad is quite physical. He held the shot-put record in the state of California for some time. It was broken by my bass player's girlfriend's father—isn't that weird? Anyway, we were always getting into work clothes for these great family projects—the kids all griping about it at the time, of course. We went camping a lot in the desert. I give my parents credit for having great insight to counter all that L.A. plastic—most of the kids I knew grew up too fast. Their parents would go to Palm Springs for the weekend, leaving them the house and a hundred dollars."

John, who was singing in "Musical Jubilee" with Patrice Munsel, Tammy Grimes, Lillian Gish and other such luminaries in 1975, seems to be in something big on Broadway every ten years. There was "Carousel" in 1945, "The Pajama Game" in 1955, and the revival of "Carousel" in 1965. When one or the other of those shows wasn't running on Broadway, he was in a road company. Summer stock was particularly intense for him, and Bonnie spent several summers at a Quaker camp in the Adirondack Mountains.

"Her associations there had a lot to do with the development of her social consciousness," John says. "Her interest in the blues surprised me somewhat, but the camp had a connection with it."

"Late at night," Bonnie says, "when I was supposed to be asleep, I would fiddle with the radio, discovering Jimmy Reed, Muddy Waters, trying to get away from that surfing music."

"I didn't teach her much of anything about music," John says, "although of course there was music in the house. If I've given Bonnie anything, it's been the notion that you don't have to bend yourself out of shape to get along, on the stage or off—that you can be yourself. She doesn't owe me anything, compared with what she owes herself. I was really impressed and pleased when she said to me, before her concert at Lincoln Center, 'Dad, I don't want you to dress down for this.' She wasn't behaving 'like a parent' to her father, you see, as sons and daughters sometimes do."

Alas poor Billy Bigelow. Think of the fun he missed.

From Heloise:

For years, Heloise has been both entertaining and informing homemakers through her popular household hints column syndicated by King Features. Here, exclusively for FAMILY WEEKLY, is her own selection of the "Best of Heloise."

What every woman wants is the quickest, most efficient way to accomplish what has to be done.

I should know. I have been writing my column and running a household for more than ten years—and sometimes it's a dead heat at the end of the day as to what gets finished. But somehow, everything does get done—thanks mostly, I think, to the theory that all the furniture polish in the world won't put a gleam in your husband's eye.

Lint: Many women complain about lint on their husband's dark socks and on corduroy pieces, but they never think that all they have to do is to turn the socks and corduroy wrong side out before washing. This way the lint doesn't attach itself to the fabric when washed with other garments.

Sugar: I have found that I can make my own super-fine-sugar in an emergency by using my blender.

Nylon Net: Here's a suggestion for those people who just can't seem to find a scouring pad when they need it: Get a small sponge, a scouring pad (not steel wool) and some nylon net (you probably have some scraps around the house). Place the sponge and scouring pad together and sew the net around both of them. When washing pots and pans, all you have to do is turn the sponge over to the scouring-pad side.

Plumber's Friend: This is the thing that you ordinarily "plunge" the toilet with. Buy one with a short handle and use it to wash men's socks and all sorts of hard washing in the kitchen sink! Excellent for laundering curtains and heavier objects in the bathtub. You can use much hotter water than your hands could ever stand, and this method saves the "hands men love to touch."

Making Beds: Do not waste energy here! Never walk around the beds more than necessary to straighten sheets, blankets, etc. Make one side of the bed, completely straightening the covers, then walk around to the other side and pull wrinkles which have been left. If necessary—and it might be on a king-sized bed—go back to the first side and straighten once more.

Deep Freeze: Use empty milk cartons to freeze leftovers in. This is a great saving, and eventually you will have enough for an entire meal! Use a kitchen knife to "slice" off the top of the carton to the desired size. Place leftovers in cartons, cover with foil, use rubber band to hold in place and label with a marker. Save one carton and mark it "leftovers," and each day place that dab of peas, carrots, meat and all leftover vegetables in this. Soon you will have enough for a pot of soup.

My Own Most Helpful Hints

Dishwasher Film: Fill your dishwasher with glassware and china. (Don't put in silver, aluminum or brass.) Put bowl in bottom of dishwasher, pour one cup of Clorox into this and run dishwasher through the cycle, but do not dry! Fill bowl again with one cup of vinegar and let it go through the complete cycle. This will remove all film from your dishes—and the dishwasher, too!

Stains on Formica: Never clean Formica, Micarta, etc., with an abrasive of any sort. Steel wool ruins this type of finish. Pour rubbing alcohol on the drainboard, spread evenly, then pour Clorox over this after waiting one minute. Spread this mixture over all stains. The chemical reaction removes nearly all stains. Rinse off with clear water.

Heloise Sack Blouse: Grand for housework. Make a Heloise Sack Blouse from an old bath towel. Fold towel in half, sew up sides, leave opening for arms, make opening for neck. Don't forget the pockets! Needs no ironing.

Nerves: Don't try to wash every Monday, clean floor every Tuesday and iron on Wednesdays! Mix your schedule up! Forget your laundry some Monday—it will always be there. Or do it a day ahead of time; then you won't feel guilty. Relax and remember: no woman ever had everything done, so why should you?

The Best in High School Basketball

Our Third Annual College Recruiters' Poll

Recruiting by colleges of top high school basketball players has always been highly competitive, but now the campuses must vie with the pros for the cream of the talent. Since Moses Malone went straight from high school to the Utah Stars last year, things have changed. But, as one college recruiter says, "It's the very rare player who can play pro ball right out of high school," and the campus representatives are bird-dogging the talent as actively as ever.

For the third straight year, FAMILY WEEKLY has consulted with top college basketball people to compile a list of the top 30 high school senior prospects. We spoke with two head coaches, Jack Leaman of the University of Massachusetts and George Ravelling of Washington State, and three assistant coaches who spend most of the winter checking out high school players. The three are Eddie Biedenbach of North Carolina State, Frank McLaughlin of Notre Dame and Marvin Owens of Kansas State.

There is one particularly intriguing result of this year's FAMILY WEEKLY high school basketball poll. The high school player judged the very best in America won't be playing either college or professional ball next year. The reason is that he'll still be in high school. Wayne McKoy, an awesome 6-foot-9 junior center at Lutheran High School in Brookville, N.Y., who averaged 28 points and 15 rebounds per game as a sophomore last season and shot 65 percent from the field, is labeled one of those athletic prodigies most likely to leap directly to the pros.

But there are many fine players among this year's high school seniors who are being heavily recruited. One of these is a 6-foot-9 product of Farmingdale High School in New York, named Jim Graziano. Graziano averaged 26 points per game last season and is rated a solid bet for future stardom as a strong forward.

Other great high school forwards include Glen Grunwald, a lanky 6-foot-9 performer who has averaged 25 points per game the past three years at East Leyden in Franklin Park, Ill. James Wilkes, 6-foot-7, of Dorsey High in Los Angeles, who was the only junior to make his city's All-Star team in 1975; LaVon Williams, also 6-foot-7, from Denver's Manual High; Albert (Slab) Jones, also 6-foot-7, from Worthing High in Houston; Johnny Parker, who stands 6-foot-8, of Central High in St. Louis; and 6-foot-9 Gig Sims of Redondo Beach (Calif.) High.

Grunwald has an excellent chance this year to become the first athlete in Illinois basketball history to earn All-State recognition for four successive years. He's also an outstanding student, with nearly a straight-A average.

the NBA with the Golden State Warriors, but he is expected to have the same basketball future. "He has the quickness and speed to play guard," says one member of the FAMILY WEEKLY panel, "and he handles the ball very well. He's excellent at taking the ball to the basket."

The same assessment is made of LaVon Williams—"very active, very quick, a good ballhandler"—who is rated one of Colorado's best-ever prep performers. Of Albert Jones, one recruiter says, "He plays good defense and rebounds well in addition to having good shooting range." Johnny Parker from St. Louis's Central High, is labeled, "a tremendous leaper with great quickness." Redondo Beach's Gig Sims is tagged as "a smaller version of Bill Walton."

College recruiters are high in their praise of several top senior swing men—players who are capable of playing either a small forward or big guard position. Among the best in this category are Mike O'Koren of Hudson Catholic in Jersey City, N.J., and Charles (Hawkeye) Whitney of DeMatha in Hyattsville, Md. Both are 6-foot-5; considered an "in-between" size for college ball, but each is expected to have a fine future.

Giant centers are always hotly pursued, and this year there are several outstanding "big men." The very best seem to be Ed Schouermann from Pittsburgh's Baldwin High, Stuart House from Denby High in Detroit, and Jawann Oldham of Cleveland High School in Seattle. Of the three, House is perhaps the most awesome physically. He stands 6-foot-10 and weighs 230 pounds. One college expert rates him the "top prospect in Detroit since Spencer Haywood."

Last year's poll of college basketball coaches and recruiters pointed up the fact that there were probably more outstanding forwards among the high school seniors than any other position. The guards seem to dominate this year. In fact, one guard, 6-foot-4 Darrell Griffith from Mule High in Louisville, "has a chance to become the first backcourt man to go right from high school into the pros," says one recruiter. "I think he could even hold his own against many of the top pros right now."

Rated just behind Griffith are 6-foot-1 Ron Perry from Catholic Memorial in West Roxbury, Mass., and 6-foot-3 Rich Branning from Marina High in Huntington Beach, Calif. "Perry has amazing intelligence on the floor for a young player," says a college coach, "and this intelligence is obvious in the classroom, too, where Ron does very well." Branning is noted as a player who directs his team's offense—the equivalent of the quarterback in football.

There are four Southern Californians on this year's list, but the Washington, D.C., area also seems especially loaded. There's Anthony (Jo Jo) Hunter, a 6-foot-2 guard from Mackin High; Bill Bryant, a 6-foot-4 guard at Archbishop Carroll; and Craig Shelton, a 6-foot-6 forward at Dunbar High. (Hawkeye Whitney is also from the Washington area).

Among this year's crop of top high school seniors, probably none matches Clyde Austin of Maggie L. Walker High School located in Richmond, Va., for pure shooting skill. Clyde, nicknamed "The Glide," scored more than 40 points in five games last year. His overall norm was 31.6 points.

Our panel of college recruiters and coaches selected the following 30 players—listed alphabetically by position—as the best high school senior basketball prospects in the nation:

But there are many fine players among this year's high school seniors who are being heavily recruited. One of these is a 6-foot-9 product of Farmingdale High School in New York, named Jim Graziano, Graziano averaged 26 points per game last season and is rated a solid bet for future stardom as a strong forward.

Other great high school forwards include Glen Grunwald, a lanky 6-foot-9 performer who has averaged 25 points per game the past three years at East Leyden in Franklin Park, Ill. James Wilkes, 6-foot-7, of Dorsey High in Los Angeles, who was the only junior to make his city's All-Star team in 1975; LaVon Williams, also 6-foot-7, from Denver's Manual High; Albert (Slab) Jones, also 6-foot-7, from Worthing High in Houston; Johnny Parker, who stands 6-foot-8, of Central High in St. Louis; and 6-foot-9 Gig Sims of Redondo Beach (Calif.) High.

James Wilkes, the Dorsey High School standout, is no relation to Jamaal Wilkes, last year's Rookie-of-the-Year in the NBA with the Golden State Warriors, but he is expected to have the same basketball future. "He has the quickness and speed to play guard," says one member of the FAMILY WEEKLY panel, "and he handles the ball very well. He's excellent at taking the ball to the basket."

The same assessment is made of LaVon Williams—"very active, very quick, a good ballhandler"—who is rated one of Colorado's best-ever prep performers. Of Albert Jones, one recruiter says, "He plays good defense and rebounds well in addition to having good shooting range." Johnny Parker from St. Louis's Central High, is labeled "a tremendous leaper with great quickness." Redondo Beach's Gig Sims is tagged as "a smaller version of Bill Walton."

College recruiters are high in their praise of several top senior swing men—players who are capable of playing either a small forward or big guard position. Among the best in this category are Mike O'Koren of Hudson Catholic in Jersey City, N.J., and Charles (Hawkeye) Whitney of DeMatha in Hyattsville, Md. Both are 6-foot-5, considered an "in-between" size for college ball, but each is expected to have a fine future.

Giant centers are always hotly pursued, and this year there are several outstanding "big men." The very best seem to be Ed Scheuermann from Pittsburgh's Baldwin High, Stuart House from Denby High in Detroit and Jawann Oldham of Cleveland High School in Seattle. Of the three, House is perhaps the most awesome physically. He stands 6-foot-10 and weighs 230 pounds. One college expert rates him the "top prospect in Detroit since Spencer Haywood."

Last year's poll of college basketball coaches and recruiters pointed up the fact that there were probably more outstanding forwards among the high school seniors than any other position. The guards seem to dominate this year. In fact, one guard, 6-foot-4 Darrell Griffith from Male High in Louisville, "has a chance to become the first backcourt man to go right from high school into the pros," says one recruiter. "I think he could even hold his own against many of the top pros right now."

Rated just behind Griffith are 6-foot-1 Ron Perry from Catholic Memorial in West Roxbury, Mass., and 6-foot-3 Rich Branning from Marina High in Huntington Beach, Calif. "Perry has amazing intelligence on the floor for a young player," says a college coach, "and this intelligence is obvious in the classroom, too, where Ron does very well." Branning is noted as a player who directs his team's offense—the equivalent of the quarterback in football.

There are four Southern Californians on this year's list, but the Washington, D.C., area also seems especially loaded. There's Anthony (Jo Jo) Hunter, a 6-foot-2 guard from Mackin High; Bill Bryant, a 6-foot-4 guard at Archbishop Carroll; and Craig Shelton, a 6-foot-6 forward at Dunbar High. (Hawkeye Whitney is also from the Washington area).

Among this year's crop of top high school seniors, probably none matches Clyde Austin of Maggie L. Walker High School located in Richmond, Va., for pure shooting skill. Clyde, nicknamed "The Glide," scored more than 40 points in five games last year. His overall norm was 31.6 points.

Our panel of college recruiters and coaches selected the following 30 players—listed alphabetically by position—as the best high school senior basketball prospects in the nation:

For the first time ever... a remarkably QUICK absolutely FOOLPROOF way to lose all the weight you want — PERMANENTLY.

Lose Weight While You Sleep!

ENTERTAINERS, ATHLETES, TEENAGERS, EVEN FAMOUS WEIGHT-LOSS PROGRAM FLUNK-OUTS HAVE LOST 10, 20, 50, UP TO 99 POUNDS OF UGLY FAT!

Not a diet — a weight loss revolution. Here is a proven alternative to every diet method ever used. The miraculous Slim-Through-Sleep Plan that has been clinically tested on over 2,000 overweight people.

Eat all the foods you ate before. For the first time, here is a weight-loss method that works even if you don't cooperate. No formulas to follow, no special foods to prepare, nothing to count or weigh. Best of all, the Slim-Through-Sleep method eliminates the single greatest cause for weight-loss failure — Will Power. That's right, the hardest part of any diet — is the fight to avoid food, and STS makes painful will power a thing of the past.

Almost immediately you will begin losing weight more easily than ever before in your life... effortless weight loss that your friends, even your own family, will notice right away!

Yes, even if every other method you've tried has failed, you can now lose every pound you want to — and never gain it back!

STS has worked near miracles with thousands of people. (Just look at some of the pictures and comments on this page.) With the Slim-Through-Sleep Plan you won't feel the least bit deprived. It won't be a matter of pushing yourself away from the dinner table... or doing strenuous exercises... or substituting foods.

5 MINUTES A DAY FOR 5 DAYS AND POUNDS START TO DISAPPEAR. For just five minutes before you go to sleep, follow the STS Plan... that's all. While you are sleeping, it's actually working.

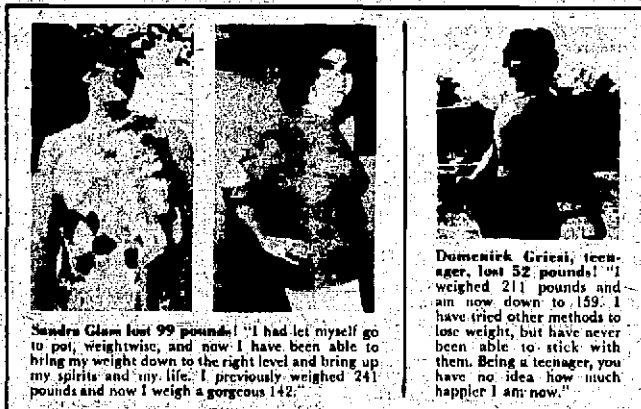

STS will actually leave you feeling more relaxed, free of tension and free of those unhealthy EXTRA pounds you've been carrying around for so long.

Before you know it, your spirits will soar to new heights. You'll have the self-confidence that comes from being pleased with your appearance. You will look and feel the way you deserve to, perhaps the way you thought was impossible before.

No "starvation," no substitutes. Eat every food you eat now.

Everything that has been unpleasant about losing weight before no longer exists. If you love mashed potatoes smothered in gravy... rich cheesecake... whipped cream on your desserts, you'll still be able to enjoy these and every delicious food you have always loved. Never again will you have to contend with pills that leave you jittery; exercises that leave you exhausted and achy; food cravings that have you climbing the walls. Spend just 5 minutes with the STS plan the first evening you get it and we promise you results in weight loss that will startle you. Without suffering a moment of anxiety you will shed pound after pound quickly and effortlessly — and you'll never regain that weight again.

Sandra Glam lost 99 pounds! "I had let myself go to pot, weightwise, and now I have been able to bring my weight down to the right level and bring up my spirits and my life. I previously weighed 241 pounds and now I weigh a gorgeous 142."

Domenick Grizzi, teenager, lost 52 pounds! "I weighed 211 pounds and am now down to 159. I have tried other methods to lose weight, but have never been able to stick with them. Being a teenager, you have no idea how much happier I am now."

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen makes a quick-and-easy pasta dish. "First cook your noodles and peas," says Marilyn. "Then make the quick sauce in an electric skillet or chafing dish right at the table."

Speedy Italian Noodles You Make at the Table!

Italian-food lovers call green and white noodles "straw and hay." Here, the noodles are tossed in a creamy sauce full of ham, chicken and peas.

Why Women Baffle Men—And Vice Versa

By John E. Gibson

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. It's hard for men to understand women, and vice versa, because they see themselves differently, they have different self-concepts and different goals where personality development is concerned.
2. Women constantly baffle men by their superior ability to understand others' attitudes

True or False? The more attractive a woman is, the harder it is for a man to get to know her. (See number 3.)

- and intentions without the need for words.
3. The more attractive a woman is, the harder it is for a man to get to know her.
 4. How you feel when you've done something you know you shouldn't depends on whether you're a man or a woman.

ANSWERS

1. True. In a Louisiana State University study, men and women students were asked to describe their actual and ideal selves. Results: "For both actual and ideal selves, men described themselves as tough and women described themselves as tender. Men described themselves as more rational than did the women. (The men saw themselves as more practical, matter-of-fact, more disposed to think, to reason, and to be guided by intellect rather than emotion.) Ideally the men wanted to be tougher, more dominating; women wanted to be more relaxed, tender, imaginative.
2. True. At Harvard University, investigators administered a test to more than 130 groups of men and women. Results: It was found that women of all ages were definitely better than men at detecting non-verbal cues (tones of voice, facial expressions, etc.).
3. True. In psychological studies at two Southern universities, men and women students who did not know each other were paired for a given period with the objective of becoming acquainted. Subsequently, confidential questionnaires were administered on how well each subject got to know his partner and how much self-information each was willing to disclose to the other. The results of the study revealed interesting differences between the sexes: "To the extent that males viewed themselves as attractive, they revealed more information about themselves to their partners. On the other hand, the more favorable the female subject's self-rating of physical attractiveness, the less she disclosed about herself." Investigators suggest that perhaps those women who, in their own eyes, are physically beautiful are more willing to "let their looks speak for them."
4. True. Psychological studies show that if you're a woman and do something that you know you shouldn't, you're likely to react with strong feelings of guilt and a troubled conscience. If you're a man, however, your predominant emotion is likely to be fear—apprehension over the consequences of your act or concern that you'll be found out.

CLIMBING STRAWBERRIES ARE PERENNIALS

Ever-Bearing — Produce All Summer Until Frost
You don't have to buy and plant these Climbing Strawberries every year! Because they are hardy perennials, they'll grow year-after-year. And each spring they'll produce even more lustily, increasing in length quickly and forming 5 to 6 rosettes at intervals. These rosettes produce clusters of flowers from which the berries fruit profusely this year. In turn, the rosettes produce more runners which bear more flowers and fruit. A prolific, splendid plant to enjoy for years and years. It is truly ever-bearing.

EASY TO GROW

These plants have proven their ability to thrive and produce and withstand severe winters. And you don't need a lot of space to grow them in . . . only a couple of square feet of ground per plant! Imagine a Climbing Strawberry plant from only 2 square feet of ground! Amazing, but true. Planting and care are simple, full directions come with your order.

3-MONTH WRITTEN GUARANTEE

Climbing Strawberry plants are shipped to arrive in perfect condition for planting — to grow and produce berries; or plants will be replaced absolutely FREE anytime within 3 months!

BILL BRADLEY
And he's smart, too

How Bill Bradley, basketball's superman and super scholar, changed the scope of the game: "The sportsworld never entirely trusted Bradley. He was not dependent on the kindness of owners, coaches and sportswriters. He obviously wasn't hungry in the way that promoters understand. He was so close to the model son that sportsworld promised to produce that he seemed an impostor. One thought of spy movies in which the foreign agent was unmasked because he spoke English too well to be native born. In the same way, Bradley was not real—a WASP from Princeton, a Rhodes scholar, a man whose business agent declared before his rookie season that Bradley would some day become President. The fact that Bradley spurned the pro game for two years while he studied at Oxford was unsettling for many sports fans, but eventually understandable. Bradley was already so rich, intelligent, handsome, well-connected and famous—what could he gain by playing a game that at the time wasn't that popular, a professional sport and was dominated by and attended by blacks? It was Bradley's presence that made the game acceptable even to the New York white woman and to the New York executive." From "SportsWorld: An American Dreamland," by Robert Lipsyte (Quadrangle, $10).

Happiness as a househusband: Over a year ago, Thomas Gregory concluded that he'd never make it as an electronics expert. Mr. Gregory, of East Windsor, N.J., had been laid off several times. So his wife Margaret went to work full time (she had only worked part time before because of their children), and Tom became a househusband. What was it like? "The change was more dramatic for me than it was for Margaret," says Tom. "I am part of that generation that believes a man's profession is all-important. When Margaret and I switched roles, my whole self-image collapsed. I also had to contend with the women in the neighborhood who found my daytime presence most disquieting. The biggest surprise was finding out how much time actually goes into housework. I imagined that I would have loads of free time; but no. What's my reward? What is my pay? Seeking and getting the approval of my wife and children for a clean house and good meals. I seem to enjoy life more, and I've earned the reputation as a great den mother!" (But wait until Margaret and the kids start taking him for granted.)

secret. "I've wanted to work with my father in his garden for some time now, but he said I'd have to prove I had a green thumb first. I knew that sunflowers aren't difficult to grow, so I decided to grow the tallest one ever," said Sigmund. He certainly succeeded: his flowers are 11 feet high and have stems that are an incredible 8 inches in circumference. Why won't he share his secret? "If I want to remain famous, I can't afford to tell others my methods. But I will say that talking to plants does work."
